Clifford Amyx retired as Professor of Art at the University of Kentucky in 1974. As an artist he has prepared woodcuts and typography for an extensive series of illustrated books on such themes as Oriental proverbs and European painters. His articles on Kentucky art and artists have appeared in the Filson Club History Quarterly, The Kentucky Review, and Missouri Historical Review. An article on the Kentucky sculptor Joel Tanner Hart is forthcoming.

Joseph H. Gardner is a member of the University of Kentucky English Department. In addition to his book, Dickens in America: Twain, Howells, and Norris, he has published essays on Aubrey Beardsley, T. H. Huxley, D. G. Rossetti, and other Victorian worthies.

H. R. Stoneback is Professor of English at the State University of New York (New Paltz), and Director of the Regional Studies program of the Carl Carmer Center for Catskill Mountain and Hudson River Studies. His books include two literary studies, Hemingway's Paris: Our Paris? (1990) and Selected Stories of William Faulkner (1984), as well as a volume of poetry, Cartographers of the Deus Loci (1982). His essays on American, British, Chinese, and French literature have appeared in Aethlon, Arete, Christianity and Literature, The Hemingway Review, The Mississippi Quarterly, Modern Fiction Studies, and many other journals.

Jamie Griggs Tevis graduated from Eastern Kentucky University in 1952 and received a masters degree from Ohio University in 1984. Several of her articles have appeared in regional magazines, including Appalachian Heritage, Mountaineer Times, and Back Home in Kentucky.
