SOUTHEASTERN LAW LIBRARIAN
ANNUAL REPORT 1989-90

Submitted by Michael J. Petit
Editor and Committee Chair

COMMITTEE MEMBERS

The 1988-89 Newsletter Committee members are: Michael J. Petit, Chair (University of Miami), Jack Bissett (Washington & Lee University), Joseph Cross (University of South Carolina), Mary F. Cross (Stearns Weaver Miller), Penny C. Gibson (University of Alabama), Linda M. Golian (University of Miami), Michael J. Lynch (Florida State University), Ebba Jo Sexton (University of Kentucky), and Claudia R. Ward (Carlton, Fields, Ward).

ARTICLES

The Newsletter has included a combination of substantive articles and news items. The response from committee chairs with news about their committees has been excellent, making committee news one of the strong points of the Newsletter. Other regular features include the President's letter, Placement listings, and S.E.A.A.L.L. Briefs.

The Editor receives numerous news items and bits of information which have to be sorted through for timeliness and relevance. Often this material is not used in the Newsletter because it either shows up in every other newsletter, or it happens to be nothing more than a publisher requesting free advertising. The Editor's Corner column has solicited articles, suggestions, criticisms, etc., from the membership. The response to these appeals has been good, if not overwhelming.

PRINTING AND MAILING

The Newsletter continues to be printed and distributed by Law Book Exchange. The actual printing is done by a printer contracted by Randall Brown and Cheryl Miller of Law Book Exchange, and the mailing is done by Law Book Exchange using its bulk mailing permit; charges for the postage are forwarded to the Treasurer of the Chapter. This arrangement has resulted in considerable savings to the Chapter in both time and money. Their turnaround time of two to three weeks has been acceptable.

Postage costs normally run about $130.00 per issue. The income received from advertising more than covers these mailing costs.

ADVERTISING

There are currently seven companies who advertise in the Newsletter. These patrons are: Carswell Legal Publications, D & S Publishers, Ebsco Subscription Services, Federal Document Retrieval, William W. Gaunt & Sons, William S. Hein & Company, and Law Book Exchange. This constitutes a decrease in one from a year ago with the loss of Washington Document Service. Several other firms were contacted about advertising but decided not to at the present time.

Each of these advertisers pays $100.00 for a business-card sized advertisement to appear in four issues of the Newsletter. The one exception is Law Book Exchange, whose printing costs more than cover its ad.

SEALL TAKES OXFORD

Along with University of Mississippi law alumni and UM Derby Day activities, the Southeastern Chapter held its annual meeting in Oxford, Mississippi during the weekend of April 5 through 7. Excellent programming was presented within the theme of "Law and Literature" and featured presentations on PC Basics, Abortion Law Rhetoric, Historic Preservation Law and on Building a Basic Foreign/International Law Collection. Over 140 SEALL members, exhibitors and vendors attended the meeting. Twenty-four first-time attendees were present.

During the business meeting, reports were presented on the year's chapter activities, including the awarding of 10 scholarships enabling members to attend programs, efforts to establish ties with regional library schools and a possible joint meeting with SWALL. The second Special Service Award was given to Larry Wenger of The University of Virginia, a long time member, former officer, committee chair and local arrangements chair.

SEALL MANAGEMENT INSTITUTE

In conjunction with its annual meeting, SEALL sponsored its first post-convention institute on management. Kaycee Hale, Executive Director of the Resource and Research Center of the Fashion Institute of Design and Merchandising spoke on "Organizational Development: Library Power and Performance." A frequent lecturer, Ms. Hale spoke on ways librarians can maximize leadership positions within their institution and methods by which librarians can market themselves, their department and their organization. In addition to the 20 law librarians in attendance, approximately 15 non-law librarians from the states of Arkansas, Tennessee, & Mississippi attended. The Southeastern chapter has focused on efforts to build bridges among the librarians and library organizations in the region. Encouragement of non-law attendees to this institute is one of those efforts.
SEALL Spring Meeting & Institute

The Southeastern Association of Law Libraries will convene in Oxford, Mississippi, April 6-8, 1990, for its annual spring meeting and a post-convention institute. Programs for the annual meeting have been arranged under the theme of “An Anthology of Issues Facing Law Librarians;” certainly suitable given the historical and literary surroundings in which they will be presented. In fact, “Law and Literature” will be one of the leading topics, with talks offered by Professors John Cole (Mercer University) and Teresa Phelps (Notre Dame). Other programs will consider “PC Basics” and “Historic Preservation Law” (Stephen Dennis, Executive Director of the National Center for Historic Preservation). Claire Germain (Duke University) will discuss how to build a basic foreign/international law collection. Further information about the program is available from Tim Coggins (University of North Carolina), Program Chair, while Local Arrangements Chair Ellis Tucker (University of Mississippi) can provide details on registration and accommodations.

Immediately following the conclusion of the annual meeting on Saturday, April 7, an institute on “Organizational Development: Library Power and Performance” will be presented by Kaycee Hale, Executive Director of the Resource and Research Center of the Fashion Institute of Design and Merchandising. A Saturday afternoon session will focus on team building, communication, and staff development, motivation, and morale within the library. Sunday morning's concluding session will consider the library in its larger institutional setting, addressing topics such as marketing, and the library’s role and image in the organization. Jim Heller (William and Mary) of the SEALL Education Committee may be contacted for further information about the institute.

NOCALL Spring Institute

The Northern California Association of Law Libraries will hold its spring institute on Friday, March 16, 1990, at the Claremont Resort and Tennis Club. Titled “Legal Research: Librarians as Teachers,” the program will focus on legal research education from a variety of perspectives. Speakers will include Bob Berring (University of California, Berkeley) and Jim Martin (Crosby, Heafey et al, Oakland). Further information is available from Joan Howland (University of California, Berkeley) or Nora Skrukrud (Crosby, Heafey et al).

LLAGNY Database

The Law Library Association of Greater New York has become the first professional library association in the country to have a database on ABA/Net. The menu driven database contains the following files: (1) Information about LLAGNY (e.g., history, board members, committees); (2) selected articles from the Association’s newsletter, Law Lines; (3) complete membership listings by library and member; (4) up-to-date placement listings; and (5) a calendar of events and notices. Through the Legal Conference database found on the main ABA/Net menu, LLAGNY members have access to a bulletin board which can be used to communicate ideas, thoughts, or problems with colleagues. LLAGNY intends to use the extensive communications capabilities of ABA/Net to facilitate interaction between board members, committee chairs, and the entire membership. For further information, contact Amy Comeau (Haight Gardner Poor & Havens) who is serving as the ABA/Net liaison for LLAGNY.

NOALL November Workshop

The New Orleans Association of Law Librarians held its November workshop on Saturday, November 11, 1989, at the Loyola Law Library. Two separate programs were offered: “Presenting Yourself on Paper: How Your Résumé May Make or Break You,” offered by Peter Schmidt, Director of Law School Placement, Tulane University, and “Saving the Life of A Book: Book Construction and Repair,” presented by Rich Wilson, Loyola University Library Acquisitions Department, and Bill Kitchen, Loyola University Visual Arts Department.

Enclosed is a slight variation on the article we put in previously about the library schools. The response still hasn't been as good as I would have liked. If there's only room for the form, that's fine with me. I have also enclosed my report from the Abortion law presentation at the meeting. As always, please feel free to edit as necessary and to let me know if you have any questions.

Abortion Law Rhetoric

Leslie Gerwin, Director of Development and Community Relations for Planned Parenthood of New Orleans, presented a tour through the law and regulation of abortion, focusing on the legal consequences of the rhetoric involved in this debate.

A review of the legal history reveals that the first abortion laws in this country were passed in the mid-1850's. The issues at the time were 1) the woman's health due to the lack of antibiotics and the performance of abortions by quacks; 2) the medical profession's interest in establishing a monopoly in the performance of abortions; and 3) the desire of male legislators to prevent women from changing their roles in society.

Abortion laws originally were concerned with contraception and grew from the same interest in keeping women from controlling the reproductive process. In the 1870's the concept of the morality of abortion entered into the rhetoric in the form of laws against any form of contraception. Fetal rights did not become part of the legal rhetoric until a hundred years later with the Roe (Roe v. Wade, 410 U.S. 113, 93 S.Ct. 705 (1973)) decision. Roe established the concept of balancing the woman's right to privacy against the state's interest in a potential human life.

Issues tested during the years between the Roe and Webster decisions were 1) bans on advertising that abortions were performed; 2) waiting periods between the decision and the procedure; 3) spousal consent; 4) parental/judicial consent. Each was rejected, the latter two on the grounds that it is impossible to legislate good marital or family relations.

The Webster (Webster v. Reproductive Health Services, 109 S.Ct. 3040 (1989)) decision introduced a change in the rhetoric by allowing the regulation of public facilities, employees and funding. The court thought a state's interest in the fetus was equally compelling before viability (the time at which meaningful life can be sustained apart from the mother) as after viability.

Among the issues Gerwin sees coming in the future are 1) informed consent (what the doctor must tell the woman); 2) attempted regulation of the location at which an abortion may be performed (clinics vs. hospitals); 3) the question of who can perform an abortion; and 4) assigning criminal penalties which carry a greater stigma. The biggest question may be the questions which will arise should the constitutional definition of a person be expanded to include an unborn child at the moment of conception. Would the parent be entitled to a tax deduction at the time of conception? How would inheritance laws be affected?

Gerwin closed citing Planned Parenthood statistics showing the United States having the highest rate of unintentional pregnancies; the highest abortion rate; the lowest rate for the use of contraceptives and the worst system of sex education in the world.
Public Relations Library School Survey

As you should have heard, one of the goals of the Publicity and Public Relations Committee this year is to establish contacts with the library schools in the region in hopes of building long-term relationships with the schools. We want to encourage library school students to consider law librarianship as a career. The Committee feels that using an alumnus in conjunction with a local contact would foster stronger interest from the library school. Therefore, we would like to know your library school alma mater. In this issue you will find a form to complete with this information. This has become a very interesting statistical question, so please complete the form even if you did not graduate from a southeastern library school.

Between those times every Annual Meeting attendee will hear interesting ideas, discover practical applications, and be exposed to stimulating and challenging speakers.

The Program Committee selected "An Anthology of Issues Facing Law Librarians" as the theme, an obvious attempt to associate the programs with the historical and literary surroundings of Oxford, Mississippi. Additionally, the Committee decided to focus two programs specifically on the "Law and Literature" theme in order to further accentuate the literary environs. The program outline follows.

Chapter 10: "DIALOG Pilot Program at the University of Florida Law Library"

Chapter 11: "Building a Basic Foreign/International Law Collection (firms and small academic) and Research in those Areas"

The above outline illustrates the attempt to offer alternatives in each time slot (except the opening session) for academic, law firm, technical services, public services, and other special interests. The 1989-90 Program Committee consists of Donna Bennett (Northern Kentucky University), Rick Buchanen (College of William and Mary), Herb E. Cihak (University of Mississippi), Timothy Coggins (North Carolina), Claire Engel (Kilpatrick and Cody), Robert Munro (University of Florida), Alva Stone (Florida State University), and Anne Washburn (Smith, Helms, Mullis & Moore). SEAALL 1990 Institute

Oxford, Mississippi
April 7-8, 1990

SEAALL is sponsoring an management institute focusing on library organizational development immediately following the 1990 Annual Meeting. The institute will take place on the afternoon of April 7 and the morning of April 8. The registration fee will be $35.00.

The institute, titled "Organizational Development: Library Power and Performance," will be presented by Kaycee Hale, Executive Director of the Resource and Research Center of the Fashion Institute of Design & Merchandising. Ms. Hale, an extremely popular speaker on library management issues, annually speaks to dozens of library organizations throughout the country.

The Saturday afternoon session titled "Leadership Options and Opportunities: Maximizing Internal Development" will focus on team building, communication, and staff development, motivation, and morale within the library.

The Sunday morning session, which is titled "Dynamic Organizational Skills: Maximizing External Effectiveness," will focus on the library in its larger institutional setting (for example, the university or the law firm). Marketing the library and the library's role and image in the larger organization are among the topics that will be addressed.

The institute is being coordinated by the SEAALL Education Committee whose members are Jim Heller, Peggy Martin, Tina McLellan, and Rosalie Sanderson. While a more detailed agenda will appear in print at a later date, feel free to contact any of the committee members for more information about the institute.

FROM: J. Wesley Cochran, President
DATE: 9/12/89
SUBJECT: PRESIDENTIAL MUSINGS, ISSUE # 2

1. Institute: Some or all of you may have heard by now that, because of scheduling difficulties with the principal speaker selected by the Education Committee, our Institute will be held after the Annual Meeting, April 7-8 (Saturday afternoon and Sunday morning). Jim Heller will coordinate the timing with Tim Coggins to prevent conflicts between the Annual Meeting program and the Institute. Current plans call for the Annual Meeting to end with our picnic lunch at Rowan Oak (William Faulkner’s home). I expect that many of our members will attend the Institute, and if we publicize the Institute among public and academic library circles in northern Mississippi, northwestern Alabama, southwestern Tennessee, and eastern Arkansas, I believe that many others will attend. Registrations should cover our costs.

The Education Committee selected Kaycee Hale, the Librarian at the Fashion Institute to be our principal speaker. Some of you may have seen her at the AALL Annual Meeting in Reno. According to Jim, she made 28 presentations before professional library groups in 1988. Among law library groups, she has addressed the Phoenix Area Association of Law Libraries and the Minnesota Association of Law Libraries.

2. Nominating Committee: Please send your recommendations for Chapter officer candidates to Mary Cross. Having served as Chair of this committee two years ago, I know that it is better to have too many good prospects than too few.

3. News from the Publicity & Public Relations Committee: Kudos go to Hazel Johnson for organizing her committee in a spirited (i.e. "Let’s do it!") manner. The Committee this year will focus on building contacts with library schools in the region. Some of you may be called on to visit the schools for "career day"-type programs, or speak to a "Special Libraries" class where you can spread the word about law librarianship. Hazel’s committee also plans to build contacts by developing a brochure about the Chapter (somewhat similar to a law firm resume) to be distributed to library schools.
4. Communications: I would appreciate each Committee Chair adding me as a "cc:" on any general correspondence to committee members. This keeps me informed on committee developments and saves your time and mine by precluding the need for regular reports or telephone calls to check on progress.

5. Stationery & Postage: If your employer cannot absorb the costs associated with your chapter activities, and you need Chapter stationery and assistance with postage, please let me know.

6. 1991 Annual Meeting Site: Presently, we have no firm offers for our 1991 Annual Meeting, and I know of only one person who is considering seriously the possibility of extending an offer. Please feel free to contact possible hosts and encourage them to make offers.

7. AALL Chapter Visitor: I requested AALL Executive Director Judy Genesen to designate Kathy Larson as our official AALL Visitor at our Annual Meeting. After discussing the matter with each of the officers and Judy, I felt strongly that we should invite Kathy as our visitor to demonstrate that we support her as a member of the AALL Executive Board. Since she is new to our Chapter, this will be an opportunity for many of our members to meet her for the first time. I also discussed this with Carol Billings and Kay Todd, the other Executive Board member from our Chapter, and both of them expressed their support with typical magnanimity.

8. AALL Executive Board Meeting: I have a copy of a form for submitting possible agenda items for Executive Board meetings. If you would like us to submit an item, please let me know.

9. Leadership Training: The AALL Leadership Training program for Chapter Presidents will be in Chicago on Sunday, October 29. As I have mentioned to some of you, I plan to attend the training session, at very little cost to our Chapter. Since I will be giving my program on time management at the Midwest Regional Conference of Law Libraries on Friday and Saturday, October 27-28, most of my travel expenses will be paid.

   The next training session is scheduled for June 16 in Minneapolis in conjunction with the AALL Annual Meeting.

   I think we have some exciting programs underway this year, and I think that we can build a strong base for future years' growth. Let me know how I can help you.
