REPORT OF THE PUBLICATIONS COMMITTEE ON THE CLEARINGHOUSE PROJECT
Jean Holcomb, Law Librarian
Norfolk Law Library

As of April 30, eighteen libraries have contributed materials to the Clearinghouse project. Since the last report, two new categories of materials have been added: law firm library handbook and court library collection development policy. The Clearinghouse contains, as well, the following types of in-house publications: computer lab and CALR materials, disaster plan, gift letter, legal bibliography materials, library guides, pathfinders and automated library system proposals.

The article describing the Clearinghouse project which first appeared in the Fall "Southeastern Law Librarian" was picked up and reprinted in the November 1988, Chapter News column of the "AALL Newsletter". As a result of this publicity, requests for copies of materials have come from across the country.

The invitation to contribute the in-house publications of your library remains open. Libraries which have sent materials since the last newsletter are:
Smith, Anderson, Blount, Dorsett, Mitchell & Jernigan--Raleigh
U.S. Courts Library--Norfolk

Please contact the Norfolk Law Library staff at our new address if you have any questions or requests.
