CALLED SESSION OF

THE SENATE

OF THE

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY,

BEGUN AND HELD IN THE TOWN OF FRANKFORT, ON THURSDAY THE SEVENTEENTH DAY OF JANUARY, IN THE YEAR OF OUR LORD 1861, AND OF THE COMMONWEALTH THE SIXTY-NINTH.

JOURNAL OF THE SENATE.

THURSDAY, JANUARY 17, 1861.

At a General Assembly, begun and held for the Commonwealth of Kentucky, at the Capitol, in the city of Frankfort, on Thursday, the 17th of January, 1861, (being the day designated and appointed by the proclamation of the Governor, issued on the 27th day of December, 1860,) a majority of the members elected to serve in the Senate appeared and took their seats. James Simpson, the member returned, to serve in this House, from the 27th Senatorial District, appeared, presented the certificate of his election, and having taken the oaths prescribed by the Constitution, took his seat.

Mr. Bruner offered the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That a committee be appointed to inform the House of Representatives that the Senate has met, organized, and is ready for business.

Which was read and adopted.

Messrs. Bruner, Taylor, and Grundy, were appointed said committee, who retired, and in a short time appeared, and reported that they had discharged the duties assigned them, and were thereupon discharged.

A message was received from the House of Representatives, by the hands of Mr. Hitt, informing the Senate that the House of Representatives had effected its organization, was now ready to proceed to business, and had appointed a committee, to act in conjunction with a similar committee of the Senate, to inform the Governor that the Legislature had organized, and was now ready to proceed to the transaction of legislative business.

Mr. Prall offered the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That the several ministers of the Gospel, residing in Frankfort, be invited by the Speaker to open the meetings of the Senate each morning with prayer.

Which was adopted.

Mr. Grover offered the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That a committee of three, on the part of the Senate, to act with such committee as the House may direct, be appointed, to wait on the Governor, and inform him that the Legislature has convened, organized, and is ready to proceed to legislative business, and to receive any communication it may be his pleasure to make.

Which was adopted.
Messrs. Grover, Rhea, and Prall were appointed said committee, who retired, and in a short time appeared, and reported that they had discharged the duties assigned them, and were thereupon discharged.

Mr. Pennebaker offered the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That William Pruett and Charles Campbell act as pages for the Senate for the present called session.

Which was adopted.

A message in writing was received from the Governor, by the hands of Hon. Thomas B. Monroe, jr., Secretary of State, which is as follows, viz:

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives:

When in March last the Legislature adjourned, and with kind remembrances of the winter's association you separated for your respective homes, I did not apprehend that alarming complication of our federative system which has rendered imperative upon me your convocation in extraordinary session. The Republic seemed then launched upon a career of limitless national prosperity, while its citizens enjoyed an aggregate of domestic and social happiness unequalled in the condition of any other people. Covering twenty-three degrees of latitude, and sixty degrees of longitude, our territory was nearly equal to that of all Europe, and embraced a soil of unsurpassed fertility, adapted by every pleasing variety of climate to all the products of the earth. Our commerce, sustained by an extended system of internal improvements reaching, through the media of turnpikes, railroads, canals, rivers, and inland seas, to the very heart of every section of the country, and finding its outlets upon the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, and upon the Gulf of Mexico, may be said to have commanded the markets of the world. The keels of our steamers plowed every ocean, and the seas and navigable streams of the most remote regions were whitened by the sails of our merchant vessels. Our people, numbering thirty millions of freemen of all nations and races, and realizing as the fruit of their industry, $2,000,000,000 in annual productions; by their great and thriving cities; by their magnificent churches, school-houses, colleges, and charitable institutions; by their progress in agriculture and manufactures; by their advance in the arts and sciences, gave unmistakable evidence of a degree of internal prosperity not reached by the same number of people under any other form of government. In view of these great blessings and encouraging signs, the glorious results of less than a century's growth of the Republic, I had fondly hoped the union of the States would be perpetual, and did not doubt that the next cycle of fifty years would more than realize the poet's wildest dream.

With a heavy heart I turn to contemplate the present condition of our once happy country. At the very time when every industrial pursuit was yielding its highest remuneration, we have witnessed a stagnation in trade. The earth has responded with an abundant harvest to the enlightened cultivation of the agriculturalists; but while the crop awaits transportation to market, commerce is paralyzed, and the laws of exchange disordered. The business of the country was never in a more healthy condition, nor our people in the main more prosperous; yet credit is destroyed, confidence lost, and financial ruin imminent. These phenomena can only find their explanation in the troubled condition of our political affairs. We, the people of the United States, are no longer one people, united and friendly. The ties of fraternal love and concord, which once bound us together, are sundered. Though the Union of the States may, by the abstract reasoning of a class, be construed still to exist, it is really and practically, to an extent at least, fatally impaired. The confederacy is rapidly resolving into its original integral parts, and its late loyal members are intent upon contracting wholly new relations. Reluctant as we may be to realize the dread calamity, the great Fact of Revolution stares us in the face, demands recognition, and will not be theorized away. Nor is the worst yet told. We are not yet encouraged to hope that this revolution will be bloodless. A collision of arms has even now occurred between the Federal Government and the authorities of a late member of the Union, and the issue threatens to involve the whole country in fratricidal war. It is under these circumstances of peculiar gloom that you have been summoned.

To your trust must now be committed, in great measure, the destinies of our beloved State, and upon you devolves the solemn responsibility of so wielding the accorded influence of Kentucky in this momentous crisis, as shall conserve the honor and happiness of our people and promote the good of all. I can only beseech you, by all you hold dear in this sad hour of our country's peril, to cast aside old party affiliations, and, looking facts full in the face as they actually exist, to address yourselves earnestly to the great work before you.

Our present unfortunate political complications are the legitimate scions of underlying causes against which all the great conservative statesmen of the age have solemnly warned their countrymen. A political organization based upon the one idea of hostility to the institution of African slavery, and embodying as one of its material elements of strength, an intolerant sectional fanaticism, has been for years steadily gathering power in the non-slaveholding States, and has at last exhibited national ascendancy in the election of Abraham Lincoln, its faithful exponent, to the Presidency of the United States. It is true that triumph was reached through all the forms of law, but it was effected by the agency of purely sectional votes, and rests upon sectional animosity. By virtue of that election, the Federal Government will be committed to the control of the Republican party, and administered upon a platform of principles destructive to our rightful equality as States and citizens, and fatal to the stability and security of our whole social organization.

Receiving the verdict pronounced on the 6th of November last as the deliberate expression of the sentiments of the citizens of the North, and as indicative of the settled purpose of the dominant party to administer the Government detrimentally to their vital interests, the people of several Southern States, immediately upon its announcement, initiated movements looking to the speedy severance of their relations with the other States and with the General Government. These movements progressed with startling rapidity, and were sustained by such unanimity of feeling in the several States as rendered all resistance idle and useless. Meantime patriotic efforts have not been wanting to effect an adjustment of the difficulties and restore the former friendly relations of the States; but I regret to say, to this hour with little hope of success.

My humble endeavors have been earnestly addressed to the work of bringing about a convention of the slaveholding States, believing that their united voice in demanding just and reasonable guarantees against the future invasion of their constitutional rights by the dominant power would achieve the object and reunite the States. Had such a movement been early initiated in the border States, I am assured it would have been favorably responded to by the whole South, in which event I firmly believe our embarrassments would ere this have presented fair prospect of adjustment. But the proposition met with limited favor here, was violently assailed, and the time passed. It is now too late. The revolution has progressed beyond that point.

Soon after the election of Mr. Lincoln, in order to place Kentucky, as far as I could, in her true position, and in answer to continued inquiries for my views, I addressed a letter to the Editor of the Kentucky Yeoman, which is herewith transmitted to you as embodying a more elaborate expression of my opinions.

On the 9th of December last, believing there was still a hope of bringing about united action on the part of the slaveholding States, I addressed a letter to the Governors of the Southern States, urging a conference with a view to an adjustment on the basis therein presented. That paper is herewith submitted to your consideration.

On the 27th of December the Hon. S. F. Hale, a commissioner from the State of Alabama, called upon me at the seat of Government and communicated to me in writing the purpose of his commission. I responded in writing, again urging the importance of conference by the slaveholding States, and still clinging to the hope that such action would elicit a patriotic response from the Northern people, if not from the Representative men of that section. That correspondence is also now transmitted to you.

A Commissioner from the State of Mississippi, Hon. Mr. Featherstone, also called upon me in December, on a similar mission. I gave him verbally the same response.

In Congress the efforts of the friends of the Union have not been more successful. Various propositions for adjustment have been made, and measures without number submitted to the Republican members for their approbation, as alternatives of a disruption of the Government. But a radical difference of principle was found to be an insurmountable obstacle to every proposed scheme. The recognition by the government of property in slaves, its inviolability in the States, and protection in the Territories, constituted the basis of the demands of the South. The Republicans maintain towards this principle an unyielding opposition. And herein lies the great impediment to all compromise. Parties resting upon principles so directly antagonistic can not, without material concession, unite upon any measure involving the subject of difference.

Among other propositions of compromise offered, I beg to call your attention to the constitutional amendments proposed by our own distinguished Senator, the Hon. John J. Crittenden, and ask for them an expression of your approbation. While they do not secure to the slave States the full measure of their constitutional equality, I should be willing, in view of their practical value, to accept them rather than dissolution. Certainly these guarantees, asked by the resolutions of Mr. Crittenden, are the least security the South can with safety accept; and their distinguished author estimated aright the sentiment of our people when he expressed the opinion that Kentucky would not be content with less. But I regret to say that even these fair, just, and moderate demands have been sternly rejected by the dominant party. Insensible to the direful calamity impending over us, crazed by power or blinded by fanaticism, the representative men of the Republican party, leaders whose words control the opinions of millions of misguided disciples, voted in a body against every proposition embodied in the amendments moved by Mr. Crittenden. They have gone even further. They announce in the halls of Congress and through the press, in public places and in private circles, that they have no compromise to make, no concession to offer, and no assurances to give other than that the Federal Government will be administered by Mr. Lincoln in accordance with the principles of the Republican (Chicago) platform. Thus firm in position, obstinate in spirit, and sullen in temper, the Republicans have thwarted every scheme devised to restrain the seceding States. Instead of retarding, their unsuccessful efforts at adjustment have rather precipitated disunion. The secession feeling has gathered strength every day, extended throughout the cotton and sugar-growing States, and is now encroaching upon those nearer the confines of the non-slaveholding sections. On the 20th of December, South Carolina, by the unanimous vote of a Convention of Delegates fresh from the people, passed an ordinance of secession, severing her relations with the United States, and reassuming her original sovereignty. On the — day of January, the State of Mississippi, by a vote of her people approaching unanimity, assumed a like position among the nations of the world. Alabama and Florida, a few days after, announced to the world similar action. Georgia, Louisiana, Arkansas, and Texas have unmistakably indicated their purpose to assume like independence. It now seems inevitable, that before your deliberations will probably close, eight States will have withdrawn from the confederacy, and most probably will be in consultation touching the organization of a new Federative Government. It cannot be successfully responded in refutation of this presentation of facts, that the secession ordinances are nullities. I have no disposition at such a time to indulge a dissection touching the abstract questions which might be raised. We have to deal with facts as actually existing, and have no use for hair-splitting theories. I assume, that in a very few days eight States will have declared their sovereign independence, and that, to that extent at least, our Union will have ceased to exist, inasmuch as no power on earth can coerce their unwilling allegiance to the Federal Government. In that contingency, now so imminent as to be almost a certainty upon which you may safely project your action, what attitude shall Kentucky assume, and by virtue of what authority shall her external relations be hereafter determined?

Kentucky will not submit to the degradation of inequality in the Union. Conscious of the will and ability of her citizens to maintain their honor, their rights, and freedom, she will protect them in the Union or out of it. Kentucky has to this hour borne herself with the dignity, the forbearance, and the moderation becoming her historic character. She has borne much, and will bear much for the cause of the Union. But in my opinion the people of Kentucky will never consent to remain in this confederacy, now abandoned by a large portion of the slaveholding members, with no guarantees of protection from the anti-slavery power now dominant. Kentucky will not and ought not to submit to the principles and policy avowed by the Republican party, but will resist, and resist to the death, if necessary.

But I recall the suggestive inquiry just put. In view of the partial disruption of the Union, the secession of eight or ten States, the establishment of a Southern Confederated Republic, and the administration of this Government upon the principles of the Chicago platform—a condition of our country most likely near at hand—what attitude will Kentucky hold, and by virtue of what authority shall her external relations be determined? Herein are involved issues of momentous consequence to the people. It is of vital importance to our own safety and domestic peace that these questions be solved in accordance with the will of the majority of our people. How have our neighboring States prepared to meet this emergency? Tennessee has, through the action of her Legislature, referred the whole subject to her people, to be passed upon in their sovereign capacity. Virginia and North Carolina are discussing the propriety of a similar course, and will most probably authorize the people, through sovereignty conventions, to dispose of questions so deeply and vitally concerning their interests. Missouri seems likely to adopt a similar policy. These States wisely recognize the fact that the country is in a state of revolution, and it seems to me there is an eminent propriety, at such a time, in a direct appeal to the people. The ordinary departments of the Government are vested with no power to conduct the State through such a revolution. Any attempt by either of these departments to change our present external relations, would involve a usurpation of power, and might not command that confidence and secure the unanimity so essential to our internal safety. Thus encompassed by embarrassment, complication, and doubt, assailed by a diversity of counsels, and encountering much variety of opinion, it seems to me that the wisest, as certainly the safest mode of meeting the extraordinary emergency, is to adopt the course pursued by our neighboring States, and refer these great questions to the arbitration of the people, whose happiness and destinies they so deeply affect. We should in this mode secure unity among ourselves, and attract the cordial loyalty of all our citizens to Kentucky wherever she may cast her lot. I therefore submit to your consideration, the propriety of providing for the election of delegates to a convention, to be assembled at an early day, to whom shall be referred, for full and final determination, the future Federal and inter-State relations of Kentucky.

Meantime I would leave no expedient untried which promises, however faintly, the restoration of fraternal relations between the States, and offers even remote hope of again reuniting the members and rescuing the Union from its present peril. We seem to be drifting in a gale upon the rock of disunion. Let us make one more, one united, one last effort to save the old ship. Although she has never encountered such a tempest, she has weathered many fearful storms. Anchor after anchor has been thrown out to save her, but she still drifts before the swelling waves upon the fearful breakers — hull and cabin and deck are creaking and cracking, and every joint and bolt and timber is strained to its utmost tension. There should be no divided counsels now. Let us throw overboard former jealousies, past party affiliations, passions, and personal ambition. Let us make one more effort to save her all together; and if she is lost, let us cling to the noble wreck, and reconstruct the vessel from the staunch old timbers of the Constitution. There is hope that an adjustment, honorable to all, may be effected through the action of the border slave States, including Tennessee and North Carolina. Their approval of the amendments to the constitution proposed by Senator Crittenden, with security for their future observance, presented to Congress, to the free States in legislative session, and to the people if practicable, as an ultimatum, may yet secure the guarantees we require, and possibly in the end bring back all the States in one Union. To this last effort a convention of these States is necessary. I would, therefore, recommend to you the adoption of resolutions inviting a conference of these States, and of such others as may choose to co-operate, at Baltimore, for an early day in February. It will then devolve upon you to provide for the appointment of Commissioners to represent Kentucky. The joint declaration of these States against coercion might do much to avert impending war. Their united co-operation in any event, would materially promote their future safety and peace.

The relations of the Federal Government with the seceding States have occasioned the most anxious solicitude with those who have at heart the peace and tranquility of the country. I had hoped that when the secession movement or the revolution, had assumed its present aspect, when four sovereign States, by the almost unanimous vote of their people, had announced their purpose to close their past federal relations, and likely soon to be joined by four others, there would be found none so mad, none so blind to the dire results, as to advise or countenance the employment of military force in futile resistance to their action. Such a proposition, whether it be called plainly coercion and subjugation, or be disguised under the specious phrases of "enforcing the laws" and "protecting public property," means civil war, and war of the most frightful and abhorrent character. I can but regard the action of the Federal Government in refusing to recognize the fact of secession, and its proposed attempt to maintain the supremacy of its laws within the borders of the seceding States, as a policy more utterly barren of good result, and more certainly fraught with calamity, than any step yet taken in the drama. This government stands upon the consent of the governed: its internal strength springs from the voluntary allegiance of the citizens; it is sustained by the common affection, the mutual confidence, and fraternal feelings of the people. It cannot be held together by force, and the attempt so to sustain it will not only fail, and fail in blood, but will destroy the last hope of reconstruction. Kentucky cannot and will not be an indifferent observer of the "force policy." The seceding States have not in their hasty and inconsiderate action our approval; but their cause is our rights, and they have our sympathies. The people of Kentucky will never stand by with arms folded while those States struggling for their constitutional rights and resisting oppression are being subjugated to an anti-slavery Government. Thousands of our gallant citizens would fly to the conflict. Moreover, the idea of coercion, when applied to great political communities, is revolting to a free people, contrary to the spirit of our institutions, and if successfully prosecuted, would endanger the liberties of the people. I cannot believe that these threats of coercion, nor these denunciations of treason against the people of the South, coming as they do from men who have for years habitually violated the Constitution, elicit any sympathy in the hearts of Kentuckians, no matter what may be their opinions touching the abstract right or present policy of secession. I trust, therefore, you will at once declare by resolution the unconditional disapprobation of Kentucky of the employment of force in any form against the seceding States.

It becomes my duty to call your attention to another subject, if possible, affecting more nearly the safety of our people, the importance of which is suggested by the political complications herebefore presented. I allude to the subject of our State military organization. I have the gratification to communicate to you that, under the admirably drawn and well adapted "Militia Law" enacted by you at your regular session in March last, an organization of companies, battalions, and regiments has been effected, than which I can recommend none more reliable and efficient. Copies of this law have been sought for by those having in charge the military organizations of other States, and it now constitutes the basis of the system in more than one State. I was peculiarly fortunate in securing the services of Gen. S. B. Buckner, a native Kentuckian, in the responsible position of Inspector General. He has brought to the position an amount of experience, ability, and patriotic labor, to which I attribute, in a great measure, the present highly encouraging condition of the corps. His report, giving full information on the subject, will be communicated to you, and to your attention is invited. Our people seem thoroughly aroused to the importance of a thorough and effective military corps, sufficient for any and all emergencies. You will readily perceive the necessity of extending them all proper aid and encouragement.

An appropriation of money for the purpose of more efficiently arming, equipping, uniforming; and providing munitions of war for this corp of volunteer soldiers, now constituting the main defense of our people, will be regarded by you as among your first and most imperative duties. No man can foresee the issue of our present political troubles. It becomes our duty to prepare for the worst, and look carefully to the security and safety of our citizens. But this subject is of such manifest importance as to need no argument from me. I refer to the report of the Inspector General for full information touching the condition of our military defenses at this time, and the further provision needed.

Accompanying the message you have a statement from the Auditor, showing the financial condition of the State on the 15th day of this month. I have caused this exhibit to be made, that you may understand the necessity of providing for a revenue sufficient to meet the extraordinary expenditures likely to become unavoidable.

While I would appreciate your disinclination to permit your attention to be diverted at this time from the grave subjects already presented, by any matters of ordinary legislation, I cannot forego the mention to you of a calamity which, since your last adjournment, has withdrawn from a large number of unfortunates the munificent provision made for them by the State. On the —— day of ——— last the large building devoted to the care of the insane at Hopkinsville was completely destroyed by fire. Fortunately the calamity was attended with little loss of life, but the inmates were subjected to no small discomfort.
The report of the commissioners, giving full information on the subject, will, in a few days, be submitted to you. You will see the necessity of rebuilding the asylum and providing for the comfort and support of the patients. No matter how pressed by the burdens of government, the people of Kentucky will never complain of taxation when levied for the support of the unfortunate insane.

Since your last adjournment, a controversy has arisen between this State and the State of Ohio, touching the rendition of a fugitive from the justice of the laws of Kentucky, escaped into Ohio. The questions arising in the controversy are novel and interesting, and of a character affecting very nearly the rights of our State, and the security of the citizens. The facts will appear from the correspondence between the Governor of Ohio and myself, to which you are referred. On the 23d of December, at my direction, a petition was filed in the Supreme Court of the United States, praying a mandamus or a rule to show cause, directed to the Governor of Ohio, the argument of which, I am advised, will be heard on the 8th of February. I have employed learned and competent counsel, who will guard well and ably the interests of the State. An appropriation of $——— will be necessary to meet the cost and necessary expenses of the case.

Feeling, in this day of our country's trial and calamity, the necessity of Divine assistance, invoking His aid in shaping your deliberations and beseeching His blessing upon your efforts to save the country, I will take pleasure in co-operating with you in any just measures calculated to bring about this result.

B. MAGOFFIN.
APPENDIX TO THE GOVERNOR'S MESSAGE.

FRANKFORT, KENTUCKY,

November 16, 1860.

S. I. M. MAJOR, Esq., Editor of Yeoman:

DEAR SIR: I am asked by a number of friends, yourself one of them, and have received letters from various parts of the State, all of the same tenor, inquiring of me, what will Kentucky do, and what ought she to do, now that Lincoln is elected? I will frankly give you my opinion. I believe she will adhere firmly to her principles. We are defeated, but not conquered. We are beaten, but not dismayed. Kentucky will stand by the positions upon which I was elected in August, 1859. She will stand by the equality and the rights of the States, and the equality and the rights of the people in the States. She will stand by the repeal of the Missouri compromise, by the Dred Scott decision, and by the enforcement of the fugitive slave law. She will stand by every right she has under the Constitution of the United States. She will demand that slavery shall not be interfered with wherever it exists under the Constitution of the United States, and under the laws and Constitutions of the separate States. She will demand that slavery shall not be abolished in the District of Columbia, or wherever it now exists in the Union, and that the slave trade between the States shall not be interfered with by Congress. She will demand her equal rights in all the Territories of this government. She will stand by the position that slave property in the Territories is entitled to the same protection with other property therein, and that no discriminations can be made by the Territorial Legislatures against that property, so as to exclude it directly, or to impair the right of the owners to it, or by unfriendly legislation to render it valueless. She will demand that whenever the people of a Territory having sufficient population shall form a State Constitution, with or without slavery in it, and ask of Congress admission as a State into the Union, she shall be admitted, provided her constitution is Republican in form. She will keep her present status upon the slavery question, believing the laws, the constitution, and the courts afford her adequate protection. She will stand immovably upon the Democratic platform adopted last winter at Frankfort, and upon the one adopted last summer at Baltimore, upon which her noble and gifted son has just been defeated. Entrenched in this position behind the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States, her rallying cry will be, her rights and her equality in the Union. She will ask nothing she will not concede to her sister States. She wants all her rights under the constitution, and she will neither give up nor compromise a single one of them. She will show her devotion to the Union by standing steadfastly by these, the only principles upon which it can be preserved. She will be, as she has ever been, firm, wise, moderate, and just, and whenever a dominant, reckless, sectional majority, disregarding the idea of her equality, forgetting that the government was made to protect the weak against the strong, and to protect persons, property, and the rights of the States, shall turn it into an engine of oppression instead of protection, by trampling upon her rights, she knows her duty, and she will do it. She will appeal to the ballot-box, to the reason, to the justice, and to the patriotism of Congress, of the States, and of the people everywhere; and when everything fails, doubly fortified in her impregnable position, she will then appeal to the God of battles, and with the constitution in one hand and the sword in the other, and under the flag of the Union, her noble and gallant sons will prove themselves worthy of the glorious heroes from whom they sprung, by striking for their homes and their firesides—for their altars and their rights—for their liberties and the freedom of their children—for the Union under the compact of the constitution—and he who would not do it is a coward and a slave.

I agree with you, that the election of Mr. Lincoln is no cause for secession or rebellion. It is not so regarded by the people of the States. It is true he has been elected by a sectional party, upon sectional ideas, with a reckless sectional hostility to an institution the South will not surrender. The people of the slave States and a large minority of true men in the free States, no matter whether they were the supporters of Mr. Breckinridge, Mr. Bell, or Mr. Douglas, took the ground that—if he were elected, and he attempted to carry out his principles and purposes, it would dissolve the Union. Kentucky says, after the election, in my judgment, what all parties here declared before, and that is, she will not submit to the carrying out of his principles. The fathers of the Republic, with General Washington at the head, have warned us against the formation and success of a sectional party as the only danger to the liberties of the people or to the safety of the confederacy. The Republicans have paid no attention to these warnings, but blindly, madly, without regard to consequences, they have declared this government could not exist as part free and part slave, but must be all free. It matters little whether we have to give up our slave property, or whether our children will be compelled to do it. They have made their threats that they intend to deprive us of it sooner or later, and in the free States, as far as they dare or had the power, they have put their threats into execution. They have passed laws in thirteen of the free States, I believe, which prohibit the execution of the fugitive slave law, and have set at naught the Constitution of the United States. Six of these States, New York and Pennsylvania included, deny to the owners of slaves, or to the officers of the government, their jails or public buildings for the protection of this property. Seven of them, including also New York and Pennsylvania, provide defense for fugitive slaves. Many of them declare the slaves free if their owners bring them there; and one State—New Hampshire—declares him absolutely free. Nine of the free States have imposed penalties of imprisonment, and fines of from $1,000 to $5,000 on the officers or persons who may aid in enforcing the laws which have been passed by Congress, and declared to be constitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States. The Legislatures of these States, and the courts of many of them have passed upon their action, have openly, insultingly, boldly, and defiantly nullified the laws of Congress and the decisions of the Supreme Court. There is no theoretical, but practical disunion in this.

Is it not time all this was arrested? Is it not time we had an understanding as to their future action, if we do not intend to be robbed of our slave property? All over the border States they have their agents and emissaries, and many in the other slave States, engaged in stealing and running off our slaves. They avow they will neither give them up when they succeed in getting into the free States, nor will they deliver up the men who steal them. They have elected a man who has avowed, if he did not originate, the doctrine of the irrepressible conflict, and that the States must be all free. He and his party affirm in the most solemn manner they will execute their purposes, so soon as they have the power. They say Mr. Lincoln is a firm and an honest man; and if so, he intends to carry out his principles. The slave States have over four and a half millions of slaves. Kentucky has over $170,000,000 in slave property. She is losing at the rate of over $200,000 per annum of that property. When I stated, in my annual message to the Legislature, the loss was $100,000, few believed it. I have reliable information it is double that sum, and will soon be again doubled, if not in some way arrested. That property, more than one third of all we possess, guaranteed to us by the Constitution of the United States and our laws, worked for, acquired, and left to us by our fathers—that property we are working for, and wish to leave to our children, will soon be rendered valueless, and Kentucky become a free State, if these principles and purposes are carried out. Yet with all these grievances, while no slave State has nullified a law of Congress, or refused a right to a free State under the Constitution—with all this loss of property by Kentucky—with the further fact staring us in the face that the State of Ohio has violated a great constitutional right of the State of Kentucky, in refusing to deliver up upon my demand a fugitive from our State who has been indicted for stealing our slaves—all these facts and outrages hard to be borne, I would say that the mere election of Lincoln is not sufficient cause for secession or rebellion. He is elected under the forms and according to the Constitution of the United States. We would say to our sister States of the South, we have more cause of grievance than all of the cotton States put together, occupying, as we do, over seven hundred miles of border line. Look at our exposed position—the constant tampering with our negroes by the Abolitionists—the immense annual loss we sustain—the direct infringement of our rights in refusing to execute the fugitive slave law, and in the robbery of our property—in the danger to the lives of the owners when they go to the free States to recapture their slaves—in the insults and taunts and injuries to the Federal officers who attempt to do their sworn duty in executing the fugitive slave law, as in the recent mob in Ohio, and in the case of Booth of Wisconsin—in the wholesale stealing every day going on of our negroes, and the refusal of the people and Governors to deliver up either the property or the thieves; all this, and much more, we complain of, and don't intend to submit to, but we cannot justify you in breaking up the government and going out of the Union on account of the election of a man upon a bad platform, and the worst political principles and purposes.

We say to you and to the Republicans, we stand here as pacificators, as arbitrators. We entreat you of the South not to take this rash step; and to you of the North we say, calmly, but fearlessly and firmly, without threats, you must not encroach upon our constitutional rights as expounded by the highest and purest tribunal in the land. You must stay your arm of fanaticism, of passion, of vengeance, of violence, and of power, for we are resolved to resist unto death any violation of our rights under the Constitution. We will resist aggressions; we will defend the Union under the flag of independence, and yet I may treat him as a blusterer who makes his threats, when he actually crosses my fence and advances upon my property to execute the threat—then will it be time enough, and then will I be justified in shooting down the villain. Let us reason with the Republicans still further; let us remonstrate more earnestly, firmly, and unitedly; let us at all events wait for the overt act, and then Kentucky can and will join her sister slave States. This, it seems to me, is the course of moderation and prudence and wisdom; certainly so, because neither Mr. Lincoln nor his party can pass any law, if the Opposition remain true, that will violate our rights. He can't even get an appropriation bill through Congress to carry on the government. He can't appoint his Cabinet officers who may be offensive to the Democratic party and to the slave States. He can do nothing, with the present House of Representatives and Senate, backed by the Supreme Court, to violate our rights. Let the anti-Republican members of the Opposition firmly resolve not to discuss the question of slavery any more, and when the Republicans have done let them vote down their measures and proceed to business upon the other important interests of the country. The question has been discussed too much already, and let them resolve they will discuss it no more. It only produces discord, strife, criminations and recriminations, and sunders all those fraternal ties, socially, politically, and religiously, which bind us together.

I have hope yet, when passion cools and reason resumes its throne, that the North may be brought to see they have as deep a stake in preserving slavery at the South, and the rights of the slave States, as we have. They cannot do without our cotton and sugar, and rice and tobacco, and other staples; and whenever the fanaticism of the people, who have no motive to act but for their own good and the safety of the Republic, shall see this, as see it they will, sooner or later, they will refuse to follow the lead of ambitious, reckless, dangerous, and talented demagogues who are willing to risk fortune, honor, life, and country to gain place and power. They will see that it is not only to their own interest to keep the negro in bondage, but it is to the interest of the slave—that he is morally, socially, and religiously a better and a happier man than he could be in any other condition. As a slave, an active, efficient agent in doing great good, as we have him in the slave States; but as a free man, a worthless vagabond, idle, dissipated, miserable—a nuisance and a curse, as they have him in the free States, and are compelled to pass laws to prevent his residence among them. They may see we have other great interests in this country which ought to engage a fair proportion of the time of Congress. Reason and truth and patriotism may yet prevail. Let us hope—hope on and ever, in the absence of an overt act, or until there is no hope for the Union of these States. Great God, let us do nothing! We who have been and are in the right, let us keep in the right, and do nothing to break up this great government. Let us stand upon the right, submitting to nothing wrong. Firmly, unwaveringly, and all together, let us stand upon our constitutional rights, with an unaltering purpose to make no more concessions—to submit to no more compromises, and to resent at once, and to the last extremity, any violation of our rights.

To the States which propose to secede we would say, in addition to what we have said, you should not desert us. We are a border State; we have the brunt of the battle; we have more grievances than all of you; we have suffered more wrongs, but we had more forbearance. Even now we have a practical question. It is a wicked, willful, wanton violation of our rights, which lies at the foundation of our Government, and involves the very existence of slavery in Kentucky. It is no abstraction—no Kansas question—no territorial question—but an open, direct violation of our constitutional rights. We don't intend to submit to it. I have demanded of Gov. Dennison, of Ohio, a fugitive now under indictment for stealing our slaves. He has refused to deliver him up.

He and the Republican party of Ohio, and I believe of the whole Union, all concede that the Government could not have been formed but upon the idea that each State must be permitted to regulate its domestic affairs to suit itself, and that unless this idea is fully carried out between the States in their intercourse, the Union is at an end. Yet he refuses to deliver up this fugitive now under indictment in our courts for stealing our negro property, upon the ground, among other reasons, that the laws of Ohio do not regard it as a felony to steal a slave.
Our laws and constitution, and the constitution of the United States, do recognize negroes as property. They are recognized as such by the Supreme Court of the United States. It has declared it to be a felony to steal a slave, and we will not submit to this violation of our constitutional rights. It is a great practical question now pending between Kentucky and Ohio, and it will test the fact whether or not the Republicans intend to carry out their purposes. I told you on the stump last summer, that I would surrender no constitutional right Kentucky had. This is one of them. If we would surrender this one, it will encourage to wrest from us another and another, until stripped of our rights, our honor, our inheritance, and our manhood, we will have neither the spirit, nor the courage, nor the power to resist.

I shall take this violated right to the courts for the remedy. Failing there, I would take it to Congress, as there is an anti-Republican Congress, and if they give the remedy, Mr. Lincoln will be called on to sign or veto the bill. We will test the question where we have rights whether or not we have remedies. We will test the question whether or not our rights are to be respected under the laws and the decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States. Failing there, I shall tell the people of Kentucky, in the last resort: Here is your violated right. I have done all I can do to obtain the remedy. You are a State's rights people, and now, falling back upon your reserved rights, I will advise such action as I am sure you will take.

To South Carolina, and such other States who may wish to secede from the Union, I would say, the geography of this country will not admit of a division—the mouth and sources of the Mississippi river cannot be separated without the horrors of civil war—we cannot sustain you in this movement merely on account of the election of Lincoln. Do not precipitate us by premature action into a revolution or civil war, the consequences of which will be the most frightful to all of us. It may yet be avoided. There is still hope, faint though it be. Kentucky is a border State, and has suffered more than all of you. She claims that, standing upon the same sound platform, you will sympathize with her, and stand by her, and not desert her in her exposed perilous border position. She has a right to claim that her voice, and the voice of reason and moderation and patriotism, shall be heard and heeded by you. If you secede, your Representatives will go out of Congress, and leave us at the mercy of a Black Republican Government. Mr. Lincoln will have no check. He can appoint his cabinet and have it confirmed. The Congress will then be Republican, and he will be able to pass such laws as he may suggest. The Supreme Court will be powerless to protect us. We implore you to stand by us, and by our friends in the free States, and let us all, the bold, and true, and just men in the free and the slave States, with a united front stand by each other, by our principles, by our rights, our equality, our honor, and by the Union under the Constitution. I believe this is the only way to save it, and we can do it.

As it is, a majority of the people are against Mr. Lincoln, although he has been elected. The majority in Congress is against him and his principles. He is in their power, and they would fully represent a majority of the people of the United States, if they would exercise that power in such a manner as to obtain assurances and guarantees that our rights under the Constitution should be respected and preserved. This is what you want and what we want. In this way, we may accomplish it, the Union may be preserved, and we may go on to prosper in the future as we have done in the past. By seceding, by leaving the halls of Congress, by deserting your posts and us now, the government will be broken up, civil war may follow, and God only knows what will be the end. It may yet be averted in some way by not taking this premature step, and we appeal to you by all these considerations, by all the sacred memories which brought the government into existence, and all the ties which should be preserved and strengthened to keep us together as one people—by the battlefields of the revolution—by the achievements and the blood and the sacrifices and sufferings of the illustrious dead—the martyrs of freedom who died to give us the liberty we now enjoy—by our unparalleled prosperity and progress as a nation—by our commanding position abroad, and, if we continue to be united, our powerful position at home—by all the mortification, ruin, and misery that would attend a failure of our government—by every consideration that should influence an aggrieved, a just, an intelligent, a loyal, a brave, a patriotic, and magnanimous people, to stand by us, by your rights, by the Constitution, and by the Union under the Constitution, in this hour of its greatest danger since it came into existence. Let passion be allayed; let reason assume its throne; let moderation, forbearance, and wisdom guide our counsels, and the country may yet be saved. In any contingency, we believe this government was formed in friendship, affection, and mutual confidence and common interests, and whenever these ties are indisputably sundered, it is idle to attempt to keep it together by force.

In conclusion, I would say, Kentucky will watch the progress of events, in my opinion, in view of all the tremendous responsibilities that devolve upon her, and take her position calmly, fearlessly, wisely, with her whole heart beating for the Union, and her whole soul overflowing with patriotism and loyalty to that Union under the compact of the Constitution, determined to be just to all sections of this blood-bought confederacy, now the last, best, and brightest hope of freemen and mankind, and with the most perfect confidence when the dread hour of trial comes, if come it must, she has the will, the spirit, the courage, the patriotism, and the manhood, and the ability to defend her inheritance, her honor, and her rights, which have been guaranteed to her by the Constitution of the United States.

Respectfully, your friend and obedient servant,

B. MAGOFFIN.
To his Excellency, the Governor of the State of Entertaining the opinion that some movement should be instituted at the earliest possible moment, to arrest the progress of events which seem to be rapidly hurrying the Government of the Union to dismemberment, as an initiatory step, I have, with great diffidence, concluded to submit to the Governors of the slave States a series of propositions, and ask their counsel and co-operation in bringing about a settlement upon them as a basis. Should the propositions be approved, they can be submitted to the assembling Legislatures and Conventions of the slave States, and a Convention of all of said States, or of those only approving, be called to pass upon them, and ask a general Convention of all the States of the Union that may be disposed to meet us on this basis for a full conference. The present good to be accomplished would be to arrest the secession movement, until the question as to whether the Union can be preserved upon fair and honorable terms, can be fully tested. If there be a basis for the adjustment of our difficulties within the Union, nothing should be left undone in order to its development. To this end, it seems to me there should be a conference of the States in some form, and it appears to me the form above suggested would be most effective. I, therefore, as the Governor of a State having as deep a stake in the perpetuity of the Union, and at the same time as much solicitude for the maintenance of the institution of slavery as any other, would respectfully beg leave to submit for your consideration the following outline of propositions:

1st. Repeal, by an amendment of the Constitution of the United States, all laws in the free States in any degree nullifying or obstructing the execution of the fugitive slave law.
2d. Amendments to said law to enforce its thorough execution in all the free States, providing compensation to the owner of the slave from the State which fails to deliver him up under the requirements of the law, or throws obstructions in the way of his recovery.
3d. The passage of a law by Congress, compelling the Governors of the free States to return fugitives from justice, indicted by a grand jury in another State, for stealing or enticing away a slave.
4th. To amend the Constitution so as to divide all the Territories now belonging to the United States, or hereafter to be acquired, between the free and the slave States, say upon the line of the 37th degree of north latitude—all north of that line to come into the Union with requisite population as free States, and all south of the same to come in as slave States.
5th. To amend the Constitution so as to guarantee forever to all the States the free navigation of the Mississippi river.
6th. To alter the Constitution so as to give the South the power, say in the United States Senate, to protect itself from unconstitutional and oppressive legislation upon the subject of slavery.

Respectfully, your obedient servant,

B. MAGOFFIN.
Correspondence between the Commissioner from Alabama and Governor of Kentucky.

To his Excellency B. Magoffin,
Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

I have the honor of placing in your hands, herewith, a commission from the Governor of the State of Alabama, accrediting me as a Commissioner from that State, to the sovereign State of Kentucky, to consult in reference to the momentous issues now pending between the Northern and Southern States of this Confederacy. Although each State, as a sovereign political community, must finally determine these grave issues for itself, yet the identity of interest, sympathy, and institutions prevailing alike in all the slaveholding States, in the opinion of Alabama, renders it proper that there should be a frank and friendly consultation by each one with her sister Southern States, touching their common grievances, and the measures necessary to be adopted to protect the interest, honor, and safety of their citizens.

I come, then, in a spirit of fraternity, as the Commissioner on the part of the State of Alabama, to confer with the authorities of this Commonwealth, in reference to the infraction of our constitutional rights, wrongs done and threatened to be done, as well as the mode and measure of redress proper to be adopted by the sovereign States aggrieved, to preserve their sovereignty, vindicate their rights, and protect their citizens.

In order to a clear understanding of the appropriate remedy, it may be proper to consider the rights and duties both of the State and citizen under the federal compact, as well as the wrongs done and threatened.

I therefore submit for the consideration of your Excellency, the following propositions, which I hope will command your assent and approval:

1. The people are the source of all political power, and the primary object of all good governments is to protect the citizen in the enjoyment of life, liberty, and property; and whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the inalienable right, and the duty of the people, to alter, or abolish it.

2. The equality of all the States of this Confederacy, as well as the equality of rights of all the citizens of the respective States under the Federal Constitution, is a fundamental principle in the scheme of the Federal Government. The union of these States under the Constitution was formed “to establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to her citizens and their posterity,” and when it is perverted to the destruction of the equality of the States, or substantially fails to accomplish these ends, it fails to achieve the purposes of its creation, and ought to be dissolved.

3. The Federal Government results from a compact entered into between separate sovereign and independent States, called the Constitution of the United States, and amendments thereto, by which these sovereign States delegated certain specific powers to be used by that government, for the common defense and general welfare of all the States and their citizens; and when these powers are abused, or used for the destruction of the rights of any State or its citizens, each State has an equal right to judge for itself, as well of the violations and infractions of that instrument, as of the mode and measure of redress; and if the interest or safety of her citizens demands it, may resume the powers she had delegated, without let or hindrance from the Federal Government, or any other power on earth.

4. Each State is bound in good faith to observe and keep on her part all the stipulations and covenants inserted for the benefit of other States in the constitutional compact—the only bond of Union by which the several States are bound together; and when persistently violated by one party to the prejudice of her sister States, ceases to be obligatory on the States so aggrieved, and they may rightfully declare the compact broken, the Union thereby formed dissolved, and stand upon their original rights, as sovereign and independent political communities; and further, that each citizen owes his primary allegiance to the State in which he resides, and hence it is the imperative duty of the State to protect him in the enjoyment of all his constitutional rights, and see to it that they are not denied or withheld from him with impunity by any other State or government.

If the foregoing propositions correctly indicate the objects of this government, the rights and duties of the citizen, as well as the rights, powers, and duties of the State and Federal Government under the Constitution, the next inquiry is, what rights have been denied, what wrongs have been done, or threatened to be done, of which the Southern States or the people of the Southern States can complain?

At the time of the adoption of the Federal Constitution African slavery existed in twelve of the thirteen States. Slaves are recognized both as property, and as a basis of political power, by the Federal compact, and special provisions are made by that instrument for their protection as property. Under the influences of climate and other causes, slavery has been banished from the Northern States, the slaves themselves have been sent to the Southern States, and there sold, and their price gone into the pockets of their former owners at the North. And in the meantime African slavery has not only become one of the fixed domestic institutions of the Southern States, but forms an important element of their political power, and constitutes the most valuable species of their property—worth, according to recent estimates, not less than four thousand millions of dollars—on the basis of the Constitution, and the laws and the practice of the Federal Government, under it is an acquisition, and an important source of wealth and strength to the Southern States.

An institution with which is bound up, not only the wealth and prosperity of the Southern people, but their very existence as a political community. This war has been waged in every way that human ingenuity, urged on by fanaticism, could suggest. They attack us through their literature, in their schools, from the hustings, in their legislative halls, through the public press, and even their courts of justice forget the purity of their judicial ermine, to strike down the rights of the Southern slaveholder, and override every barrier which the constitution has erected for his protection; and the sacred desk is desecrated to this unholy crusade against our lives, our property, and the constitutional rights guaranteed to us by the compact of our fathers. During all this time, the Southern States have freely conceded to the Northern States, and the people of those States, every right secured to them by the constitution, and an equal interest in the common Territories of the government; protected the lives and property of their citizens of every kind when brought within Southern jurisdiction; enforced through their courts, when necessary, every law of Congress passed for the protection of Northern property, and submitted over ever since the foundation of the government, with scarcely a murmur, to the protection of their shipping, manufacturing, and commercial interest, by odious bounties, discriminating tariffs, and unjust navigation laws, passed by the Federal Government to the prejudice and injury of their own citizens.

The law of Congress for the rendition of fugitive slaves, passed in pursuance of an express provision of the constitution, remains almost a dead letter upon the statute book. A majority of the Northern States through their legislative enactments, have openly nullified it, and impose heavy fines and penalties upon all persons who aid in enforcing this law; and some of those States declare the Southern slaveholder who goes within their jurisdiction to assert his legal rights under the constitution, guilty of a high crime, and affix imprisonment in the penitentiary as the penalty. The Federal officers who attempt to discharge their duties under the law, as well as the owner of the slave, are set upon by mobs, and are fortunate if they escape without serious injury to life or limb; and the State authorities, instead of aiding in the enforcement of this law, refuse the use of their jails, and by every means which unprincipled fanaticism can devise, give countenance to the mob, and aid the fugitive to escape. Thus there are annually large amounts of property actually stolen away from the Southern States, harbored and protected in Northern States, and by their citizens. And when a requisition is made for the thief by the Governor of a Southern State upon the Executive of a Northern State, in pursuance of the express provisions of the Federal Constitution, he is insultingly told that the felon has committed no crime, and thus the criminal escapes; the property of the citizen is lost, the sovereignty of the State is insulted; and there is no redress. For the Federal courts have no jurisdiction to award a mandamus to the Governor of a sovereign State, to compel him to do an official executive act, and Congress, if disposed, under the constitution has no power to afford a remedy. These are wrongs under which the Southern people have long suffered, and to which they have patiently submitted, in the hope that a returning sense of justice would prompt the people of the Northern States to discharge their constitutional obligations, and save our common country. Recent events, however, have not justified their hopes; the more daring and restless fanatics having banded themselves together, have put in practice the terrible lessons taught by the timid, by making an armed incursion upon the sovereign State of Virginia, slaughtering her citizens, for the purpose of exciting a servile insurrection among her slave population, and arming them for the destruction of their own masters. During the past summer the Abolition incendiary has lit up the prairies of Texas, fired the dwellings of the inhabitants, burnt down whole towns, and laid poison for her citizens, thus literally executing the terrible denunciations against the slaveholder—"Alarm to their sleep; fire to their dwellings, and poison to their food."

The same fell spirit, like an unchained demon, has for years swept over the plains of Kansas, leaving death, desolation, and ruin in its track. Nor is this the mere ebullition of a few half crazy fanatics; as is abundantly apparent, from the sympathy manifested all over the North; where, in many places, the tragic death of John Brown, the leader of the raid upon Virginia, who died upon the gallows a condemned felon, is celebrated with public honors, and his name canonized as a martyr to liberty; and many, even of the more conservative papers of the Black Republican school, were accustomed to speak of his murderous attack upon the lives of the unsuspecting citizens of Virginia, in a half sneering and half apologetic tone. And what has the Federal Government done in the meantime to protect slave property upon the common Territories of the Union? Whilst a whole squadron of the American navy is maintained on the coast of Africa, at an enormous expense, to enforce the execution of the laws against the slave trade—and properly too—and the whole navy is kept afloat to protect the lives and property of American citizens upon the high seas—not a law has been passed by Congress, or an arm raised by the Federal Government; to protect the slave property of citizens from Southern States, upon the soil of Kansas—the common territory and common property of the citizens of all the States—purchased alike by their common treasure, and held by the Federal Government, as declared by the Supreme Court of the United States, as the trustee for all their citizens; but, upon the contrary, a Territorial government, created by Congress, and supported out of the common treasury, under the influence and control of Emigrant Aid Societies and Abolition emissaries, is permitted to pass laws excluding and destroying all that species of property within her limits; thus ignoring, on the part of the Federal Government, one of the fundamental principles of all good governments—the duty to protect the property of the citizen, and wholly refusing to maintain the equal rights of the States and the citizens of the States upon their common Territories.

As the last and crowning act of insult and outrage upon the people of the South, the citizens of the Northern States, by overwhelming majorities, on the sixth day of November last, elected Abraham Lincoln and Hannibal Hamlin, President and Vice President of the United States. Whilst it may be admitted that the mere election of any man to the Presidency is not, per se, a sufficient cause for a dissolution of the Union, yet, when the issues upon, and circumstances under which he was elected, are properly appreciated and understood, the question arises whether a due regard to the interest, honor, and safety of their citizens, in view of this, and all the other antecedent wrongs and outrages, do not render it imperative for the Southern States to resume the powers they have delegated to the Federal Government, and interpose their sovereignty for the protection of their citizens.

What, then, are the circumstances under which and the issues upon which he was elected? His own declarations and the current history of the times but too plainly indicate he was elected by a Northern sectional vote, against the most solemn warnings and protestations of the whole South. He stands forth as the representative of the fanaticism of the North, which, for the last quarter of a century, has been making war upon the South, her property, her civilization, her institutions, and her interest—as the representative of that party which overrides all constitutional barriers, ignores the obligation of official oaths, and acknowledges allegiance to a higher law than the Constitution, striking down the sovereignty and equality of the States, and resting its claims to popular favor upon the one dogma, the equality of the races, white and black.

It was upon his acknowledgment of allegiance to a higher law, that Mr. Seward rested his claims to the Presidency, in a speech made by him in Boston before the election. He is the exponent, if not the author, of the doctrine of the irrepressible conflict between freedom and slavery, and proposes that the opponents of slavery shall arrest its further expansion, and by Congressional legislation exclude it from the common Territories of the Federal Government, and place it where the public mind shall rest in the belief that it is in the course of ultimate extinction. He claims for free negroes the right of suffrage, and an equal voice in the government—in a word, all the rights of citizenship—although the Federal Constitution, as construed by the highest judicial tribunal in the world, does not recognize Africans imported into this country as slaves, or their descendants, whether free or slaves, as citizens.

These were the issues presented in the last Presidential canvass, and upon these the American people passed at the ballot-box. Upon the principles then announced by Mr. Lincoln and his leading friends, we are bound to expect his administration to be conducted. Hence it is that in high places among the Republican party, the election of Mr. Lincoln is hailed, not simply as a change of administration, but as the inauguration of new principles and a new theory of government, and even as the downfall of slavery. Therefore it is that the election of Mr. Lincoln cannot be regarded otherwise than a solemn declaration, on the part of a large majority of the Northern people, of hostility to the South, her property and her institutions—nothing less than an open declaration of war; for the triumph of this new theory of government destroys the property of the South, lays waste her fields, and inaugurates all the horrors of a San Domingo servile insurrection, consigning her citizens to assassinations, and her wives and daughters to pollution and violation, to gratify the lust of half civilized Africans. Especially is this true in the cotton-growing States, where, in many localities, the slave outnumbers the white population ten to one.
If the policy of the Republicans is carried out, according to the program indicated by the leaders of the party, and the South submits, degradation and ruin must overwhelm alike all classes of citizens in the Southern States. The slaveholder and non-slaveholder must ultimately share the same fate—all be degraded to a position of equality with free negroes; stand side by side with them at the polls, and fraternize in all the social relations of life; or else there will be an eternal war of races, desolating the land, with blood, and utterly wasting and destroying all the resources of the country. Who can look upon such a picture without a shudder? What Southern man, be he slaveholder or non-slaveholder, can without indignation and horror contemplate the triumph of negro equality, and see his own sons and daughters in the not distant future associating with free negroes upon terms of political and social equality; and the white man stripped by the Heaven-daring hand of fanaticism of that title to superiority over the black race which God himself has bestowed? In the Northern States, where free negroes are so few as to form no appreciable part of the community, in spite of all the legislation for their protection they still remain a degraded caste—excluded by the ban of society from social association with all but the lowest and most degraded of the white race. But in the South, where in many places the African race largely predominates, and, as a consequence, the two races would be continually pressing together, amalgamation or the extermination of the one or the other would be inevitable. Can Southern men submit to such degradation and ruin? God forbid that they should.

But, it is said, there are many constitutional conservative men in the North, who sympathize with and battle for us. That is true, but they are utterly powerless, as the late Presidential election unequivocally shows, to breast the tide of fanaticism that threatens to roll over and crush us. With them it is a question of principle, and we award to them all honor for their loyalty to the constitution of our fathers; but their defeat is not their ruin. With us it is a question of self-preservation—our lives, our property, the safety of our homes and our hearthstones—all that men hold dear on earth—is involved in the issue. If we triumph, vindicate our rights and maintain our institutions, a bright and joyous future lies before us. We can clothe the world with our staple—give wings to her commerce, and supply bread the starving operative in other lands, and at the same time preserve an institution that has done more to civilize and Christianize the heathen than all human agencies beside—an institution alike beneficial to both races, ameliorating the moral, physical, and intellectual condition of the one, and giving wealth and happiness to the other. If we fail, the light of our civilization goes down in blood, our wives and our little ones will be driven from their homes by the light of our own dwellings. The dark pall of barbarism must soon gather over our sunny land, and the scenes of West India emancipation, with its attendant horrors and crimes, (that monument of British fanaticism and folly,) be re-enacted in our own land upon a more gigantic scale.

Then is it not time we should be up and doing like men who know their rights and dare maintain them? To whom shall the people of the Southern States look for the protection of their rights, interests, and honor? We answer, to their own sons and their respective States. To the States, as we have seen, under our system of Government, is due the primary allegiance of the citizen, and the correlative obligation of protection devolves upon the respective States—a duty from which they cannot escape; and which they dare not neglect, without a violation of all the bonds of fealty that hold together the citizen and the sovereign.

The Northern States and their citizens have proved recalcitrant to their obligations under the Federal Constitution; they have violated that compact, and refused to perform their covenants in that behalf.

The Federal Government has failed to protect the rights and property of the citizens of the South, and is about to pass into the hands of a party pledged for the destruction, not only of their rights and their property, but the equality of the States ordained by the Constitution and the heaven-ordained superiority of the white over the black race. What remains then for the Southern States and the people of these States if they are loyal to the great principles of civil and religious liberty, sanctified by the sufferings of a seven-years' war, and baptized with the blood of the revolution? Can they permit the rights of their citizens to be denied and spurned; their property spirited away; their own sovereignty violated, and themselves degraded to the position of mere dependencies instead of sovereign States? Or, shall each for itself, judging of the infractions of the constitutional compact, as well as the mode and measure of redress, declare that the covenants of that sacred instrument in their behalf, and for the benefit of their citizens, have been willfully, deliberately, continuously, and persistently broken and violated by the other parties to the compact, and that they and their citizens are therefore absolved from all further obligations to keep and perform the covenants thereof; resume the powers delegated to the Federal Government, and as sovereign States, form other relations for the protection of their citizens and the discharge of the great ends of government? The Union of these States was one of fraternity as well as equality; but what fraternity now exists between the citizens of the two sections? Various religious associations, powerful in numbers and influence, have been broken asunder, and the sympathy that bound together the people of the several States at the time of the formation of the Constitution has ceased to exist; and feelings of bitterness, and even hostility, have sprung up in its place. How can this be reconciled and a spirit of fraternity established? Will the people of the North cease to make war upon the institution of slavery, and award to it the protection guaranteed by the Constitution? The accumulated wrongs of many years; the late action of their members in Congress refusing every measure of justice to the South, as well as the experience of all the past, answer, No, never!

Will the South give up the institution of slavery and consent that her citizens be stripped of their property, her civilization destroyed, the whole land laid waste by fire and sword? It is impossible; she cannot, she will not. Then why attempt longer to hold together hostile States under the stipulations of a violated constitution? It is impossible; disunion is inevitable. Why, then wait longer for the consummation of a result that must come? Why waste further time in expostulations and appeals to Northern States and their citizens, only to be met, as we have been for years past, by renewed insults and repeated injuries? Will the South be better prepared to meet the emergency when the North shall be strengthened by the admission of the new Territories of Kansas, Nebraska, Washington, Jefferson, Nevada, Idaho, Chippewa, and Arizona, as non-slaveholding States, as we are warned from high sources will be done within the next four years, under the administration of Mr. Lincoln? Can the true men at the North ever make a more powerful or successful rally for the preservation of our rights and the constitution than they did in the last Presidential contest? There is nothing to inspire a hope that they can.

Shall we wait until our enemies shall possess themselves of all the powers of the government? until Abolition judges are on the Supreme Court bench, Abolition collectors at every port, and Abolition postmasters in every town, secret mail agents traveling the whole land, and a subsidized press established in our midst, to demoralize our people? Will we be stronger then, or better prepared to meet the struggle, if a struggle must come? No, verily! When that time shall come, well may our adversaries laugh at our folly and decide our impotence. The deliberate judgment of Alabama, as indicated by the joint resolutions of her General Assembly, approved February 24, 1860, is, that prudence, patriotism, and loyalty to all the great principles of civil liberty incorporated in our Constitution, and consecrated by the memories of the past, demand that all the Southern States should now resume their delegated powers, maintain the rights, interest, and honor of their citizens, and vindicate their own sovereignty. And she most earnestly but respectfully invites her sister sovereign State, Kentucky, who so gallantly vindicated the sovereignty of the States in 1798, to the consideration of these grave and vital questions, hoping she may concur with the State of Alabama in the conclusions to which she has been driven by the impending dangers that now surround the Southern States. But if, on mature deliberation, she dissent on any point from the conclusions to which the State of Alabama has arrived, on behalf of that State I most respectfully ask a declaration by this venerable Commonwealth of her conclusions and position on all the issues discussed in this communication. And Alabama most respectfully urges upon the people and authorities of Kentucky the startling truth, that submission or acquiescence on the part of the Southern States, at this perilous hour, will enable Black Republicanism to redeem all its nefarious pledges, and accomplish all its flagitious ends; and that hesitation or delay in their action will be misconceived and misconstrued by their adversaries, and ascribed not to that elevated patriotism that would sacrifice all but their honor to save the Union of their fathers, but to division and dissension among themselves and their consequent weakness; that prompt, bold, and decided action is demanded alike by prudence, patriotism, and the safety of their citizens.

 Permit me, in conclusion, on behalf of the State of Alabama, to express my high gratification at the cordial manner in which I have been received as her Commissioner by the authorities of the State of Kentucky, as well as the profound personal gratification which, as a son of Kentucky, born and reared within her borders, I feel, at the manner in which I, as the Commissioner from the State of my adoption, have been received and treated by the authorities of the State of my birth. Please accept assurances of the high consideration and esteem of

Your obedient servant, &c.,

S. F. HALF,

Commissioner from the State of Alabama.

FRANKFORT, Dec. 27, 1860.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT.

To Hon. S. F. HALF, Commissioner from the State of Alabama:

Your communication of the 27th inst., addressed to me by authority of the State of Alabama, has been attentively read.

I concur with you in the opinion that the grave political issues yet pending and undetermined between the slaveholding and non-slaveholding States of the confederacy, are of a character to render eminently proper and highly important a full and frank conference on the part of the Southern members, identified, as they undoubtedly are, by a common interest, bound together by mutual sympathies, and with the whole social fabric resting on homogeneous institutions. And coming, as you do, in a spirit of fraternity, by virtue of a commission from a sister Southern State, to confer with the authorities of this State in reference to the measures necessary to be adopted to protect the interests and maintain the honor and safety of the States and their citizens, I extend you a cordial welcome to Kentucky.

You have not exaggerated the grievous wrongs, injuries, and indignities to which the slaveholding States and their citizens have long submitted, with a degree of patience and forbearance justly attributable alone to that elevated patriotism and devotion to the Union which would lead them to sacrifice well nigh all, save honor, to recover the government to its original integrity of administration, and perpetuate the Union upon the basis of equality established by the founders of the Republic. I may even add, that the people of Kentucky, by reason of their geographical position and nearer proximity to those who seem so madly bent upon the destruction of our constitutional guarantees, realize yet more fully than our friends farther South the intolerable wrongs and menacing dangers you have so elaborately recounted. Nor are you, in my opinion, more keenly alive than are the people of this State to the importance of arresting the insane crusade so long waged against our institutions and our society by measures which shall be certainly effective. The rights of African slavery in the United States, and the relations of the Federal Government to it, as an institution in the States and Territories, most assuredly demand at this time explicit definition and final recognition by the North. The slaveholding States are now impelled by the very highest law of self-preservation to demand that this settlement should be concluded upon such a basis as shall not only conserve the institution in localities where it is now recognized, but also remove the moral and political objections which those of other States have long felt was necessary to their maintenance. Nor must it suffice to remove the objections and improve the relations of the States unani7ously, but the objects of a propriety and a necessity must be extended to the South, where a complete and immediate recognition may be necessary.
recognized, but secure its expansion under no other restrictions than those which the laws of nature may throw around it. That unnecessary conflict between free labor and slave labor but recently inaugurated by the Republican party as an element in our political struggles, must end; and the influence of soil, of climate, and local interests, left unaided and unrestricted save by constitutional limitations, to control the extension of slavery over the public domain. The war upon our social institutions and their guaranteed immunities, waged through the Northern press, religious and secular, and now threatened to be conducted by a dominant political organization through the agency of State Legislatures and the Federal Government, must be ended. Our safety, our honor, and our self-preservation, alike demand that our interests be placed beyond the reach of further assault.

The people of Kentucky may differ variously touching the nature and theory of our complex system of government; but when called upon to pass upon these questions at the polls, I think such an expression would develop no material variance of sentiment touching the wrongs you recite, and the necessity of their prompt adjustment. They fully realize the fatal result of longer forbearance, and appreciate the peril of submission at this juncture. Kentucky would leave no effort untried to preserve the Union of the States upon the basis of the Constitution as we construe it; but Kentucky will never submit to wrong or dishonor, let resistance cost what it may. Unqualified acquiescence in the administration of the government upon the Chicago platform, in view of the movements already inaugurated at the South, and the avowed purposes of the representative men of the Republican party, would, I feel assured, receive no favor in this State, whether her citizens shall in the last resort throw themselves upon the right of revolution as the inherent right of a free people never surrendered, or shall assert the doctrine of secession, can be of little practical import. When the time for action comes—and it is now fearfully near at hand—our people will be found rallied as a unit under the flag of resistance to intolerable wrong; and being thus consolidated in feeling and action, I may well forego any discussion of the abstract theories to which one party or another may hold to cover their resistance.

It is true that, as sovereign political communities, the States must determine, each for itself, the grave issues now presented; and it may be that when driven to the dire extremity of severing their relations with the Federal Government, formal independent separate State action will be proper and necessary. But resting, as do these political communities, upon a common social organization, constituting the sole object of attack and invasion, confronted by a common enemy, encompassed by a common peril, in a word, involved in one common cause, it does seem to me that the mode and manner of defense and redress should be determined in a full and free conference of all the Southern States, and that their mutual safety requires full co-operation in carrying out the measures there agreed upon. The source whence oppression is now to be apprehended is an organized power, a political Government in operation, to which resistance, though ultimately successful—and I do not for a moment question the issue—might be costly and destructive. "We should look these facts in the face, nor close our eyes to what we may reasonably expect to encounter. I have therefore thought that a due regard to the opinions of all the slaveholding States would require that those measures which concern all alike, and most ultimately involve all, should be agreed upon in common convention, and sustained by united action.

I have before expressed the belief—and confidence, and do not now totally yield the hope, that if such a convention of delegates from the slaveholding States be assembled, and, after calm deliberation, present to the political party now holding the dominion of power in the Northern States, and soon to assume the reins of national power; the firm alternative of ample guarantees to all our rights and security for future immunity, or resistance, our just demands would be conceded, and the Union be perpetuated stronger than before. Such an issue so presented to the Congress of the United States, and to the Legislatures and people of the Northern States—and it is practicable a resounding time before the government has passed into other hands—would come with a moral force which, if not potent to control the votes of the representative men, might produce a voice from their constituents which would influence them. But if it fail, our cause would emerge, if possible, stronger, fortified by the approbation of the whole conservative sentiment of the country, and supported by a host of Northern friends who would prove in the ultimate issue most valuable allies. After such an effort, every man in the slaveholding States would feel satisfied that all had been done which could be done to preserve the legacy bequeathed us by the patriots of '76 and the statesmen of '80, and the South would stand in solid unbroken phalanx, a unit. In the brief time left, it seems to me impracticable to effect this object through the agency of commissioners sent to the different States. A convention of authorized delegates is the true mode of bringing about co-operation among the Southern States; and to that movement I would respectfully ask your attention, and through you solicit the co-operation of Alabama. There is yet another subject upon which the very highest considerations appeal for an united southern expression.

On the 4th of March next, the Federal Government, unless contingencies now unlooked for occur, will pass into the control of the Republican party. So far as the policy of the incoming administration is foreshadowed in the antecedents of the President elect, in the emanations of his Representative men, and the avowals of the press, it will be to ignore the acts of sovereignty thus proclaimed by Southern States, and of coercing the continuance of the Union, its inevitable result will be civil war of the most fearful and revolting character. Now, however the people of the South may differ as to the mode and measure of redress, I take it that the fifteen slaveholding States are united in opposition to such a policy, and would stand in solid column to resist the application of force by the Federal authority to coerce the seceding States. But it is of the utmost importance that before such a policy is attempted to be inaugurated, the voice of the South should be heard in potential, official, and united protest. Possibly the incoming administration would not be so dead to reason as, after such an expression, to persist in throwing the country into civil war, and we may thereby avert the calamity. An attempt "to enforce the laws" by blockading two or three Southern States would be regarded as quite a different affair from a declaration of war against thirteen millions of freemen, and if Mr. Lincoln and his advisers be made to realize that such would be the issue of the "force policy," it will be abandoned. Should we not realize to our enemies that consequence and avert the disastrous results? But if our enemies be crazed by victory and power, and madly persist in their purpose, the South will be better prepared to resist.

You ask the co-operation of the Southern States in order to redress our wrongs: so do we. You have no hope of a redress in the Union. We yet look hopefully to assurances that a powerful reaction is going on at the North. You seek a remedy in secession from the Union. We wish the united action of the slave States assembled in convention within the Union. You would act separately: we unitedly. If Alabama and the other slave States would meet us in convention, say at Nashville or elsewhere, as early as the 5th day of February, I do not doubt that we would agree in forty-eight hours upon such reasonable guarantees, by way of amendment to the Constitution of the United States, as would command at least the approbation of our numerous friends in the free States, and by giving them time to make the question with the people there, such a reaction in public opinion might yet take place as to secure us our rights, and save the government. If the effort failed, the South would be united to a man, the North divided, the horrors of civil war would be averted—if any thing can avert the calamity; and if that be not possible, we would be in a better position to meet the dreadful collision. By such action, too, if it failed to preserve the government, the basis of another confederacy would have been agreed upon, and the new government would in this mode be launched into operation much more speedily and easily than by the action you propose.

In addition to the foregoing, I have the honor to refer you to my letter of the 16th ult., to the Editor of the Yeoman, and to my letter to the Governors of the slave States, dated the 9th December, herewith transmitted to you, which, together with what I have said in this communication, embodies, with all due deference to the opinions of others, in my judgment, the principles, policy, and position which the slave States ought to maintain.

The Legislature of Kentucky will assemble on the 17th of January, when the sentiment of the State will doubtless find official expression. Meantime, if the action of Alabama shall be arrested until the conference she has sought can be concluded by communication with that department of the government, I shall be pleased to transmit to the Legislature your views. I regret to have seen in the recent messages of two or three of our Southern sister States a recommendation of the passage of laws prohibiting the purchase, by the citizens of those States, of the slaves of the border slaveholding States. Such a course is not only liable to the objection so often urged by us against the Abolitionists of the North of an endeavor to prohibit the slave trade between the States, but is likewise wanting in that fraternal feeling which should be common to States which are identified in their institutions and interests. It affords me pleasure, however, to add, as an act of justice to your State, that I have seen no indication of such a purpose on the part of Alabama. It would certainly be considered an act of injustice for the border slaveholding States to prohibit, by their legislation, the purchase of the products of the cotton-growing States, even though it be founded upon the mistaken policy of protection to their own interests.

I cannot close this correspondence without again expressing to you my gratification in receiving you as the honored Commissioner from your proud and chivalrous State, and at your courteous, able, dignified, and manly bearing in discharging the solemn and important duties which have been assigned to you.

I have the honor to be, with sentiments of high consideration,

Your friend and obedient servant,

B. MAGOFFIN.

FRANKFORT, Ky., January 1, 1861.

To His Excellency, B. MAGOFFIN,
Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

Your communication of the 28th ult., in reply to the communication I, as the Commissioner from the State of Alabama, had the honor of submitting for your consideration on the 27th, has just been placed in my hands, and shall promptly be laid before the Governor of Alabama. Be assured that the communication of your Excellency will receive from the authorities of the State of Alabama that full and candid consideration due, as well to the magnitude of the subjects discussed, as the high source from which it emanates; and I doubt not that in the hour of trial Kentucky and Alabama will be found standing side by side in defense of the rights, interests, and honor of their citizens.

In closing our official correspondence, permit me again to express my high appreciation of the cordial welcome extended to me as the Commissioner from Alabama, as well as your many acts of courtesy and kindness to me personally during my sojourn at your capital.

And accept assurances of the high consideration and esteem of

Your friend and obedient servant,

S. F. HALE.

This calculation is predicated upon the hypothesis that the Legislature will not make any extraordinary appropriations; and should this be so, this balance may be reduced by advanced payments being made out of the revenue of 1861. At all events, it is supposed, at the end of the year (31st of December) 1861, this balance will be all liquidated.

It is supposed the valuation of taxable property for the year 1861 (the revenue of which will be payable in the fiscal year, 1862) will be reduced at least one third, and perhaps more; hence it may be calculated with some degree of certainty that the revenue proper will be reduced to that extent.

GRANT GREEN, Auditor.
To His Excellency, B. Magoffin,
Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

Sir: Some time since a requisition of your Excellency was presented to me, for the surrender to your agent of Willis Lago, described as being a "fugitive from the justice" of your State, charged by indictment, an authenticated copy of which accompanied the requisition, with the offense against the laws of Kentucky of having "seduced and enticed Charlotte, a slave, the property of C. W. Nichols, to leave her owner and possessor, and of aiding and assisting said slave in an attempt to make her escape from her said owner and possessor."

My absence from home, and that of the Attorney General of this State to whom I submitted the papers for his official examination, and other causes, referred to in the accompanying copy of the opinion of that officer, have delayed my reply to your requisition.

I have now the honor of communicating to your Excellency this opinion of the Attorney General, which embodies substantially the reasons that have compelled me to decline to surrender Lago, in compliance with your requisition.

With sentiments of the highest respect, I have the honor to be
Your obedient servant,

W. Dennison.

Office of the Attorney General,
Columbus, Ohio, 14th April, 1860.

Sir: The requisition with its accompanying documents made upon you by the Governor of Kentucky, for the surrender of Willis Lago, described to be a "fugitive from the justice of the laws of" that State, may, for all present purpose, be regarded as sufficiently complying with the provisions of the Federal Constitution and the act of Congress touching the extradition of fugitives from justice, if the alleged offense charged against Lago can be considered as either "treason, felony, or other crime," within the full scope of these provisions.

Attached to the requisition is an authenticated copy of the indictment on which the demand is predicated; and this—omitting merely the title of the case and the venue—is in the words and figures following:

"The Grand Jury of Woodford county, in the name and by the authority of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, accuse Willis Lago, free man of color, of the crime of assisting slave to escape, &c., committed as follows, viz: The said Willis Lago, free man of color, on the 4th day of October, 1859, in the county aforesaid, not having having lawful claim, and not having any color of claim thereto, did seduce and entice Charlotte, a slave, the property of C. W. Nichols, to leave her owner and possessor, and did aid and assist said slave in an attempt to make her escape from her said owner and possessor, against the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth of Kentucky."

This indictment, it must be admitted, is quite inaccurately framed, and it might be found difficult to vindicate its validity according to the rules of criminal pleading which obtain in our own courts, or wheresoever else the common law prevails. This objection, however, if it have any force, loses its importance in the presence of other considerations, which, in my judgment, must control the fate of the application.

The act of which Lago is thus accused by the Grand Jury of Woodford county certainly is not "treason" according to any code of any country; and just as certainly is not "felony," or any other crime under the laws of this State or by the common law. On the other hand, the laws of Kentucky do denounce this act as a "crime," and the question is thus presented, whether, under the Federal Constitution, one State is under an obligation to surrender its citizens or residents to any other State, on the charge that they have committed an offense not known to the laws of the former, nor affecting the public safety, nor regarded as malum in se by the general judgment and conscience of civilized nations.

This question must, in my opinion, be resolved against the existence of any such obligation. There are many acts, such as the creation of nuisances, selling vinous or spirituous liquors, horse racing, trespassing on public lands, keeping tavern without license, permitting dogs to run at large, declared by the laws of most of the States to be crimes, for the commission of which the offender is visited with fine or imprisonment, or with both, and yet it will not be insisted that the power of extradition as defined by the Constitution applies to these or the like offenses. Obviously, a line must be somewhere drawn, distinguishing offenses which do, from offenses which do not, fall within the scope of this power. The right rule, in my opinion, is that which holds the power to be limited to such acts as constitute either treason or felony by the common law, as that stood when the constitution was adopted, or which are regarded as crimes by the usages and laws of all civilized nations. This rule is sufficiently vindicated by the consideration that no other has ever been suggested at once so easy of application to all cases, so just to the several States, and so consistent in its operation with the rights and security of the citizen.

The application of this rule is decisive against the demand now urged for the surrender of Lago. The offense charged against him does not rank among those upon which the constitutional provision was intended to operate, and you have therefore no authority to comply with the requisition made upon you by the Governor of Kentucky.

Entertaining no doubt as to the rightfulness of this conclusion, I am highly gratified in being able to fortify it by the authority of my learned and eminent predecessor, who first filled this office, and who officially advised the Governor of that day, that in a case substantially similar to the one now presented, he ought not to issue his warrant of extradition. Other authority, if needed, may be found in the fact that this rule is conformable to the ancient and settled usage of the State.

To guard against possible misapprehension, let me add that the power of extradition is not to be exercised as of course, in every case which may apparently fall within the rule here asserted. While it is limited to these cases, the very nature of the power is such that its exercise, even under this limitation, must always be guided by a sound legal discretion applying itself to the particular circumstances of each case as it shall be presented.

The communication in a formal manner of the preceding opinion has been long but unavoidably deferred by causes of which you are fully apprised. Though this delay is greatly to be regretted, it can have had no prejudicial effect, as the agent appointed by the Governor of Kentucky to receive Lago, was long since officially, though informally, advised that no case had been presented which would warrant his extradition.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

C. P. WALCOTT.

To the Governor.

EXECUTIVE OFFICE,
Frankfort, Ky., June 4th, 1860.

His Excellency, W. DENNISON, Governor of Ohio:

Sir: Your reply, dated 31st ult., to my requisition upon you, made on the 10th of February last, in which you refuse to surrender a fugitive from the justice of this State, charged by indictment with the crime of having seduced and enticed a slave to leave her owner and possessor, and of aiding and assisting said slave in an attempt to make her escape from her said owner and possessor, is before me.

I am not as much surprised at the delay in making your reply, as I have been at the apparently conflicting reasons which are given by you and the Attorney General of Ohio therefor; nor at this so much as at the reasons embodied in the "opinion" of the latter officer, upon which you base your declination to surrender the fugitive.

You state that your absence from home, and that of the Attorney General, delayed your response. The Attorney states that the agent appointed by me was "long since officially, though informally, advised that no case had been presented which would warrant the extradition" of the fugitive. The opinion of the Attorney bears date 14th April last; your note to me adopting it bears date nearly six weeks afterwards; and although it appears that long before the 14th April it had been "officially" announced that you would not make the surrender, you hesitated to inform me of the fact until the 31st of May. And wherefore? May I not, in charity, indulge the hope that it was because of your reluctance to violate the Constitution of the United States and the act of Congress passed to carry it into effect, both of which imperatively demand that the fugitive shall be surrendered?

The constitution (article 4, section 2) declares that a "person charged in any State with treason, felony, or other crime, who shall flee
Your Attorney General says that the requisition made upon you with its accompanying documents, are "regarded as sufficiently complying with the provisions of the Federal Constitution and the act of Congress touching the extradition of fugitives from justice," and he admits that "the laws of Kentucky do denounce this act as a crime." Had not the Legislature of Kentucky the right to declare the offense alleged to a felony? Do you contend that the act is unconstitutional? But the refusal to surrender is based upon the ground that it is not a crime under the laws of Ohio, or the common law; and you, through your Attorney, go on to say that "the right rule is that which holds the power of extradition to be limited to such acts as constitute either treason or felony by the common law, as that stood when the constitution was adopted, or which are regarded as crimes by the usages and laws of all civilized nations." It is added that "the application of this rule is decisive against the demand" for the surrender of the fugitive in question. And this rule is again limited by the statement, that "the power of extradition is not to be exercised as of course, in every case which may apparently fall within the rule here asserted. This qualification would seem to have been added from a superabundance of caution.

The rule adopted by you, it will be seen at a glance, would forbid the surrender of a fugitive from justice charged with crime, in almost numberless instances, although the crime be well defined upon the statute book of the State where committed, because, forsooth, it was not a crime at common law when the constitution was adopted, or not recognized as such by the usages and laws of all civilized nations! For example. Certain injuries and obstructions to telegraph lines and railroads are crimes by our statute, and perhaps by yours. Were they crimes at common law when the constitution was formed? Obtaining money by false pretences, and other description of frauds, are now made crimes by the statutes of some of the States. Were they crimes at common law at the adoption of the constitution? Or is it certain that the laws and usages of "all civilized nations" even now denounce them as crimes or felonies? Look over your own statute book, and you will doubtless see many crimes defined which were not so at the origin of our common government, or which the judgment or laws of all civilized nations will approve. Do you issue no requisition for the surrender of a fugitive from the justice of your laws without first ascertaining whether the crime with which he stands charged was a crime at common law at the adoption of the constitution, or is made such by the laws of all civilized countries?

Your Attorney General—and yourself—adopting his opinion—say that the indictment which accompanied my requisition upon you "is quite inartificially framed, and it might be found difficult to vindicate its validity according to the rules of criminal pleading, which obtain in our own courts, [i.e. the courts of Ohio,] or wherever else the common law prevails."

It would seem, from this attempt at criticism, that not only are the laws of Kentucky, which do not conflict with the constitution of the United States, defining crimes, to be annulled by the laws of Ohio and the ancient common law, but likewise the mode of procedure prescribed by our Code of Practice and Pleading for our courts of justice. You are doubtless aware that many of our sister States, as well as Kentucky, have simplified their system of practice and pleading, by their own statute laws; and the criticism now made upon this indictment, instead of advancing with these judicial reforms, would lead us back into the labyrinth of black letter times.

But to return to the main question. Shall the constitutional provision which I have quoted, and the act of Congress, be obeyed? Shall the rights of a sovereign State of the confederacy, her laws, and her institutions, be respected?

Judge Story, in his Commentaries on the Constitution, remarks that, "however the point may be as to foreign nations, it cannot be questioned that it is of vital importance to the public administration of criminal justice and the security of the respective States, that criminals who have committed crimes therein should not find an asylum in other States; but should be surrendered up for trial and punishment. It is a power most salutary in its general operation, by discouraging crimes and cutting off the chances of escape from punishment. It will promote harmony and good feelings among the States; and it will increase the general sense of the blessings of the national government."

But it is needless to quote authorities. Our claim is founded upon the binding obligations of a plainly written constitution and an equally unambiguous enactment by Congress, passed in pursuance thereof.

I shall not stop to enter into the discussion of our right of property in slaves. That is a question not open for debate. It has been too long recognized, and by too many sanctions, to admit at this day of controversy; and especially by those who are ready, upon the merest pretexts, to deny us our constitutional rights pertaining to that description of property. It is sufficient to say that the federal constitution was the work of delegates whose almost entire constituency were citizens of slave States. It may in truth be said that the constitution was the work of slaveholders—that their wisdom, moderation, and prudence gave it to us. Non-slaveholding States were then the exception, not the rule. The organic law of the nation recognized by its provisions, in unmistakable terms, the right to slave property, some of which provisions were designed for its protection.

With regard to the argument that some of the States have declared to be crimes offenses which appear trivial to others, it is only necessary to remark that it is for each State to settle and determine for itself, and by its own laws, when not in conflict with the constitution of the United States, what acts shall or shall not be considered criminal when committed within its own limits and jurisdiction; and no violator of such laws should be suffered to escape with impunity because officers, whose business it is to execute and not to enact the laws, may think them too severe.
According to the rule laid down by you, all that would be necessary for a State, wishing to refuse to surrender fugitives from justice, and become an asylum for the criminals of other States, to do, would be to repeal its criminal laws; for as they must govern the question in your view of it, there could be then no crime to punish, and no fugitive to return to answer the demands of violated law.

The Attorney General announces that the rule adopted by him and yourself is "conformable to the ancient and settled usage of the State" of Ohio.

I am not aware how ancient the rule may be with you, but I am satisfied it was not in vogue when Kentuckians ran with alacrity to the rescue of your people against the assaults of British invaders and their more savage allies. And it cannot be that ingratitude is a characteristic of your constituents. It is to their "sober second thought" that I would appeal, not to grant us a favor or confer a privilege, but simply not to give us a denial of our constitutional rights. And that appeal I would make in your own language, when on a recent occasion you addressed your fellow-citizens of Kentucky, Tennessee, and Indiana, at your own capital. Speaking for the people of Kentucky, as you then spoke for the people of Ohio, I would declare with emphasis: "Believe me, gentlemen, the people of Ohio ask no peculiar privileges under the Constitution. They cheerfully recognize as belonging to their brethren all the rights they claim for themselves. The exclusive right of the people of every State to establish and maintain undisturbed their domestic institutions, lies at the foundation of the national confederacy. Without its recognition there could have been no union of the States. Without its continued recognition, as the basis of all national legislation, and for the regulation of the intercourse between the people of the States, in theory and in fact, there can be no practical union of the States. The sovereignty of the States in all matters not clearly delegated to the Federal Government must be maintained."—Columbus Speech, Jan., 1860.

This was the solemn pledge given to us on our visit last winter to Ohio, by you, as the Executive of the State, and, be assured, nothing less will satisfy the people of Kentucky. Nothing less should be conceded by the people of Ohio. I cannot convey to you my surprise and disappointment, when I read the reasons given for your refusal to surrender the fugitive Lago, in direct violation, I conceive, of the sentiments and principles laid down in the above extract from your speech upon the occasion alluded to. According to your own admissions and position so distinctly stated, that violation involves a dissolution of the Union.

I have the honor to be,

Your obedient servant,

B. MAGOFFIN.

P. S.—Under a sense of duty to the people I have the honor to represent, and in view of the large number of slaves annually enticed away from their owners by emissaries sent from Ohio, whom you refuse to surrender, I shall cause this correspondence to be published.

Mr. Fisk offered the following resolution:

Resolved, That the Committee on Federal Relations be, and hereby are, instructed to inquire into the expediency of submitting what are known as the Crittenden amendments to the Constitution of the United States, to a vote of the qualified voters of Kentucky, on the 22d day of February next, and of directing the Governor to request the Governors of the States of Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Missouri, Arkansas, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana, and Illinois, to cause the same to be submitted to the voters of their respective States on the same day. Also, that the Governor appoint two Commissioners to meet two Commissioners from each of the aforesaid States, in Cincinnati, in the State of Ohio, on the — day of March next, for the purpose of preparing amendments to the Constitution of the United States, in order that such amendments may be submitted for the adoption of all the United States as shall heal the discord now existing among them; restore fraternal feelings, settle and protect the just rights of all the people in all the States and Territories, and forever remove the slavery question from the halls of the National Legislature; and that said committee report by bill or otherwise, at their earliest convenience.

Ordered, That the Public Printer forthwith print 150 copies of the same for the use of the members of the General Assembly, and that the said resolution be made the special order for to-morrow at 10 o'clock, A. M.

Mr. Grover offered the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That the rules governing the Senate at its last session be adopted as the rules for its government at its present session, and that the Public Printer forthwith print 150 copies thereof for the use of the members of the General Assembly.

Which was adopted.

Mr. Andrews offered the following resolution:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That we approve the propositions lately offered in the Senate of the Congress of the United States by our Senator, Hon. John J. Crittenden, as a proper basis for the settlement of the existing national difficulties on the subject of slavery.

Ordered, That the Public Printer forthwith print 150 copies thereof for the use of the members of the General Assembly, and that the consideration of said resolution be postponed for the present.

Mr. Andrews offered the following resolution:

Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That the legislative business of this session be confined to such subjects as are embraced in the Governor's message, and that it shall be out of order to consider any other subjects of general legislation.

Ordered, That the Public Printer forthwith print 150 copies of the same for the use of the members of the General Assembly, and that the consideration of said resolution be postponed for the present.

Mr. Andrews offered the following resolution, viz:

Resolved by the Senate, (until otherwise ordered,) That the regular hours of the assembling of the Senate on each day be at 10 o'clock, A. M., and that the Senate adjourn at 1½ o'clock each day.

Which was adopted.

Mr. Prall read and laid on the table the following resolution:

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That the respective Committees on Federal Relations in the Senate and House of Representatives, be, and it is hereby, constituted a joint committee of the two Houses for the present session.

Mr. Simpson read and laid on the table the following preamble and resolutions:

WHEREAS, The people of some of the States feel themselves deeply aggrieved by the policy and measures which have been adopted by the people of some of the other States; and whereas, an amendment of the Constitution of the United States is deemed indispensably necessary to secure them against similar grievances in the future; therefore,

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That application to Congress, to call a Convention for proposing amendments to the Constitution of the United States, pursuant to the fifth article thereof, be, and the same is hereby, now made by the General Assembly of Kentucky.

Resolved, That the Governor of this State forthwith communicate the foregoing resolution to the President of the United States, with the request that he immediately place the same before Congress.

Mr. Walton read and laid on the table the following preamble and resolution:

WHEREAS, The people of this country, North and South, are in a distracted condition in relation to the institution of slavery, by reason of Northern aggressions upon Southern rights, in consequence of which we are in a state of revolution, and upon the very verge of a disruption of the Government; and whereas, the people of Kentucky have a deep and abiding interest in the perpetuity of the union of the States with all our constitutional rights; therefore,

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That it is the duty of the people of Kentucky to do anything in their power, consistent with their honor and the interests of the Commonwealth, to bring about a speedy reconciliation between the Northern and Southern States; and that, as a basis of a final adjustment of the difficulties now existing between the two sections of the country, we recommend to our sister States, for their adoption at the polls at their earliest convenience, the following propositions, to wit:

"Whereas, Serious and alarming dissensions have arisen between the Northern and Southern States, concerning the rights and security of the rights of the slaveholding States, and especially their rights in the common territory of the United States; and whereas, it is eminently desirable and proper that those dissensions, which now threaten the very existence of this Union, should be permanently quieted and settled by constitutional provisions, which shall do equal justice to all sections, and thereby restore to the people that peace and good will which ought to prevail between all the citizens of the United States; therefore,

"Resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, two thirds of both Houses concurring, That the following articles be, and are hereby, proposed and submitted as amendments to the Constitution of the United States, which shall be valid to all intents and purposes as part of said Constitution, when ratified by Conventions of three fourths of the several States.

"Art. 1. In all the territory of the United States now held, or hereafter acquired, situated north of latitude 36 degrees 30 minutes, slavery or involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime, is prohibited while such territory shall remain under territorial government. In all the territory south of said line of latitude, slavery of the African race is hereby recognized as existing, and shall not be interfered with by Congress, but shall be protected as property by all the departments of the territorial government during its continuance. And when any territory, north or south of said line, within such boundaries as Congress may prescribe, shall contain the population requisite for a member of Congress according to the then Federal ratio of representation of the people of the United States, it shall, if its form of government be Republican, be admitted into the Union, on an equal footing with the original States, with or without slavery, as the constitution of such new State may provide.

"Art. 2. Congress shall have no power to abolish slavery in places under its exclusive jurisdiction, and situated within the limits of States that permit the holding of slaves.

"Art. 3. Congress shall have no power to abolish slavery within the District of Columbia, so long as it exists, in the adjoining States of Virginia and Maryland, or either, nor without the consent of the inhabitants, nor without just compensation first made to such owners of slaves as do not consent to such abolition. Nor shall Congress at any time prohibit officers of the Federal Government, or members of Congress, whose duties require them to be in said District, from bringing with them their slaves, and holding them as such during the time their duties may require them to remain there, and afterwards taking them from the District.

"Art. 4. Congress shall have no power to prohibit or hinder the transport of persons held to service or labour in any of the States, to which such person may belong, except as a temporary measure to prevent insurrections in those States; and no State shall, in any case, prevent the transportation thereof to any other State.

JOURNAL OF THE SENATE.

ARR. 5. That in addition to the provisions of the third paragraph of the second section of the fourth article of the Constitution of the United States, Congress shall have power to provide by law, and it shall be its duty to so provide, that the United States shall pay to the owner who shall apply for it, the full value of his fugitive slave in all cases when the marshal or other officer whose duty it was to arrest said fugitive was prevented from so doing by violence or intimidation, or when, after arrest, said fugitive was rescued by force, and the owner thereby prevented and obstructed in the pursuit of his remedy for the recovery of his fugitive slave under the said clause of the Constitution and the laws made in pursuance thereof. And in all such cases, when the United States shall pay for such fugitive, they shall have the right, in their own name, to sue the county in which said violence, intimidation, or rescue was committed, and to recover from it, with interest and damages, the amount paid by them for said fugitive slave. And the said county, after it has paid such amount to the United States, may, for its indemnity, sue and recover from the wrong doers or rescuers by whom the owner was prevented from the recovery of his fugitive slave, in like manner as the owner himself might have sued and recovered.

ARR. 6. No future amendment of the Constitution shall affect the five preceding articles; nor the third paragraph of the second section of the first article of the Constitution; nor the third paragraph of the second section of the fourth article of said Constitution; and no amendment shall be made to the Constitution, which will authorize or give to Congress any power to abolish or interfere with slavery in any of the States by whose laws it is or may be allowed or permitted.

Ordered, That the Public Printer forthwith print 150 copies of the same for the use of the members of the General Assembly.

Mr. Cosby read and laid on the table the following preamble and resolutions:

WHEREAS, The Union of these States is in imminent danger of being broken up by the secession of Southern and the nullification of Northern States; and whereas, it is a duty we owe ourselves and our posterity to make an honest and a patriotic effort to save entire a Government which cost the blood and treasure of our sires, and which has made us the happiest and most prosperous nation on earth; and whereas, self-interest and self-preservation point out the necessity of agreeing upon the course to be pursued in the event that we should fail to accomplish our object, to-wit: the preservation of the Union; therefore, be it

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That in the present political crisis, Kentucky cannot, consistently with her own interest and the duty which she owes her sister States, occupy a neutral position.

Resolved, That she is in favor of the perpetuity of her Federal relations with all the States of this Government, upon, and only upon, constitutional principles.

Resolved, That she deems it her interest and bounden duty, as a slave State, to send delegates to a Southern Convention, the object and design of which will be to agree upon and clearly define the constitutional rights of the South.

Resolved, That said delegates be instructed neither to add to or subtract from the present Constitution; but they shall be required to append to said Constitution a supplement, defining, in plain terms, the decisions of the Supreme Court in reference to the subject of slavery, and containing an amendment making it the duty of the General Government to collect in money the value of any fugitive slave or slaves from such States as may refuse to give them up according to the requisions of the fugitive slave law, whether that refusal be upon the legislative action of said States or the violence of a mob.

Resolved, That when said Convention shall have finished its labors, it shall be its duty to submit its proceedings to a ratification or rejection of the States.

Resolved, That the States ratifying the Constitution thus defined and amended, shall form a permanent and everlasting Union thereon.

Resolved, That it is not our intention, in any thing that we may do, to dissolve our present confederated government; but, on the other hand, to heal the breach already existing, and cement it together upon its original principles, and thus destroy the irrepressible conflict now being waged by Northern and by Southern fanatics, so much to the injury of our prosperity and the danger of our institutions.

Resolved, That the necessity of the move that Kentucky, and the States agreeing with her, is about to make, grows out of the action of such Northern States as have nullified the fugitive slave law, and the threatening and menacing position assumed by the Republican party in reference to the power of Congress over the subject of slavery.

Resolved, That the appointment of delegates to a Southern Convention by the Governor or the Legislature, as may be deemed best, will supersede the necessity of calling a State Convention.

Ordered, That the Public Printer forthwith print 150 copies of the same for the use of the members of the General Assembly.

Mr. Rhea offered the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That in the opinion of the Senate it is the duty of the Speaker of the Senate to appoint the usual standing committees, made obligatory under the rules of the Senate.

Which was adopted.

On motion of Mr. Andrews, the Senate then adjourned.
FRIDAY, JANUARY 18, 1861.

Mr. Andrews offered the following resolution:

Resolved by the Senate, That the Committee on Federal Relations consist of seven members.

Mr. Grover proposed to amend the resolution by making the Committee on Military Affairs consist of the same number.

Amendment agreed to and resolution adopted.

Mr. L. Rousseau, the Senator elected from the 24th Senatorial District, appeared, took the several oaths required by the Constitution, and took his seat.

The Senate then, according to special order, took up for consideration the resolution offered by Mr. Fisk on yesterday.

Mr. Anthony moved to amend said resolution, by striking out the word "instruct," in the second line, and inserting in lieu thereof the word "request."

Which was adopted.

Said resolution, as amended, was then adopted.

Mr. Cissell read and laid upon the table the following preamble and resolutions, viz:

 Whereas, The people of the slave States feel, and have just cause to feel, deeply aggrieved by the policy and measures adopted by the dominant majority of the free States; and whereas, Mr. Lincoln has been elected to the Presidency of the United States upon principles of utter hostility to the institution of slavery in the South and in the common territory of the United States; and whereas, propositions have been made, having for their object the formation of a central confederacy of the border slave and free States; therefore, be it

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That while Kentucky is and ever has been devoted to the Union upon the principles of the Federal Constitution, as construed by the Supreme Court, yet she deems the formation of such a confederacy unwise, unfeasible, and impolitic, tending certainly and speedily to the destruction of slave property in this State.

Resolved, That while it is the duty of Kentucky to make one more effort to bring about a speedy reconciliation between the North and South, and while she is willing to accept the Crittenden resolutions by way of amendments to the Constitution as a final settlement of the entire difficulties; when these are refused by the people of the North, through their representatives, Kentucky will consider herself absolved from all allegiance to the present Federal Constitution, and pledges herself to stand by and with her sisters of the South; their trials shall be her trials; their destiny, her destiny.

Ordered, That the Public Printer forthwith print 150 copies of the same for the use of the members of the General Assembly, and the further consideration of said resolutions be postponed for the present.

Mr. Prall read and laid upon the table the following preamble and resolutions, viz:

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That it is fitting that we should meet with firmness and moderation the grave questions that agitate the country, and should deliberate calmly and without passion, upon the momentous issues that now press upon us, and which involve the preservation or dismemberment of an empire and the destinies of millions of freemen.

Resolved, That we regard the union of the States under the Constitution, as the surest safeguard and strongest bulwark of regulated liberty ever devised by man, and cherish it as associated with all our historic glories in the past, and our brightest hopes in the future; and if it shall be perpetuated upon the principles on which it was founded, we believe it destined to be the fruitful and beneficent source of boundless blessings and benefits to every member of the confederacy in all time to come. We therefore deem it the patriotic duty of Kentucky to cling to the Union so long as there may remain a reasonable hope of its preservation or reconstruction upon principles of justice and equality, and consistently with the rights and the safety of the citizens of the several States.

Resolved, That we have witnessed with profound regret the triumph of a sectional party in the North, whose principles and purposes we believe to be in conflict with the spirit and genius of our institutions, in violation of the Constitution as expounded by our highest judicial tribunal, and hostile to the rights and the institutions of the South.

Resolved, That in a spirit of compromise and conciliation, we are ready cordially to accept the propositions recently submitted, as amendments to the Constitution, by our distinguished Senator, Hon. John J. Crittenden, in the Congress of the United States, as the very best which can secure peace and permanence to the Union; and unless these propositions, or such an equivalent as will remove the question of slavery from the arena of national politics, and guarantee the rights of the South, shall be accepted by the Northern States, their rejection will be regarded by Kentucky as evincing such a settled determination, on their part, to make war upon the institutions of the South, and must lead inevitably to the separation of the States.

Resolved, That in order that this great issue may be fairly presented, we recommend that Congress submit these propositions to the several States, or that the States act upon them without delay in such manner as they may deem most fit to give expression to their sentiments; and we hereby petition Congress, and ask our sister States to unite with us in the petition, that a general convention of the States may be called, as soon as may be practicable, for the purpose of amending the Constitution, in order that one last appeal to the patriotism of the people of the North shall be made, and one final effort to perpetuate our Government upon the enduring foundations of justice and equality, before it shall be dismembered forever.

Resolved, That with a view to earnest and deliberate consultation and concert of action among those identified in interest and destiny, we recommend that a Convention of delegates from the border slaveholding States, including Tennessee and North Carolina, and such others as may choose to co-operate, assemble in the city of Baltimore, on the day of ________, and ________; one of whom to be selected by the Senators and Representatives from each Congressional District, are appointed delegates to represent the State of Kentucky in that Convention.

Resolved, That if all the efforts we have attempted by these resolutions to inaugurate, and such others as may be promptly made, shall fail to produce an adjustment of existing difficulties; or, if the exigencies of the times shall, in his judgment, demand it, the Governor is empowered by proclamation to call a Convention, to assemble at Frankfort, at such time as he may designate. And to provide for this contingency, the Committee on the Judiciary is instructed to bring in a bill providing for the election and pay of delegates, if such Convention should be called. But no action of that body shall be final and binding, involving the political relations of Kentucky, till it shall have been fairly submitted to the people and ratified by their vote.

Resolved, That we deplore as unworthy of freemen, a Union to be held together by the sword; and Kentucky will never consent to the employment of force by the strong arm of the Federal Government to coerce into submission the States of the South that have withdrawn from the Union, but enters against it her most solemn protest.

Resolved, That the Governor be requested to transmit copies of the foregoing resolutions to the Executives of the several States, and to our Senators and Representatives in Congress.

Ordered, That the Public Printer forthwith print 150 copies of the same for the use of the members of the General Assembly, and the further consideration of said resolutions be postponed for the present.

Mr. Grover offered the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That the Committee on Military Affairs be instructed to inquire into and ascertain what appropriation will be required by the present General Assembly to provide the necessary additional arms, accoutrements, and other munitions for existing and future emergencies, so as to put the Commonwealth in a complete state of defense, and that they report by bill at their earliest convenience.

Mr. Alexander proposed the following amendment, viz:

After the word defense, "and that they also report what arms are now owned by the State, and their location and condition, and the place at which, and the cost of additional arms."

7
Amendment agreed to, resolution adopted, and referred to Committee on Military Affairs.

Mr. Walker offered the following resolution, viz:

Resolved by the Senate of Kentucky, That the Committee on Federal Relations be instructed to report a bill submitting to the qualified voters of this Commonwealth the propriety of calling a convention to determine what course they will pursue in the present crisis, and on the same day providing for the election of delegates to attend said Convention.

Mr. Whittaker offered the following amendment, viz:

Amend by striking out the word "instruct," in the second line, and insert "request."

Which was adopted.

Said resolution, as amended, was then adopted.

Mr. Grover offered the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That so much of the Governor's message as relates to Federal affairs be referred to the Committee on Federal Relations. That so much of said message as relates to arming, equipping, uniforming, and providing munitions of war for volunteer soldiers, be referred to the Committee on Military Affairs. That so much of said message as relates to the rebuilding of the Lunatic Asylum at Hopkinsville, be referred to the Committee on Finance. That so much of said message as relates to finance, be referred to the Committee on Finance.

Which was adopted.

Mr. DeHaven offered the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That the Committee on Finance be composed of seven, instead of five members, as now constituted.

Which was adopted.

Mr. Fisk offered the following resolution, viz:

Resolved, That the Sergeant-At-Arms be instructed to fling out the old stars and stripes from the dome of this Capitol.

Which was unanimously adopted.

On motion of Mr. Cissell,

Ordered, That the rules of the Senate be suspended, and the resolutions offered by Messrs. Andrews, Prall, Cosby, and Walton, on yesterday, be referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

On motion of same, the rules were suspended, and the resolutions offered by Messrs. Cissell and Prall were referred to the Committee on Federal Relations.

The Senate then, according to order, took up the joint resolution offered by Mr. Simpson on yesterday.
Mr. Prall offered the following amendments, viz:

Amend first resolution by adding, “and we hereby invite our sister States to unite with us, without delay, in similar applications to Congress.”

Amend second resolution by adding, “and the Executives of the several States, with a request that they lay them before their respective Legislatures.”

Which were accepted.

The resolution, as amended, was then adopted.

Mr. Andrews offered the following preamble and resolutions, viz:

The Senate of Kentucky having received information of the death of Col. James McKee, a member of this body, and having in the sorrow this sad event has brought upon his family and the people whom he so faithfully served, do unanimously

Resolved, That we deeply and sincerely regret the loss at this time of one so good, true, and firm in all patriotic purposes; so pure in all the relations of life; so exalted in virtue, and so inflexibly attached to the Union of the States.

Resolved, That the officers and members of this body will wear mourning on the left arm for thirty days.

Resolved, That a copy of this preamble and these resolutions be transmitted to his widow, Mrs. McKee, expressive of our sympathy with the irreparable loss she has sustained in this severely affliction dispensation of Providence.

Resolved, That the Senate adjourn until to-morrow at 10 o’clock.

And after some eloquent and appropriate remarks from Messrs. Andrews and Haycraft, said resolutions were adopted.

And then the Senate adjourned.

SATURDAY, JANUARY 19, 1861.

WHEREAS, Some of the States, composing the United States of America, have, by ordinances of conventions of the people of such States, dissolved their union with the States as formed by the Constitution of the United States, and from information it is believed that other States will adopt like ordinances of dissolution; and whereas, it is the sincere and earnest wish of the General Assembly of Kentucky, representing, as is believed, the undivided will and judgment of the people of Kentucky, that the Union of the States should be restored; and whereas, the mode of reconciling and adjusting the disensions which have already partially dissolved our Union, and which threaten still further to alienate and dissolve the fraternal relations of the States, is now engaging the most earnest and solemn efforts of our people and States; and whereas, the cherished hope of the success of these efforts would be frustrated by force or collision by the Federal or State authorities; therefore, be it

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That whatever may be the conflicting judgments of the Federal or State authorities, as to the legal powers of force or coercion on the one side, or the right of resistance or self-defense on the other side, both the Federal and State authorities should carefully abstain from all action tending to further irritation or discord; that the existing status of possession, and all contested rights of property on jurisdiction, shall not be invaded during the pendency of efforts of reconciliation; and if, unhappily, all hope of the restoration of the Union shall be blasted, we solemnly protest against any compulsory action by the Federal authorities, against the people or authorities of the States, which have or may dissolve their union in the Confederacy, and recommend a fair and just partition of the common property of the United States, as well as the cultivation of the most amicable relations with such States.

Resolved, That copies of the foregoing preamble and resolution be forwarded by the Governor of Kentucky to the President of the United States, and to the Governors of each of the States.

Mr. Johnson read and laid upon the table the following joint preamble and resolutions, viz:
WHEREAS, Several of our sister States of the South have proclaimed their secession from the Government of the United States, and renounced their allegiance thereto; and whereas, other States are taking action tending to the same result, and which will, without doubt, be speedily consummated, unless arrested by timely consultation with those who are suffering the same grievances of which they complain, under circumstances vastly more oppressive and injurious; and whereas, notwithstanding Kentucky views, with the most lively apprehension, the momentous consequences to her happiness and prosperity involved in the destruction of the Union, she would by all means not inconsistent with her honor and independence, exhibit continual zeal for its preservation upon constitutional principles; and whereas, furthermore, Kentucky hopes and believes that her sisters of the South, whether claiming to be in or out of the Union, are willing to meet her in consultation; and believing that thereby results may be attained which will have a tendency to heal the breaches now existing between the North and South, finally leading to a restoration of peace and fellowship; therefore,

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky,
That twelve commissioners be appointed in the following manner, (to-wit:) one from each of the congressional districts in the State, by joint vote of the Senators and Representatives from said districts, and the two others to be appointed by the Governor. That all of said commissioners be duly commissioned by the Governor to represent the State of Kentucky, in a convention of the Southern States, to be convened at the earliest practicable moment, at the city of Nashville, or at such other suitable place as may be agreed upon, for consultation, and the adoption of such measures as will give full and complete protection to Southern institutions, having for their basis justice to every portion of the confederacy, and promising in their result peace and quiet upon the distracting subject of slavery, thereby strengthening and perpetuating the bonds of fraternal Union.

Resolved, That in the event of a harmonious conclusion being arrived at by said convention, the same shall be respectfully submitted to the people of the Northern States, through their Legislatures, as a basis for the settlement of all sectional differences, and asking their approval of the same in the most speedy manner practicable; and if approved, the same shall be, by a legitimate mode, ingrafted into the constitution of the United States as a part thereof.

Resolved, That in the event the meeting proposed with the Southern States shall be by them declined, or having met, shall be unable to come to any harmonious decision as to the proper and just terms of a settlement of those questions which have caused the secession of some of the States, and threaten the final disruption of the government, or if having agreed, the propositions for settlement shall be rejected by the people of the Northern States, either by direct action, or by a failure to consider the same within a reasonable time, then it shall be the duty of the Governor of this Commonwealth to order an election to be held throughout the State, at the earliest practicable moment, for the election of delegates to a convention, to take into consideration the condition in which Kentucky will then be placed, and determining as to what shall be done for the protection of her interests and her honor, and the promotion of the general welfare of the people; the number of delegates to be the same as in the House of Representatives, and their election to be in the same manner as by law Representatives in said body are now elected.

Resolved, That the Governor of this Commonwealth be requested to forward to the Governors of each of the Southern States a copy of the foregoing resolutions, in such manner as he may deem most advisable, asking their co-operation therein, without delay, and tendering to them all our earnest solicitations for harmony and conciliation, so important at this time to the preservation of all our rights as citizens and States, and upon which hopes for future prosperity and happiness may be confidently based.

Resolved, That in case of a failure on the part of the Senators and Representatives as above to elect a commissioner from the congressional district in which they reside, then the Governor shall appoint some suitable person to represent that district in the convention aforesaid.

Resolved, That the members of this commission receive the same pay and mileage as members of this Legislature, and that the Governor be authorized to issue his warrant upon the treasury for such other sums as may in his judgment be necessary to carry into full effect and force the provisions of these resolutions.

By Mr. Chambers—

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That at a time such as the present manifestly and undeniably is, when the confederation of the States constituting the United States of America is in process of disintegration and disruption, and when some of said States have already assumed, and others are about to assume new governmental positions, and casting off the old, form new political relations, it is eminently proper and expedient that the sense of the people—the legal voters of the State of Kentucky—should be ascertained by a popular vote of said people as to the course of policy to be pursued by our State in this perilous crisis.

By Mr. Walker—

Whereas, South Carolina, Alabama, Mississippi, Florida, and Georgia, by the action of their people in convention assembled, have seceded from this Union; and whereas, there is reason to apprehend civil war, unless some just and equitable settlement of the vexed questions at issue between the different sections of the Union shall be perfected; and the people of Kentucky being anxious to prevent such a parriodical conflict; therefore, be it

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That the slaveholding States are hereby requested to meet us in convention, in the city of ———, in the State of ———, on the ——— day of ——— next, for the purpose of making a concerted and patriotic effort to maintain this glorious government of ours, the proudest triumph of civil and religious liberty, by agreeing upon what amendments to the present constitution are necessary to secure our rights within the present Union; and that such amendments as may be agreed upon, shall be submitted to all the States of this Union for their ratification and adoption.

Resolved, That we meet in such place as a majority of said States may suggest.
Resolved, That we most earnestly appeal to our Southern brethren, to withhold any further action that tends to hasten secession, and destroy the National Government, at least until we make one more effort, by appealing to the source of all power, the people themselves.

Resolved, That we protest against coercion on the part of the Federal Government against any seceding State, believing that its exercise would seriously endanger, if not entirely banish, every hope of reconciliation and reconstruction.

Resolved, That the commissioners be appointed on joint ballot of the Senate and House of Representatives, to wait upon the Governors of the respective States, and lay the foregoing propositions before them.

Resolved, That in the event of our failure to accomplish the foregoing much desired purposes and objects, on or before the 1st day of next, then the Governor of this Commonwealth is directed, by proclamation, to submit to the qualified voters thereof the proposition: Are you for a convention? and if a majority should decide affirmatively, then he shall appoint a time for the election of delegates, to meet in Frankfort, to determine what course Kentucky shall pursue in the present momentous crisis. The basis of representation shall be the same as for members in the House of Representatives by the last apportionment bill.

Resolved, The Governor is directed, by proclamation, to order an election for the purpose of selecting twelve delegates to represent us in said Southern convention; one in each congressional district, and two for the State at large.

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That a convention of delegates from all the slaveholding States should assemble at Nashville, Tennessee, or some other place as a majority of the States co-operating may designate, on the 4th day of February, 1861, to digest and define the basis upon which, if possible, the Federal Union and the constitutional rights of the slave States may be perpetuated and preserved.

Resolved, That the General Assembly of Kentucky appoint a number of delegates to said convention of our ablest and wisest men, equal to our whole delegation in Congress, to be appointed in the following manner, to-wit: one from each of the Congressional districts in the State, by the joint vote of the Senators and Representatives from said districts, and the other two by the Governor, all of whom shall be by him commissioned to represent the State of Kentucky in said convention; and that the Governor of Kentucky immediately furnish copies of these resolutions to the Governors of the slaveholding States, and urge the participation of such States in said convention.

Resolved, That in the opinion of this General Assembly, such plan of adjustment should embrace the following propositions as amendments to the constitution of the United States:

First. A declaratory amendment that African slaves, as held under the institutions of the slaveholding States, shall be recognized as property, and entitled to the status of other property in the States where slavery exists; in all places within the exclusive jurisdiction of Congress within the slaveholding States; in all the territories south of 36 degrees 30 minutes; in the District of Columbia; in transit and whilst temporarily sojourning with the owner in the non-slaveholding States and territories north of 36 degrees 30 minutes; and when fugitives from the owner in the several places above named, as well as in all places in the exclusive jurisdiction of Congress in the non-slaveholding States.

Second. That in all the territory now owned, or which may be hereafter acquired by the United States, south of the parallel of 36 degrees 30 minutes, African slavery shall be recognized as existing, and be protected by all the departments of the Federal and Territorial Governments; and in all north of that line, now owned or to be acquired, it shall not be recognized as existing; and whenever States formed out of any of said territory south of said line, having a population equal to that of a Congressional district, shall apply for admission into the Union, the same shall be admitted as slave States; whilst States north of the line, formed out of said territory, and having a population equal to a Congressional district, shall be admitted without slavery; but the States formed out of said territory, North and South, having been admitted as members of the Union, shall have all the powers over the institution of slavery possessed by the other States of the Union.

Third. Congress shall have no power to abolish slavery in places under its exclusive jurisdiction, and situate within the limits of States that permit the holding of slaves.

Fourth. Congress shall have no power to abolish slavery within the District of Columbia, as long as it exists in the adjoining States of Virginia and Maryland, or either, nor without the consent of the inhabitants, nor without just compensation made to such owners of slaves as do not consent to such abolishment. Nor shall Congress, at any time, prohibit officers of the Federal Government, or members of Congress whose duties require them to be in said District, from bringing with them their slaves, and holding them as such, during the time their duties may require them to remain there, and afterwards take them from the District.

Fifth. Congress shall have no power to prohibit or hinder the transportation of slaves from one State to another, or to a territory in which slaves are by law permitted to be held, whether that transportation be by land, navigable rivers, or by the sea.

Sixth. In addition to the fugitive slave clause, provide that when a slave has been demanded of the executive authority of the State to which he has fled, if he is not delivered, and the owner permitted to carry him out of the State in peace, that the State so failing, shall pay to the owner the value of such slave, and such damages as he may have sustained in attempting to reclaim his slave, and secure his right of action in the Supreme Court of the United States, with execution against the property of such State and of the individuals thereof.

Seventh. No future amendment of the constitution shall affect the six preceding articles, nor the third paragraph of the second section of the first article of the constitution, nor the third paragraph of the second section of the fourth article of said constitution, and no amendments shall be made to the constitution which will authorize or give to Congress any power to abolish or interfere with slavery in any of the States by whose laws it is or may be allowed or permitted.

Eighth. That slave property shall be rendered secure in transit through, or whilst temporarily sojourning, in non-slaveholding States or Territories, or in the District of Columbia.

Ninth. An amendment to the effect that all fugitives are to be deemed those offending the laws within the jurisdiction of the State, and who escape therefrom to other States; and that it is the duty of each State to suppress armed invasions of another State.

Resolved, That said convention of the slaveholding States, having agreed upon a basis of adjustment satisfactory to themselves, should, in the opinion of this General Assembly, refer it to a convention of all the States, slaveholding and non-slaveholding, in the manner following: It should invite all the States friendly to such plan of adjustment to elect delegates, in such manner as to reflect the popular will, to assemble in a constitutional convention of all the States, North and South, to be held at Richmond, Virginia, on the — day of February, 1861, to revise and perfect such plan of adjustment for its reference for final ratification and adoption by conventions of the States respectively.

Resolved, That should a plan of adjustment satisfactory to the South, not be acceded to by the requisite number of States to perfect amendments to the Constitution of the United States, it is the opinion of this General Assembly that the slaveholding States should adopt for themselves the Constitution of the United States, with such amendments as may be satisfactory to the slaveholding States; and that they should invite into a union with them all of the States of the North which are willing to abide such amended constitution and form of government; severing at once all connections with States refusing such reasonable guarantees to our future safety; such renewed conditions of Federal Union being first submitted, for ratification, to conventions of all the States respectively.

Resolved, That in the event the meeting proposed with the Southern States shall be by them declined, or having met, shall be unable to come to any harmonious decision as to the terms of settlement of those questions which have caused the secession of some of the States, and threaten the final disruption of the Government; or if having agreed, the propositions for settlement shall be rejected by the Northern States, either by direct action, or failure, by the — day of —, 1861, to consider the same, then it shall be the duty of the Governor of this Commonwealth to order an election to be held throughout the State, at the earliest practicable day, for the election of delegates to a convention, to take into consideration the condition in which Kentucky will then be placed, and determine as to what shall be done for the protection of her interests and honor and the promotion of the general welfare of the people; the number of delegates to be the same as in the House of Representatives, and their election to be in the same manner as by law Representatives in said body are elected.

Resolved, That in the event of a failure of the Senators and Representatives to elect a commissioner in the manner aforesaid from the Congressional district in which they live, then the Governor shall appoint some suitable person to represent the district in the convention aforesaid.

Resolved, That the members of this commission receive the same pay and mileage as members of this Legislature, and that the Governor be authorized to issue his warrant upon the treasury for such other sums as may in his judgment be necessary to carry into full effect and force the provisions of these resolutions.

Resolved, That the Governor of Kentucky furnish copies of these resolutions immediately to the Governors of the several slaveholding and non-slaveholding States.

COMMONWEALTH OF KENTUCKY,

Executive Department, January 25, 1861.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives:

I herewith inclose a copy of the resolutions passed by the General Assembly of the State of Virginia, which have been officially communicated to me.

In consideration of their patriotic and mediatorial character, and coming, as they do, from the mother of Kentucky, "of States and Presidents," I deem it proper to lay them before the General Assembly.

B. MAGOFFIN.
EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT,
RICHMOND, January 20, 1861.

Sir: I have the honor to transmit herewith resolutions adopted by the General Assembly of Virginia on yesterday.

Very respectfully,

JOHN LETCHER.

Preamble and resolutions adopted by the General Assembly of Virginia, January the 19th, 1861.

WHEREAS, It is the deliberate opinion of the General Assembly of Virginia, that unless the unhappy controversy, which now divides the States of this confederacy, shall be satisfactorily adjusted, a permanent dissolution of the Union is inevitable; and the General Assembly, representing the wishes of the people of the Commonwealth, is desirous of employing every reasonable means to avert so dire a calamity, and determined to make a final effort to restore the Union and the constitution, in the spirit in which they were established by the fathers of the republic; therefore,

Resolved, That on behalf of the Commonwealth of Virginia, an invitation is hereby extended to all such States, whether slaveholding or non-slaveholding, as are willing to unite with Virginia, in an earnest effort to adjust the present unhappy controversies, in the spirit in which the Constitution was originally formed, and consistently with its principles, so as to afford to the people of the slaveholding States adequate guarantees for the security of their rights, to appoint commissioners to meet on the 4th day of February next, in the city of Washington, similar commissioners appointed by Virginia, to consider, and, if practicable, agree upon some suitable adjustment.

Resolved, That ex-President John Tyler, William C. Rives, Judge John W. Brockenbrough, George W. Summers, and James A. Seddon are hereby appointed commissioners, whose duty it shall be to repair to the city of Washington, on the day designated in the foregoing resolution, to meet such commissioners as may be appointed by any of the said States, in accordance with the foregoing resolution.

Resolved, That if said commissioners, after full and free conference, shall agree upon any plan of adjustment requiring amendments of the Federal Constitution, for the further security of the rights of the people of the slaveholding States, they be requested to communicate the proposed amendments to Congress, for the purpose of having the same submitted by that body, according to the forms of the Constitution, to the several States for ratification.

Resolved, That if said Commissioners cannot agree on such adjustment, or, if agreeing, Congress shall refuse to submit for ratification such amendments as may be proposed, then the Commissioners of this State shall immediately communicate the result to the Executive of this Commonwealth, to be by him laid before the Convention of the people of Virginia and the General Assembly: Provided, That the said Commissioners be subject at all times to the control of the General Assembly, or, if in session, to that of the State Convention.

Resolved, That, in the opinion of the General Assembly of Virginia, the propositions embraced in the resolutions presented to the Senate of the United States by the Hon. John J. Crittenden, so modified as that the first article proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of the United States shall apply to all the territory of the United States now held or hereafter acquired south of latitude thirty-six degrees and thirty minutes, and provide that slavery of the African race shall be effectually protected as property therein during the continuance of the territorial government, and the fourth article shall secure to the owners of slaves the right to transit with their slaves between and through the non-slaveholding States and Territories, constitute the basis of such an adjustment of the unhappy controversy which now divides the States of this Confederacy, as would be accepted by the people of this Commonwealth.

Resolved, That ex-President John Tyler is hereby appointed by the concurrent vote of each branch of the General Assembly, a Commissioner to the President of the United States, and Judge John Robertson is hereby appointed, by a like vote, a Commissioner to the State of South Carolina, and the other States that have seceded, or shall secede, with instructions respectfully to request the President of the United States and the authorities of such States to agree to abstain, pending the proceedings contemplated by the action of this General Assembly, from any and all acts calculated to produce a collision of arms between the States and the Government of the United States.

Resolved, That copies of the foregoing resolutions be forthwith telegraphed to the Executives of the several States, and also to the President of the United States, and that the Governor be requested to inform, without delay, the Commissioners of their appointment by the foregoing resolutions.

Gentlemen of the Senate and House of Representatives:

The Hon. Robert P. Letcher died at his residence in this city, on Thursday last. The funeral rites take place to-day. Although he was not, at the time of his death, officially connected with the Government, yet his eminent services through a long public life in the General Assembly, in the Congress of the United States, as an ambassador of our court at a foreign country, and as the Chief Magistrate of this Commonwealth, demand such an expression from the Representatives of the people as will be appropriate to the melancholy occasion. The grateful remembrance of the patriotic efforts of the faithful public servant is a distinguishing characteristic of our people; and a more suitable occasion for its manifestation cannot be afforded than that which has occurred by the departure, in our midst, of the venerable and patriotic statesman whose loss we all so deeply deplore.

B. MAGOFFIN.

There is no data upon which we can base the receipts and expenditures for the year ending 10th October, 1862. But if we take for a basis the supposed receipts and expenditures of 1861, and admit that there will be a falling off in the value of the taxable property, the deficit will, in my opinion, be in proportion to the ratio of that falling off—provided there are no extraordinary appropriations either by the present or the Legislature to convene in December, 1861. I refer the Senate to my Condensed Report for 1861, already laid before that body for a statement of the condition of the revenue of the State up to the 15th January, 1861; also the supposed receipts and expenditures for the year 1861.

Respectfully,

GRANT GREEN, Auditor.

Ordered, That the Public Printer forthwith print 150 copies of the same for the use of the members of the General Assembly.

1. Mr. Boles presented the petition of sundry citizens of Russell county, praying the passage of a law permitting the banks to issue notes redeemable in two years.

2. Mr. Grundy presented the petition of sundry citizens of the county of Washington, praying that the proposition of extending the limits of Springfield be submitted to a vote of those to be affected thereby.

3. Mr. Cissell presented the remonstrance of sundry citizens of Union county against a proposed change in a State road in said county.

Which were received, the reading dispensed with, and referred—the 1st to the Committee on Finance; the 2d to the Committee on the Judiciary, and the 3d to the Committee on Internal Improvement.

Mr. DeHaven, under a suspension of the rules of the Senate, moved that the various reports, substitutes, amendments, and propositions made on yesterday by the Committee on Federal Relations, and by Mr. Whitaker offered the following amendment.

Refer the subject to a select committee, composed of Messrs. Fisk, Read, Bruner, Marshall, Simpson, Taylor, and Rousseau.

And the question being taken on the adoption of said amendment, it was decided in the affirmative.

The yeas and nays being required thereon by Messrs. Marshall and Anthony, were as follows, viz:

Those who voted in the affirmative were—

John F. Fisk, Albert G. Rhea.

Those who voted in the negative were—

And so said amendment was adopted.

Said motion, as amended, was then adopted.

A message was received from the House of Representatives, announcing that they had passed a resolution providing compensation to the commissioners to Washington city.

And that they had passed bills of the following titles, viz:

An act to incorporate Lodge No. 81, I. O. O. F., of Louisville.

An act empowering the Owen county court to change a State road.

An act to discontinue a portion of the road in Kenton county.

An act to change the time of holding quarterly courts in Lyon county.

An act for the benefit of Richard M. Moore.

Bills of the following titles were reported, viz:

By Mr. Grover, from the Committee on the Revised Statutes—

1. A bill to amend the charter of the Masonic Temple Company.

2. A bill to charter Grove No. 3, of the Ancient Order of Druids, of Louisville.
3. A bill to incorporate the town of Gratz, in Owen county.
By Mr. Rust, from a select committee—
4. A bill in relation to the penitentiary.
By Mr. Alexander, from a select committee—
5. A bill for the benefit of the attorney of Danville.
By Mr. Whitaker, from a select committee—
6. A bill for the benefit of the Westport turnpike road company.
Which were read the first time, and ordered to be read a second time.

The rule of the Senate, constitutional provision, and second reading of said bills having been dispensed with,

Ordered, That the 4th be referred to the Committee on the Penitentiary, and that the 1st, 2d, 3d, 5th, and 6th be engrossed and read a third time.

Benjamin P. Cissell, Samuel Haycraft,

Under a suspension of the rules, Mr. Rust, from the Committee on Geological Survey, made the following report, viz:

The Committee on Geological Survey, in response to the resolution of inquiry which passed the Senate on the 4th February, 1861, requesting the committee to inquire into and report what steps may be necessary to secure to the State the specimens procured at the cost of the State during the period the Geological Survey of Kentucky was being made, and which are now in private hands, would beg leave to submit the following report:

The limited time allowed the committee of making full investigations concerning the matters embraced in said resolution prevents them from reporting definitely as to the amount and value of the specimens aforesaid; but from the most reliable information which the commitee have been enabled to procure, they are prepared to say, that while the late Dr. D. D. Owen was in the employ of the State, as State Geologist, his assistants sent him a large number of geological, palæontological, and other specimens; at the expense of the State, for investigation. These specimens are evidently the property of the State, in the opinion of the committee.

The committee would further report, that some time last fall, to-wit: the fall of 1860, Dr. D. D. Owen departed this life, and they are creditably informed that his administrators are now parceling out his collections, including those which belong to the State of Kentucky, into lots ranging from five to five hundred dollars, to be sold to those who may see proper to purchase them.

The committee further report, that they are advised that the collections aforesaid are at New Harmony, Indiana; and that the sale of the same will commence on or about the 12th or 14th inst.: (February, 1861.) The great value of these collections will thus be lost to the State, as well as the purpose defeated for which they were selected. Being exclusively a Kentucky collection, well described and well labeled, they are of inestimable value to our farming and mining interests, representing to any person interested, in a small compass, the mineral and agricultural wealth of any and all sections of our State, and ought by all means to be procured by the State. The committee are indebted to Professor W. N. Hailman, of the Male High School, of the city of Louisville, for the information upon which this report is based.

In view of the foregoing facts, therefore, the committee would recommend the adoption of the following resolution:

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That the Attorney General of the State of Kentucky be, and hereby is, empowered and directed forthwith to adopt such measures, by suit or otherwise, as in his judgment shall be proper to obtain for the State the immediate possession of the geological specimens, minerals, &c., in possession or under the control of the late D. D. Owen, State Geologist, at the time of his death, and which are the property of this State; and that said Attorney General report his proceedings at the next term of this General Assembly.

Said resolution was twice read, and concurred in.

Ordered, That the Public Printer forthwith print 150 copies of said report for the use of the members of the General Assembly.

The Senate then, according to general order, took up for consideration the following:

A bill to amend an act requiring trustees, &c., in certain cases, to execute bond.

Ordered, That said bill be engrossed and read a third time.

The rule of the Senate, constitutional provision, and third reading of said bill having been dispensed with, and the same having been engrossed,
Resolved, That said bill do pass, and that the title thereof be as aforesaid.

Which is as follows, viz:

§ 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That title 13, section 611, of the Civil Code of Practice, be so amended that it shall not hereafter be lawful for an attorney at law, or agent, to make oath to a plea of non est factum, except the agent or attorney of a corporation.

§ 2. That this act shall take effect from and after its passage.

Ordered, That said bill be engrossed and read a third time.

The rule of the Senate, constitutional provision, and third reading of said bill having been dispensed with, and the same having been engrossed,

1. Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That if amendments to the Constitution of the United States shall be proposed by Congress, or a Convention assembling under a call from Congress, the Governor of the Commonwealth is hereby empowered and requested to issue his proclamation for the election of delegates to a State Convention, to act upon the same, prescribing therein the day when it shall assemble: Provided, The amendments are required by the body proposing them to be acted upon in State Conventions; and at any time after the 1st day of May, 1861, if two thirds of the States have not joined in a call upon Congress to assemble a convention to provide for amendments to the Constitution, and Congress shall not have proposed amendments to the Constitution, or if such amendments, having been proposed by Congress, or such convention, shall not have been accepted by three fourths of the States, the Governor is authorized and empowered to issue his proclamation, calling upon the legal voters of Kentucky to assemble in their respective precincts, and cast their votes upon the following question: "Shall there be a convention of delegates from the people?" And if a majority of all the votes cast shall be for a convention, then the Governor shall issue his proclamation, fixing a day not less than forty days thereafter, for the election of delegates, to assemble at such time as may be fixed in said proclamation; and the persons having the highest number of votes shall be delegates to said convention; and the said convention of de-egees shall be empowered to take such action in regard to the position of Kentucky as her interests seem to require; but their action shall not be valid and binding, involving the political relations of Kentucky, until submitted to the people, and approved by a majority of all the legal voters of the State, according to the Auditor's report of 1857.
The basis of representation shall be the same as is prescribed for representation in the House of Representatives, by the apportionment bill passed at the session of 1859-60.

2. Resolved, That when this General Assembly adjourns on Monday, the 11th of February, 1861, at 12 o'clock, M., it will adjourn sine dir.

Mr. Andrews moved to lay the resolutions and substitute on the table.

And the question being taken on said motion, it was decided in the affirmative.

The yeas and nays being required thereon by Messrs. Irvan and Prall, were as follows, viz:

Those who voted in the affirmative, were—

Landaff W. Andrews, William C. Gillis, Albert G. Rhea, James R. Barrick, Samuel Haycraft, L. H. Rousseau,
John B. Bruner, Samuel H. Jenkins, James Simpson,
Those who voted in the negative, were—

Mr. Speaker, (Porter,) Robert E. Glenn,
William T. Anthony, Asa P. Grover,
Benjamin P. Cissell, Thomas S. Grundy,
Alex. L. Davidson, John L. Irvan,
J. E. Gibson, John M. Johnson,

And so said resolutions and substitute were laid on the table.

A bill to establish the Sinking Fund Bank.

Ordered, That said bill be referred to the Committee on Banks.

An act to incorporate the town of Pitt's Point.

On motion of Mr. Read, the vote ordering said bill to be read a third time was reconsidered.

Mr. Read proposed certain amendments to said bill, which were adopted.

Ordered, That said bill, as amended, be read a third time.

The rule of the Senate, constitutional provision, and third reading of said bill having been dispensed with,

Resolved, That said bill do pass, and that the title thereof be as aforesaid.

An act appropriating money to the Eastern and Western Lunatic Asylums.

Which was read the first time, and ordered to be read a second time.

The rule of the Senate, constitutional provision, and second reading of said bill having been dispensed with,

Ordered, That the further consideration of said bill be postponed until to-morrow, at 12, M., and that the Public Printer forthwith print 150 copies of the same for the use of the members of the General Assembly.

Resolutions declaring further action by this Legislature on political affairs unnecessary and inexpedient at this time.

Which were read.

Mr. Cissell called for a division of said resolutions.

Mr. Rust offered the following as a substitute for said resolutions, viz:

1. Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That this General Assembly regard the present movement of several of the Southern States, in resuming the powers they delegated to the General Government, as an effort to preserve our Constitution from being overthrown by Abraham Lincoln, as his party platform requires and demands him to do.

2. Resolved, That we are for the Union—the Union of our fathers—for the Constitution, the glorious charter of our liberties, as expounded by the recognized authority upon the basis of equal justice, liberty, and immunities to all the citizens of all the States.

3. Resolved, That, believing that the people of the Southern States are, and have ever been, content to remain in the Union under the Constitution as originally designed, the people of Kentucky deeply sympathize with their brethren of the other Southern States, in their unwilling resistance to an incoming administration, which, by a perverted and unauthorized construction of the Constitution, tends to destroy their peace, welfare, and happiness.

4. Resolved, That the people of Kentucky are firmly and unalterably opposed to any and every attempt on the part of the Government, or the people of the North, to coerce the Southern States, or any one of them, into submission to the will of the majority of the North, when that will has been authoritatively declared by the Supreme Court to be in opposition to the true construction of the Constitution of the United States.

5. Resolved, That we will, by all proper and legitimate means, oppose, discountenance, and prevent the Republican party from making any aggressive attempt, under the plea of "enforcing the laws" and "preserving the Union," upon the rights of the Southern States, believing as we do that any such attempt can only result in a protracted and destructive civil war to attain an end which that party can readily and peaceably accomplish by abandoning their hostility to the South, and declaring their willingness to abide by the Constitution, as interpreted by the Supreme Court, and accepted by all conservative men of the country.

6. Resolved, That we regard the dominant majority in the North, which, to use the language of Jefferson, "has wriggled itself into power under the auspices of morality," as embodying the policy that Great Britain has pursued for a quarter of a century, in endeavoring to equalize the races on this continent, to reduce the white men to a forbidden level with negroes, and thus overthrow not only the Union, but destroy the glorious free institutions which, seventy-six years ago, our fathers extorted from an unwilling despot; and if any additional evidence be needed to show the alliance of the so-called Republican party with the monarchists of Great Britain to dissolve this Union, regardless of its fearful consequences, it can be found in the fact that its recognized leaders in Congress have deliberately rejected Senator Crittenden's compromise, although it is well known it does not grant the South her full, just, and equal rights under the Constitution.

7. Resolved, That the strongest bond of the Union is the Constitution, and we most emphatically declare that the present confederation of States can only be maintained and perpetuated by a faithful observance of the provisions of that instrument, and an unequivocal recognition of the equality of the States.

8. Resolved, That justice and equality to the slave States require that they be unmolested in the management of their social institutions; that their citizens receive common protection with the citizens of the free States in the enjoyment of their privileges and property when moving into a common territory, and whilst under a territorial government; that the fugitive slave law be observed and enforced in letter and in spirit; and that every law of a free State, which has for its object the nullification of the fugitive slave act, or to render it in any wise ineffectual, should be repealed; prompt action on the part of the free States giving ample guarantees that such constitutional rights and equality of the slave States shall be respected, is the only means by which peace and tranquility can be restored to a distracted country.

9. Resolved, That we sincerely and earnestly desire the perpetuation of the Union; its downfall would be disastrous to human freedom; and if so terrible a catastrophe shall mark the history of this nation, the case will be properly attributable to the fanaticism of the Northern section of the Confederacy. In such an hour our destiny will be found united with our native South.

Mr. Andrews moved the previous question.

And the question being taken, Shall the main question be now put?
it was decided in the affirmative.

The yeas and nays being required thereon by Messrs. Irvan and Marshall, were as follows, viz:

Those who voted in the affirmative, were—o'clock, P. M.—having arrived, the Senate adjourned.

The Senate met at 3 o'clock, P. M., pursuant to adjournment.

Mr. Grundy moved to amend the substitute offered by Mr. Rust.

Mr. Bruner raised the question of order, whether the previous question, having been ordered before the adjournment at 1½ o'clock, did not preclude any amendments being now entertained.
The Speaker decided that the previous question was rendered null and void by the adjournment.

Mr. Bruner took an appeal from the decision of the Speaker, and filed the following bill of exceptions:

Senate Chamber.

Resolutions from the House on Federal Relations, entitled "Resolutions declaring action by the Legislature on political affairs unnecessary and inexpedient at this time," were offered, to which the Senator from Greenup offered a substitute. The previous question was moved and sustained. Pending the question, the hour for adjournment, 1½ o'clock, came. By resolution of the Senate, adopted previously to sustaining the previous question, the Senate adjourned at 1½ o'clock until 3 o'clock P. M., the same day. Senate met pursuant to adjournment. The Senator from Washington offered an amendment to the substitute, to which the Senator from Breckinridge objected—he urging that the amendment was precluded by the previous question. The Speaker decided that the adjournment destroyed the force and effect of the previous question, and permitted the amendment to be offered; from which decision the Senator from Breckinridge appeals.

Mr. Andrews moved the previous question.

And the question being taken, "Shall the main question be now put?" it was decided in the affirmative.

The question was then taken, "Shall the decision of the Chair stand as the decision of the Senate?" and it was decided in the negative.

For convenience in making the calculations for the counties the decimals are left out, which accounts for the footings up not making the amounts asked for. The calculation for the $3,664,469 70 is made at 71 cents instead of 71 71-100, which makes the amount less than that called for; and the calculation for the $5,000,000 is made at 97 cents instead of 96 84 cents, which makes the amount slightly more than that called for. The reason for making the calculation in this way is, that I desired to make my response before the Legislature adjourned; and if these calculations had been made by running out the decimals, thus making it exact, the report could not have been finished before the adjournment.

Respectfully,

GRANT GREEN, Auditor.

Resolved, That said bill do pass, and that the title thereof be as aforesaid.

Mr. Johnson, from the Committee on Banks, made the following report, viz:

The Committee on Banks, to whom was referred a resolution of the Senate, instructing the committee to "correspond with the various banks of this State as to what legislation, if any, is necessary, or whether any legislation can be now had with reference to their banks, calculated to give any financial relief to the people of this State," have had the same under consideration, and beg leave to report—

That they addressed letters to the officers of the various banks, calling their attention to the resolution of the Senate, and asking them to submit the same to their boards of directors at as early a day as practicable, so that the information sought for might be obtained in time to be acted upon before the adjournment of the present called session of the Legislature. The committee regret to say, however, that only five out of eight of the banks have responded, and their replies are hereto annexed. These banks, it will be seen, suggest no plan of relief, and only one has manifested a willingness to co-operate in an effort to save the commerce and business of the State from impending ruin; but as there seems to be no common ground of co-operation suggested by any of them, it will be impossible for this one, unaided and alone, to accomplish the beneficent end contemplated in the resolution, and hoped for by the committee.

We will briefly review the condition of the banks for twelve months past, and believe it will demonstrate the fact that they, from too much regard for the interest of the banks, and too little for that of the country, have been gradually withdrawing their paper from circulation, and are, in an eminent degree, responsible for the present pecuniary distress of the country.

The active banking capital of the State, on the 1st day of January, 1860, was twelve millions one hundred and eighty-four thousand dollars; the circulation at the same time was thirteen millions five hundred and twenty thousand dollars; the coin on hand amounted to four millions four hundred and ninety-seven thousand dollars.

On the first day of July, 1860, the circulation was nine millions eight hundred and twenty thousand dollars, and the coin four millions six hundred and five thousand dollars.

On the 1st day of January, 1861, the general aggregate of the capital stock was increased nine hundred thousand dollars, by additional stock allowed to the Commercial Bank, and amounted, therefore, to thirteen millions four hundred and twenty-nine thousand dollars; the coin on hand was four millions four hundred and sixty-six thousand dollars, whilst the circulation is reduced to ten millions two hundred and sixty-seven thousand dollars, nominally, but really to nine millions five hundred and seventeen thousand dollars. In addition to this, the exchange held by the banks, on the 1st January, 1861, which is equal to specie, amounts to one million six hundred and forty-nine thousand dollars, and which, added to the specie in the banks at the same time, makes the sum of six millions one hundred and fifteen thousand dollars.

The nominal circulation is now, therefore, ten millions two hundred and sixty-seven thousand dollars, subject to a deduction of seven hundred and sixty thousand dollars, which reduces the liability, on account of circulation, to $9,507,000. Thus, it will be seen, that whilst the banks report their circulation at ten millions two hundred and sixty-seven thousand dollars, it is really but nine million five hundred and seven thousand dollars; and whilst their coin is reported at four million four hundred and sixty-six thousand dollars, they have, in addition, one million six hundred and forty-nine thousand dollars in eastern exchange, which is worth a premium of \(\frac{3}{4}\) per cent. over gold, and which serves to protect their circulation more effectually even than the coin, making their cash assets six million one hundred and fourteen thousand dollars, with which to protect this paltry circulation of nine millions five hundred and seven thousand dollars. Your committee stand amused at this condition of affairs, and cannot dismiss the subject without condemning, in the strongest terms, the policy which makes the distresses of the country more appalling, by withholding from commerce and labor the sinews necessary to drive it on, when it is so completely in their power to do so.

It is contended, in extenuation of this policy, that the present pecuniary troubles of the country are purely political, and when these shall have been adjusted, that confidence will return, commerce and manufactures revive, and labor once more receive its reward; but all this is expected to take place without assistance, and apparently without sympathy from the vast moneymaking corporations of the State, upon whom, in a moment of too much confidence, the people have conferred such extraordinary privileges.

The committee would submit to the Senate three propositions: 1st, that the banks have absorbed most of the available private capital of the State in payment for their stocks, under assurances of protection and assistance to all the departments of labor and business; 2d, they have stimulated trade to inflation, and run up the value of property to fabulous prices, thus making prosperity too prosperous; 3d, they have suddenly contracted their discounts, leaving commerce and labor powerless, even if it involves, as it must do, the ruin of the whole State.

In view, therefore, of all this, the question very naturally recurs, what ought the banks to do? Does not sound morality, to say nothing of sound policy, demand that they should carry out the true spirit and intent which induced the people to confer upon them such monstrous privileges, and in consideration of which, they were to foster and protect the great industrial and commercial interests of the country?

Your committee are of opinion that if the banks will consent to reissue four millions of dollars, in addition to their present circulation, and receive it on deposit and in payment of all debts due the banks, and carry out such an agreement in good faith, that it will prevent the impending bankruptcy of both the State and people, for a generation to come.

The committee appeal to the Legislature for the enactment of such a law as this in behalf of the people, who, in many places, are almost in a state of destitution from the failure of the crops of last year, and the scarcity of money consequent upon this and the threatened disruption of the government.

The committee is of opinion that one more crop would redeem the country from its present pecuniary thraldoms, and if the people can only get bread for one year in the vast districts where the crop has failed, and prevent their property from being sacrificed, through the intervention of this Legislature, they can content themselves with having done what they could to mitigate the sufferings of the people, who are not the authors of their misfortunes.

JOHN M. JOHNSON, Chairman.

PeopIe's Bank of Kentucky,

Bowling-Green, Jan. 30, 1861.

GENTLEMEN: Your favor of the 26th January is received, and as requested, the same submitted to our board of directors.

I am instructed to say that the capital of this bank is so small, in comparison to the other banks of the State, that our opinion, we fear, will be of little weight with the Legislature.

We have, as you will see, discounted liberally to the people in the way of accommodation paper, and since the institution of the bank we have endeavored to supply them with means. The times are such at present as to prevent our relieving the present wants to the extent we are able, owing to the continued runs made by runners from Ohio, Cincinnati, and Louisville.

Should the Legislature conclude to make an effort on their part to protect the banks from these runs, and permit them to extend their circulation, redeemable at some future time, making it good in payment of debts, revenue, &c., a very great relief might be afforded the people.

We beg leave to say that this bank holds herself ready to meet any demand that will afford relief, to the extent of a fair proportion of her capital.

Yours, &c.,

A. G. HOBS0N, Cashier.

Bank of Kentucky,
Louisville, Feb. 1st, 1861.

Hons. John M. Johnson, John B. Bruner, Committee on Banks:

GENTLEMEN: Your favor of the 26th ult., addressed to the president of this bank, is at hand. In the absence of the president from the State, the undersigned are instructed by the board of directors to reply to the same.

A communication of similar purport was lately received by this bank from the Bank Committee of the House of Representatives. In our response to the same, the views of this bank were given at length, and we beg leave to respectfully refer your committee thereto.

It is our opinion, after the fullest and most thorough consideration of the question in our power, that no legislation, in reference to the banks, is calculated to give financial relief to the people of this State.

Very respectfully,

JAS. TRABUE, Vice Pres't,

H. A. GRISWOLD,

SOUTHERN BANK OF KENTUCKY,
Russellville, 30th Jan., 1861.

Hons. John M. Johnson, John B. Bruner, Committee:

DEAR SIRS: Your favor of 26th inst. was this day submitted to the Board, and contents considered. I am directed to say, in reply, that the banks of the State, as far as we know, are all doing what they can, safely and prudently, to relieve the present financial pressure. We do not now see how any further legislation on the subject can afford relief. The pressure in this part of the State is caused mostly by the short crops of last season. If we should be favored with abundant crops the present year, we think the financial condition of the country would then be comparatively easy.

In our opinion, the banking capital of Kentucky is now larger than is required by the legitimate business wants of the State. The circulation of the banks of Kentucky is now several millions of dollars below the amount authorized by the charters, and yet it is now larger than the business of the country requires, as is proved by the large returns of our notes for redemption in gold or in exchange on New York.
York. Upwards of $20,000 of our notes were returned here for redemption only a few days ago by a Cincinnati banker. The bankers of our own State are not now returning our notes, to any large extent, for redemption.

Very truly and respectfully yours,

G. W. NORTON, President.

Farmers' Bank of Kentucky;
Frankfort, Feb. 7th, 1861.

Gentlemen: Your communication of the 26th ult., inquiring the opinion of this bank as to what legislation is necessary to enable the banks of this State to furnish to the community "a larger circulating medium," has been duly received and considered.

By reference to the bank reports of the 1st January, you will see that they had a circulation outstanding at that period of fully ten millions of dollars; an amount surely adequate to the wants of the State, in view of the utter prostration of its business and trade, if that circulation was performing its ordinary functions.

In our opinion the difficulty does not lie in the want of a sufficient circulating medium, but in the destruction of confidence consequent in the political aspect of our national affairs. An attempt, therefore, to remove the difficulties by an increase of circulation, would, in our opinion, be an additional blow to confidence, and increase the trouble.

It is to be fondly hoped that the Legislature, by wise action, may calm the public mind, revive hope, and restore confidence, and thus give substantial relief to the people of the State.

The banks will be ready enough to expand with the renewal of confidence and trade.

No legislation can, in our judgment, enable the banks, with safety to themselves, or benefit to the public, to increase the circulating medium to the community until a resumption of business takes place.

Respectfully,

P. SWIGERT, President.

Commercial Bank of Kentucky;
Paducah, February 1st, 1861.

To Messrs. J. M. Johnson and Jno. B. Bruner, Senate Committee on Banks:

Gentlemen: Yours of the 26th January was received this morning, accompanied by the Senate resolution on the subject of the banks and financial relief of the people of the State.

Our president, Mr. flournoy, is absent in New Orleans, and not here to respond to your inquiry.

This evening the board of directors met to consult on the subject of this resolution, and I am directed to say to you, as they have said to the committee from the House of Representatives, that they are unable to make any suggestion to you that would give effect or point to your labors. The disturbed condition of national affairs, and the unsettled feelings of the States, has so suddenly checked our long continued prosperity, lowered the value of property, and crowded uncertainties upon the public mind so fast, that the surest intellect might be excused from approaching the subject.

An increased circulation on the part of the banks would call for increased supply of coin.

If an irredeemable currency be resorted to, would that not lessen in value, and probably generate loose banking, and do injury to the credit of the State?

In any aspect, the subject has great difficulties.

The directory, however, bid me say that they are willing to see this institution co-operate with any policy to give relief that the wisdom of the Senate, and the counsels of the older banks of the State, may think best to organize.

With much respect, your ob't servant,

JAS. L. DALLAM, Cashier.

Ordered, That the Public Printer forthwith print 150 copies of the same for the use of the members of the General Assembly.

By Mr. Simpson—

Whereas, The following amendment to the Constitution of the United States has been proposed by Congress to the Legislatures of the several States for their ratification, viz:

"No amendment of this Constitution, having for its object any interference, within the States, with the relation between their citizens and those described in section second of the first article of the Constitution as 'all other persons,' shall originate with any State that does not recognize that relation within its own limits, or shall be valid without the assent of every one of the States composing the Union.

"No amendment shall be made to the Constitution which will authorize or give Congress power to abolish or interfere, within any State, with the domestic institutions thereof, including that of persons held to labor or service by the laws of said States."

And Whereas, Said proposed amendment, although it fails to secure to the slave States all the rights to which they are justly entitled, and therefore cannot be received or treated by them as an adjustment of existing difficulties, does remove one cause of apprehended danger, and evinces a disposition on the part of the people of the North to make some advances towards a reconciliation with their Southern brethren, and may, and it is hoped will, lead, in a spirit of concession and compromise, to its final consummation; therefore,

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That the aforesaid proposed amendment to the Constitution of the United States be, and the same is hereby, ratified by this Legislature.

Resolved, That the Governor of this State be, and he is hereby, directed to forward a copy of these resolutions, and the preamble thereto, to the President of the United States, with a request that he will communicate the same to Congress when it next convenes.

an ultimatum and a concerted course of action upon the part of said States with regard to the troubles and difficulties which distract and afflicting our country.

Dixon, be, and they are hereby, appointed commissioners on the part of the State of Kentucky, to meet and act with the commissioners from the other States, at the time and place, and upon the business mentioned in the first resolution.

Resolved, That when the Senate and House adjourn on Friday, the 22d inst., it shall be an adjournment sine die.

Resolved, That in each of the precincts at the election to be held on the first Saturday in May next, a poll shall be opened for the election of delegates to said convention, and one delegate shall be elected by the voters of each congressional district, subject to all the laws regulating the election of members of Congress.

THURSDAY, MARCH 21, 1861.

The Speaker laid before the Senate the report of the Attorney General, in response to a resolution passed by the Senate at a former day of the session.

Said report is as follows, viz:

To the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

In obedience to a joint resolution of your honorable body, approved February 14th, 1861, directing me, as Attorney General of the Commonwealth, to adopt such measures, by suit or otherwise, as in my judgment may seem proper to obtain for the State the immediate possession of the geological specimens, minerals, &c., in possession or under the control of the late D. D. Owen, State Geologist, at the time of his death, and which are the property of this State, and to report my action to the General Assembly, the undersigned begs leave to report—

That he opened a correspondence with the administrator of Dr. D. D. Owen, soon after the approval of the resolution, touching the matter therein contemplated, from which it appears that the geological specimens belonging to the State which were in possession of Dr. D. D. Owen at the time of his death, are in a large building belonging to the estate of the late Geologist, at or near New Harmony, Indiana, in boxes, imperfectly labeled, not claimed by the administrator, but admitted by him to belong to the State of Kentucky, having been set apart by Mr. Edward Cox, one of the appraisers of Dr. Owen's estate, and who was an Assistant Geologist during Dr. Owen's service for Kentucky, and separated from the effects of Dr. Owen; and, so far as appears from anything in the correspondence, it will not be necessary to institute any suit to obtain possession of the same; the administrator professes his readiness at any time to put the boxes upon a conveyance which may be procured to bring them to our capital; and I have every reason to hope that the object of the resolution will be accomplished in a short time.

There will be incidental expenses, viz: Freight on the specimens; compensation to Mr. Cox for labeling them, if it is thought proper that this should be done, and perhaps other small items of expense, which should be provided for by an appropriation of about $50.

I submit herewith, as part of this report, the correspondence marked A, B, C, D, E, F.

MARCH 20, 1861.

A. J. JAMES, Attorney General.
R. Dale Owen, Esq.:

DEAR SIR: By a joint resolution of the Legislature of Kentucky, approved 14th of this instant, it is made my duty, as Attorney General of the State, "to adopt such measures, by suit or otherwise, as in my judgment shall be proper, to obtain for the State the immediate possession of the geological specimens, minerals, &c., in possession, or under the control, of the late D. D. Owen, State Geologist, at the time of his death, and which are the property of this State; and that said Attorney General report his proceedings," &c.

It is a matter about which I know but little, but have understood you were the administrator of the late D. D. Owen. I do not even know whether there is any diversity of opinion as to the rights of the State.

The object of this is to make inquiry of you whether there is, under your control or within your knowledge, any geological specimens or minerals belonging to the State of Kentucky, lately in the possession of D. D. Owen, deceased. My desire is to effect the object contemplated in the resolution as speedily as possible, and with as little inconvenience to parties concerned as the same can be done.

Yours, very truly,

A. J. JAMES.

New Harmony, Ind., March 5, 1861.

DEAR SIR: After an absence from home of three weeks, I have just received yours of February 22.

It is my brother, Dr. Richard Owen, (residing here,) not myself, who is administrator on the estate of my deceased brother, Dr. David Dale Owen.

Having been absent in Europe for the last seven years, and knowing nothing whatever personally of the matter referred to, I handed your letter to Dr. Richard Owen, and spoke to him on the subject.

I was much surprised to learn, that the very first notice he had of any demand whatever by the State of Kentucky for minerals, &c., now in the cabinet of my deceased brother, was through a newspaper containing legislative proceedings of a character to cast an imputation, either on the deceased or on his administrator. Neither by letter nor verbally; neither directly nor indirectly, had it been previously intimated to him that the State desired possession of any such property, nor had even an explanation or inquiry been asked or made. I am sure you will agree with me that such proceedings are wholly out of place and unjustifiable.

Dr. Richard Owen, not having been connected with the survey in any way, had to trust for his information, in regard to the matter in question, to a gentleman who was formerly an Assistant Geologist in your survey, and afterwards in the survey of Arkansas, and through whose hands all the specimens passed, Mr. Edward Cox, residing here. On receipt of the newspaper referred to, he immediately applied to him, and learned that there were minerals, &c., to which the State was entitled, and which had been set apart subject to her order, though not, as I understood, to any very great amount; but which, at any time, by a simple request to forward, could have been, as they can now be, obtained. These, I presume, it was the intention of my deceased brother to have sent or taken, and arranged at Frankfort; along with others which, a few years since, he so took and arranged.

My brother Richard will write to you further on the subject.

I am, dear sir, truly yours,

ROBERT DALE OWEN.

FRANKFORT, March 11, 1861.

Dr. Richard Owen:

DEAR SIR: Having been informed that your brother, R. D. Owen, was administrator of the estate of the late Dr. D. D. Owen, I addressed a letter to him, which he informs me he showed to you. I learn from him that you are the administrator. The substance of the joint resolution of the Kentucky Legislature under which I act, is quoted in my letter to your brother. The resolution also makes it my duty to report to the Legislature, which I desire to do at their adjourned session, which meets on the 20th inst. I hope you will not regard the recent legislative proceeding, resulting in the resolution above referred to, as a reflection on the character of either yourself or your deceased brother. I should not have thought of such a thing but for the apprehension expressed in your brother's letter to me. There was no officer or agent of our State whose duty it was to look after the matter, hence a proceeding by the Legislature was the first thing that could be done in order to have some person authorized by the State to correspond with you on the subject.

I take pleasure in bearing testimony that the acquaintance I had with Dr. D. D. Owen whilst in the service of our State utterly contradicts the supposition that he ever for a moment contemplated diverting from the State of Kentucky the geological specimens, &c., which he was bound by law to forward to the Governor. The state of case that exists, no doubt, was produced by his untimely death, which took place before he had fully completed his work for Kentucky.

I desire to say to you that any geological specimens, &c., which remained with Mr. D. D. Owen at the time of his death, belonging to the State of Kentucky, and which may be under your control as his personal representative, be pleased to have them carefully boxed and directed and forwarded to me at this place, with a statement from Mr. Edward Cox that the same are all that remain as aforesaid, and when they come to hand I will receipt you. If Mr. Cox can do so, please have him to send with the specimens such explanatory references and information as will be necessary to understand them, if no such information is already attached to them. You will see, by reference to the law under which Dr. D. D. Owen was acting for Kentucky; (2 Stan-ton's Revised Statutes, page 544,) that he was required to forward the specimens to the Governor. The recent resolution is so far a modification of the former law as to require them to be forwarded to me, as Attorney General for the State.

The reason why I request Mr. Cox's statement is, that your brother, Robert Dale Owen, in his letter to me, mentions that your only information touching the matter was derived recently from Mr. Cox; and I know Mr. Cox was with Dr. D. D. O. during his services for Kentucky, and probably knows more about the matter than any other person.

I send herewith, as a voucher for you to justify your action in the matter in a settlement of your brother's estate, a copy of the resolution, and would suggest in this connection that you retain a duplicate of Mr. Cox's statement, which, to answer your purpose of settlement of the estate, if your State laws are like ours, should be sworn to before a justice or notary public.

Yours, respectfully,

A. J. JAMES, Attorney General Ky.

[New Harmony, Ind., March 7, 1861.]

Hon. A. J. James, Attorney General:

Dear Sir: My brother, Robert Dale Owen, handed me a letter from you, written in accordance with the joint resolution of the Kentucky Legislature, approved 14th instant, regarding the specimens belonging to the State of Kentucky, and now in my possession, as administrator on the estate of the late State Geologist, my deceased brother, Dr. D. D. Owen.

As soon as a copy of the "Yeoman" was sent me, containing these resolutions, I wrote to Hon. Mr. Rust, Chairman of Committee on Geological Survey, explaining all that I knew regarding the transaction. I received no answer—probably because the Legislature adjourned about that period.

I feel confident that my late brother complied with the law, and that, although there may be specimens yet on hand, which were required for reference in preparing the Report, they were never asked for from my brother—otherwise they would have been promptly sent. As administrator, I never received the slightest intimation of such a wish; therefore the resolution requiring a suit, if necessary, seems to me premature, and unjust to the memory of my late brother, who wore himself out in the faithful discharge of these and similar duties. The resolution was doubtless the result of some false information rendered to the Legislature; therefore I never attached any blame to their action.

Mr. Cox, formerly Assistant in the Survey, was one of the sworn appraisers, and exempted from schedule some boxes of specimens collected for Kentucky. There is, however, but little here, so far as I can ascertain, of value or interest belonging to the State. Whatever I can identify as so pertaining, can be ready, at any moment, for shipment to Frankfort.

My late brother, some months before his death, forwarded to the Auditor vouchers for money, either already expended or due Assistants and employees for work, to the amount of about $1,200. No money was ever received on these vouchers by him or myself. I wrote last fall to Governor Magoffin for permission to sell some mules and other property belonging to Kentucky, and to pay the indebtedness as far as the proceeds would go. I never received any answer. The MSS. of all the results at the close of the Survey, the illustrative drawings, maps, &c., have been in the hands of the Public Printer since October last, thus fulfilling all implied conditions on that subject.

I do not wish to convey the idea that any one is to blame in these transactions; but, at least, it must be evident, I think, that my late brother fulfilled his duty, and that I, as administrator, have, thus far, correctly discharged mine.

Should no authority to sell, and no funds be sent shortly, I shall consider it my further duty, rather than to have the property incur additional expense for keep, or become wasted, to sell on the best terms I can realize, and pay the liabilities, pro rata, as far as the funds will suffice.

Hoping that these explanations, in addition to those contained in the letter of my brother, Robert Dale Owen, will furnish a satisfactory reply to your very courteous letter,

I am, very respectfully,

RICHARD OWEN, Administrator.

P. S.—If the specimens here—which, I may mention, have the localities marked, but are not otherwise named or labeled—are to be shipped to Frankfort, you will do me a favor by designating the exact address and mode of shipment, so as to lessen my responsibilities. If to be sent to Louisville, I would wish express written authority, which I could preserve, as I have been informed that such disposition of them is not in accordance with the original provisions of the “act” providing for the Geological Survey.

R. OWEN.
myself, I would not like to risk the building, which is very damp, the walls being nearly three feet thick, until a warm day.

Meantime, my chief object in writing is to say that Mr. Cox, being sworn appraiser, and knowing that these boxes belonged to Kentucky, did not include them in the inventory; therefore, there is no difficulty on that score. But he says, further, that many of them have only a single label of the locality for perhaps a dozen specimens.

He knows the names of most of them, generically and specifically, and if he were justified by a remuneration for the labor, would undertake to label carefully and wrap each specimen. Of course, as administrator, I would wrap and box, and place on the wagons for Mt. Vernon, all the property of Kentucky free of charge. But if there is a fund, out of which $20, or at most $25, could be paid to Mr. Cox for this specifically labeling them, I think it would be money well expended, and would make the collection much more valuable.

He thinks it might occupy him a week; and although in the survey he received $4 per day for his services, he would perform this at the rate of $3, if you consent. He would in that case forward his receipt as a voucher, and it would probably not exceed $18.

Having to report by the 20th, there is no time to lose if the specimens should be actually there as soon after that date as practicable; but perhaps, if the Legislature were assured that the specimens were being labeled and packed as rapidly as circumstances permitted, and no obstacles in the way of their delivery, it might prove satisfactory.

Meantime, as remarked, I will not delay using the first suitable day to commence the work and carry it to completion. Hoping to receive a few lines,

I am, very respectfully,

RICHARD OWEN, Administrator.

P. S.—I neglected to mention that Dr. R. Peter, of Lexington, wrote me a few days since on this subject, and informed me he had notified Mr. Rust, as chairman, that he had on hand a good many specimens, and especially soils in bottles; also that Mr. Lyon, of Jeffersonville, had a considerable number, all of which would have been sent had there been room; but that the place appropriated being filled, they had delayed, hoping additional space would be given, or words of similar import.

R. OWEN.

[F—Copy.]

FRANKFORT, March 20, 1861.

Dr. Richard Owen:

Dear Sir: There is no fund provided for the payment of Mr. Cox. I will suggest the matter of his compensation to the chairman of Committee on Geological Survey, and lay your letter on that subject before the committee, and if any appropriation is made to that object I will advise you. I am not authorized now, by any law or resolution, to promise Mr. C. compensation. If he does anything, he must risk the Legislature for his pay.

Yours, respectfully,

A. J. JAMES.

EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENT, March 22, 1861.

Gentlemen of the Senate:

A few days previous to your recent adjournment a bill was submitted to me for my approval, entitled “An act to amend the charters of the banks of Kentucky.” I recognize, and fully appreciate, the commendable considerations which, doubtless, instigated this measure of intended relief; and, sympathizing—as I do, not less deeply than yourselves—with the financial distress of the people, I regret that, upon careful examination of this bill, I cannot discern in its operation as a law those beneficent results which seem to have been your laudable object. Reluctant to interpose my veto to a measure which, in your wisdom, you have devised to relieve the monetary stringency now felt, I am yet constrained, in this instance, to dissent from your views, and to withhold from the bill my sanction. It is herewith returned to the Senate, in which it originated, with the objections I propose, as briefly as possible, to submit.

The bill authorizes the banks to re-issue $4,000,000, in notes of described denominations, payable two years from the date of such re-issue, coupled with the obligation to loan, upon the usual securities, $400,000 to the people of each congressional district. The manifest purpose of the bill is to relieve the distress of the people by an opportune addition of $4,000,000 to the circulating medium of the State. I question the efficacy of the measure to accomplish the object. What assurance have we that it will, in fact, add one dollar to the notes now in actual circulation among the people? Manifestly none. What notes will be re-issued under the provisions of this bill—those which have sought shelter from the financial storm in the vaults of the banks, or those which are now employed in the transaction of business? If the former, mischief, rather than relief, will follow.

Unquestionably it would be in the power, and as undeniably to the interest of the banks themselves, though possibly thereby evading the design of the bill, to withdraw $4,000,000 of their present circulation, and supply its place with the irredeemable currency you propose to authorize—within their power, because no restraint upon them is or can be imposed; and to their interest, because thereby, without increasing, if not diminishing the danger of inroads upon the coin in their vaults, they would not less surely reap the rich boni of many thousands of dollars out of the industry of the country in the shape of interest upon notes for which they are not compelled to pay gold or silver. Our political difficulties and complications have shaken the very basis of commercial prosperity by impairing confidence in the stability of the government; general distrust has been thereby engendered; credit, itself an indirect but not unimportant medium of trade, has been impaired, and the laws of exchange have been disarranged. The consequence has been the contraction of our paper currency. But fortunately the high character and established credit of the banks of Kentucky have enabled them to maintain a larger circulation of their notes than would otherwise have been possible. The emission by them at this time of irredeemable notes, becoming at once a depreciated currency, would impair confidence abroad, bring back upon the banks their notes now circulating in other States, cause a constant run upon the coin in their vaults, and withdraw a large portion of the gold and silver on which their ability to pay now depends. To provide for this result the banks would naturally retire for the time their specie notes now in the hands of the people, reduce their present circulation, and supply the place with the post notes proposed to be authorized in this bill. If this be true, the present currency actually employed will not be increased by the measure. Its only effect will be to substitute as a circulating medium $4,000,000 of bank notes, redeemable in two years, for a like amount now in the service of trade and convertible into gold or silver at the pleasure of the holder—the displacement of notes equivalent to a metallic currency by a depreciated medium.

Notes payable two years after date cannot, and will not hold equal currency with those redeemable at any hour. They must at once suffer a depreciation in the hands of third parties, despite the provisions of this bill intended to guard them against it; and the loss upon them will be borne by the very class for whose relief the bill is designed. The debtor pressed by execution applies to the banks for aid; the banks contract the loan and issue to him these post notes; the creditor entitled to demand gold or silver will scarce receive in satisfaction of his debt notes at their face value which cannot realize to him the gold for two years; and the necessitous debtor has no other alternative to bankruptcy than to submit to a discount of ten, fifteen, or twenty per cent. in addition to legal interest. The loss thus falls on the very people you would relieve. Instead of a relief measure, the bill would thus become an instrument of oppression.

The political uncertainties in which we are now involved will not permit us with any degree of safety to project our legislation upon the condition of our banks two years hence, high as may be their character, and well established as is their credit. Yet, this bill provides that all debts now due to the banks, and all hereafter due to or payable in the banks, may be discharged with these post notes; its effect will be to compel our public officers and other creditors to receive them at their face value; and it is provided they shall be received in the collection of the public revenue. If the continuance of existing political difficulties, or the occurrence of possible revulsions, should bring about... such a crisis as our banks could not withstand, it is not difficult to foresee the inextricable embarrassments in which this bill would involve us. The solvent banks could make no loans; no man would accept their post notes, and they could not issue specie notes on paper which they would be compelled to surrender on the tender of post notes. Our public officers and creditors being obliged to receive the notes would suffer a material reduction of their salaries by the depreciated currency. The revenue would be collected in such notes, and at the end of two years we might have the treasury full of the paper of an insolvent bank, taken at par, but no longer a tender in the payment of any debt of the State, and now wholly worthless.

I am fortified in these positions by the opinions of the presidents and directors of the banks with whom I have communicated since your last adjournment. In response to my communications, the following banks have advised me that they would not accept the privileges and assume the obligations of the bill if it should become a law: The Northern Bank, the Bank of Kentucky, the Southern Bank of Kentucky, the People's Bank, the Bank of Ashland, the Bank of Louisville, and the Farmers' Bank. The measure of supposed relief must, therefore, in any event, fail.

I sympathize as deeply as any one with our distressed and suffering people. I am anxious to co-operate with you in any measure for their relief; but that object, I apprehend, would not be attained by the operation of this bill. It would depreciate the currency of the State, cripple the present usefulness of the banks by forcing back upon them for redemption a large amount of the notes now in circulation, to make room for this reissue; and I have no reason to think it would increase the volume of circulation to any material extent, if at all. I would suggest, however, to your consideration, as a measure of relief, the passage of a law authorizing the banks and other corporations to loan out one half or more of their capital upon accommodation notes bearing 8 per cent. interest, secured by mortgage upon real estate. This, it seems to me, would give a confidence to their paper and stock in the present condition of the country greater than what would spring out of personal security. Receiving a remunerative interest with no danger of loss, the banks would be content to receive the interest on limited calls from time to time when it might be oppressive to exact the principal.

I would also suggest in this connection the appointment of an Inspector or Supervisor, at a competent salary, whose duty it should be, at least four times in the year, to visit the banks, inspect their books, and make a quarterly report of their business to the Governor of the State.

But the great cause of distress is not in the number of banks, or the quantity of bank capital, but in the destruction of confidence growing out of the condition of our unhappy country. Restore confidence in the stability of the government, and the ten millions now locked in the hands of individual holders will be thrown into circulation, and no relief will be needed. Let our present uncertainties continue, and credit will be destroyed, trade paralyzed, and the people suffer, no matter how many banks the Legislature may establish, or what additional circulation it may authorize. The highest and surest measures of financial relief will therefore be found in such legislation as will quiet political excitement, allay agitation, and restore confidence in the stability of our Government.

All which is respectfully submitted.

B. MAGOFFIN.

Whereas, The continued agitation of the slavery question by the various political parties, as a basis for congressional legislation, has brought the country to its present unhappy condition; and whereas, every interest of humanity, liberty, and business, demands that this agitation shall be settled by specific constitutional enactment; and whereas, we believe that the eight slave States that have not adopted secession ordinances, are in a condition as mediators to propose such amendments to the Constitution as will secure the rights of the whole South peacefully and quietly in the Union; therefore,

Resolved, That we invite the States of Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, North Carolina, Tennessee, Arkansas, and Missouri, to meet Kentucky at Frankfort, on ——, for the purposes above indicated.

Resolved, That if such Convention agree upon a plan of adjustment, and such plan is accepted by our brethren of the North, and is made a part of the Constitution of the United States, Kentucky will remain in the Union.

Resolved, That when such constitutional amendments are made, we shall ardently desire, and confidently expect, that our brethren who have withdrawn their fellowship from the Union will speedily return, and that it will be their duty so to do; so that we may in peace, fraternity, and happy concord, resume our march to greatness and power under one Constitution, and the glorious old flag made by the fathers of the Revolution.

Samuel E. DeHaven,

And so said vote was reconsidered.

The question was then again taken, "Shall the bill pass, the veto of the Governor to the contrary notwithstanding?" and it was decided in the negative.
The yeas and nays being required thereon by the Constitution, were as follows, viz:

Those who voted in the affirmative, were—

HON. THOMAS B. MONROE, Secretary of State:

DEAR SIR: Your favor of to-day is received. Of course I am unable to say what the stockholders of the Northern Bank would do in regard to the acceptance or rejection of the four million post note act, in case it becomes a law. There might arise a case, in the afflictive dispensations of Providence, in which it might be advisable to accept it; but unless a great and disastrous change takes place, my most urgent advice to the stockholders will be not to accept it. I would greatly prefer undertaking to make as large a loan as is prudent with good money in the mode prescribed by the act, and I have written some letters to the banks of Kentucky, suggesting a voluntary action in concert for making two million of new loans in good money in the manner prescribed by the act. The replies I have received indicate that the banks are now doing all the business, and discounting all the paper, they can rely on being punctually paid, and are discounting considerably in small loans to facilitate payments of debts. I know such is the case here.

The banks would not be willing to loan to men who are already as deep in the banks as they should be, and still want more, or who are overwhelmed with debt; but where facilities are needed for actual business, and paper is based on actual transactions, the banks willingly buy such, and are able to do so with good money.

Respectfully,

M. C. JOHNSON.

FARMERS' BANK OF KENTUCKY,

Frankfort, March 25, 1861.

HON. THOS. B. MONROE, JR., Secretary of State:

DEAR SIR: As officers of this bank, we have heretofore stated the belief, in conversations with the Governor and other officers of this Commonwealth, that this bank would not accept the provisions of a bill passed by the two Houses of the Legislature, commonly known as the four million post note bill. The matter has been the frequent subject of conversation amongst the directors and officers of this bank, and we know of no dissent among them from this view.

We are striving to do all we can to afford relief to the community; but we have been satisfied that this measure would not only not afford relief, but would increase the pressure.

Very respectfully,

P. SWIGERT, President.

J. B. TEMPLE, Cashier.

BANK OF KENTUCKY,

Louisville, March 16, 1861.

DEAR SIR: The Yeoman containing the "Bill to amend the charters of the banks of Kentucky" was duly received, with the letter from the Secretary of State of the 26th ult., during my absence to New Orleans; but has subsequently been presented to the consideration of the Board. of Directors, and this bank declines accepting the same, if it should become a law.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

VIRGIL McKNIGHT, President.

To Gov. B. Magoffin, Frankfort, Ky.

SOUTHERN BANK OF KENTUCKY,
Russellville, February 28, 1861.

HON. THOMAS B. MONROE, JR., Secretary of State:

DEAR SIR: Your favor of the 26th inst. is received. The "Bill to amend the charters of the banks of Kentucky," which authorizes the issue of $4,000,000 of post notes, has been considered by the directors of this bank; but no formal action has yet been taken. According to our advices from Frankfort to the 20th inst., the Governor had not then approved the bill.

In the opinion of some of our Directors, the provisions of this bill cannot afford the expected relief; but, on the contrary, may force back upon the banks, for redemption in coin, a large amount of notes now in circulation, to make room for the large issue of post notes, thus crippling the usefulness of the banks, without giving relief to the community. In our opinion, the issue of post notes would probably have the effect to depreciate the currency, without increasing the volume of circulation to any large extent, as the banks cannot keep afloat a larger amount of circulating notes than the business of the country will sustain, unless the whole circulation is rendered irredeemable, and then it will depreciate in value in proportion to the excess of the issues beyond the wants of the country. With these views, it is not probable this board would accept the provisions of the bill, unless they should be accepted by the other banks of the State, and it should be deemed desirable for all to act in concert.

Very truly and respectfully, yours,

G. W. NORTON, President.

PEOPLE'S BANK OF KENTUCKY,
Bowling-Green, March 4, 1861.

HON. THOS. B. MONROE, JR., Secretary of State:

DEAR SIR: Your favor of 26th February received, and reply as follows, in the absence of the President.

In our answer to the Senate Committee on Banks will be found the views and wishes of this bank. We are always sensible of the fact that we are the creatures of the Legislature, and when called on by that body, are willing to respond in aid of the people.

Our board of directors have had the act to which you refer under consideration, and have determined to accept the amended charter, if any of the other banks do; but whilst this is our wish, we think it prudent not to do so alone, fearing that this action on our part, with so small a capital, would afford but little relief, and might do us, as well as the people, an injury.

Respectfully,

A. G. HOBSON, Cashier.
Bank of Ashland,
Ashland, Ky., March 2, 1861.

Hon. Thos. B. Monroe, Jr., Secretary of State:

Dear Sir: At a meeting of the directors of this bank, held this day, your communication of 26th ult., addressed to the President, inquiring if this bank would accept the provisions of "An act to amend the charters of the banks of Kentucky," passed during the recent sitting of the Legislature, was submitted for consideration, and by a unanimous vote, it was decided that this bank will not accept, if it should become a law.

By order of the board.

E. W. Martin, Cashier.

Bank of Louisville,
Louisville, Ky., February 27, 1861.

Hon. Thos. B. Monroe, Jr., Secretary of State:

Dear Sir: Yours of yesterday received, and the law to amend the charters of the banks of Kentucky. As advised by my directors, this bank will be disinclined to accept said bill should it be approved by his Excellency.

I do not think it is the interest of this bank, nor do I think any one will be benefited by it except the borrower.

Yours, very respectfully,

Joshua B. Bowles, President.

Farmers' Bank of Kentucky,
Frankfort, March 25, 1861.

To His Excellency, B. Magoffin, Governor of Kentucky:

Dear Sir: Below I give you a list of the rates of exchange adopted by the board of directors for the government of this bank and branches, and which have undergone no change within the last six months, except so far as particular branches have reported changes to your Excellency, under the approval of the board here.

On examination of the charter and amendments thereto, I do not find that any monthly report is required to be made by this bank. Nevertheless, if any information which our books could exhibit should be required, it is at command.

Very respectfully,

J. B. Temple, Cashier.

1. Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That Kentucky having as much right to the Mississippi river, and its free, unobstructed navigation, as Louisiana, or any other State, and that right being of vital importance to her people, feels it her duty to herself and her sister States, at the earliest day, to make this, her most solemn protest, against any assumption of such power to control the navigation of that river as utterly without right or proper authority, and as what she cannot and will not submit to.

2. Resolved further, That the States in the valley of the Mississippi be earnestly requested to unite with Kentucky in this protest against the violation of a mutual right so vitally important to them all, and which their permanent interests forbid should ever rest in the discretion of any government, save that under which they live.

An act to amend an act, entitled "An act for the better organization of the Kentucky Militia," approved March 5, 1860.

Said act reads as follows, viz:

§ 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That all such parts of an act, entitled "An act for the better organization of the Kentucky Militia," approved March 5, 1860, which failed to go into effect in consequence of there being no record of the yeas and nays upon the journals of the Legislature, as required by the Constitution in certain cases, be, and the same are hereby, re-enacted and re-affirmed; and that all appropriations therein contained, and necessary to the carrying into effect of any of the provisions of said act, are hereby confirmed; and the Auditor of Public Accounts is directed to draw his warrant, from time to time, in favor of all persons who shall have discharged the duties enjoined upon them by said act for such sums as their services entitle them to receive.

§ 2. That the absence of a military organization in any county, or the failure of any officer of the Enrolled Militia to comply with the requirements of section 13, article 2, shall not be construed to exempt any member of the Enrolled Militia from the military fines in lieu of military service fixed by section 14 of the same article.

§ 3. With a view to the better organization of the Militia, and the collection and preservation of the public arms and other property, the Inspector-General is authorized to appoint in each county in the State a staff officer, with the rank of Major, to be called an Inspector, who, under such regulations as he may prescribe, shall supervise and direct the organization and instruction of the Active and Enrolled Militia in their respective counties or military districts.

§ 4. Whenever in the opinion of the Commander-in-Chief the public safety may demand it, he may cause such proportion of the Enrolled Militia as he may deem necessary in any particular counties or districts, to be organized into one or more Active Reserves, which may be formed either by receiving volunteers, or by drafting names from the list of the Enrolled Militia, under such regulations as he may prescribe. The names thus drawn shall be recorded by the county clerk in the record book of the Enrolled Militia, and such record shall be deemed a sufficient notice of enrollment in the Active Reserve.

§ 5. In the event of insurrection or other public danger, the Active Reserve may, in case of necessity, be called to the support of the Active Militia. The term of service or organization of the Active Reserve shall be one year from the time of enrollment; but under urgent circumstances the Commander-in-Chief shall have authority to retain them for a longer term, not exceeding three months; and after their tour of service shall have been performed, and their organization disbanded, the members shall not again be compelled to serve, except when their regular tour of duty arrives.

§ 6. The Active Reserves shall be subject to the same laws and regulations that govern the Volunteer Militia; but they shall not be required to uniform themselves, and shall not receive public arms, except under circumstances contemplated by section 25, article 6; but under proper regulations they shall receive such facilities for instruction as practicable with the arms which may have been issued to the companies of the Kentucky State Guard; but such instruction shall be under the immediate supervision or command of an officer of the State Guard. During the term of their organization, the Active Reserves shall be exempt from the fines imposed on the Enrolled Militia for non-attendance at the regular musters authorized by existing laws; but shall be subject to at least double such fines for non-attendance at any drill or meeting ordered by their proper officers; such fines to be collected, as in other cases, on the sentence of a court-martial, and applied to the use of the Reserve as provided for the militia under existing laws, or as may be provided for under the by-laws and regulations of the respective organizations of the Active Reserves.

§ 7. It shall be the duty of persons appointed or elected to any office in the Militia to enter upon the discharge of its duties immediately; and the performance of any duty appertaining to the office shall be construed into an acceptance of the same. And should any such person fail, within ten days after receiving a notice of his appointment or election, to signify his acceptance of the office, it may, at the option of the officer ordering the election or making the appointment, be declared vacant; but such officer may, in like manner, should any public necessity therefor exist, declare such office vacant, when the person who may have been elected or appointed to fill it, shall refuse to signify his acceptance or declination of the same when an opportunity is given him to make known his decision.

§ 8. The appointment or election of all general officers now holding commissions in the Militia, or who may be hereafter appointed or elected in the Militia, shall be subject to the advice and consent of the Senate; and the refusal of the Senate to confirm such appointments or elections shall vacate the office from and after the adjournment of the Legislature; but until such time, or until their rejection by the Senate, such officers may enter upon and continue to discharge the duties of their respective offices. And it shall be the duty of the Governor to present the names of all such officers for the advice and consent of the Senate.

§ 9. Company and other officers, and members of companies of the Volunteer Militia, and other persons subject to military duty, in addition to their responsibility as for a military offense, shall be liable, through courts-martial, in a pecuniary way, for the public property in their possession; and in case of loss or injury from neglect, shall be fined at least double the amount of the loss or injury; such sums of money, after collection, as in other cases, shall be paid to the clerk of the county court, who shall remit the money to the Auditor, as a military fund, to be credited to the county against the loss for which it is chargeable under section 18, article 6.

§ 10. Any officer, non-commissioned officer, musician, or private of the Militia, or other person subject to military law, who shall embezzle or misapply public money, or military funds, or public arms or other public property of any description whatever intrusted to his care, shall be deemed guilty of felony, and punished as in other cases of felony under existing laws.

§ 11. Any person who shall be found with public arms, or equipments, or other public property in his possession, without the authority of the proper officers to hold the same, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and may be indicted by the grand jury of the county in which such offender is found with the arms; or of the county in which he lives; and if found guilty, shall be fined in a sum not less than five, nor more than fifty dollars, half of which fine, shall be paid to the informer, or imprisoned in the county jail, for not less than two weeks, nor more than three months, or both so fined and imprisoned at the discretion of the jury; and all arms or other public property thus recovered shall be deposited with the county court clerk, who shall report the fact to the Inspector-General, and hold the property subject to his order, or that of the Quartermaster General.

§ 12. General courts-martial shall have authority to inflict fines not exceeding five hundred dollars; and courts-martial may inflict the same punishment for contempt or disrespect towards the court as the circuit courts of this Commonwealth now have authority to do; and it shall be the duty of the sheriff to execute the order of the court.

§ 13. It shall be the duty of the Judge Advocate, or Recorder of a court-martial, except when troops are in the pay of the State, in which case the fines may be deducted from the pay, to file in the clerk's office of the circuit court of the county in which the court-martial was held, or in which the accused party may reside, a copy of the judgment or sentence of the court-martial imposing a fine, certified to by the president of the court; whereupon the clerk shall issue, in the name of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, such writ as may now issue upon a judgment in the name and for the use of the Commonwealth; and any other final process may issue, from time to time, until the judgment be satisfied.

§ 14. It shall be the duty of the sheriff into whose hands the writ may come, to faithfully execute the same, and to pay over the money as required by law; and upon his failure to perform his duties as herein required, he shall be liable on his official bond, in the same penalties as are now prescribed by law in similar cases; and for the performance of these duties he shall be entitled to the same compensation as is now allowed by law for collecting money under execution.

§ 15. It shall be the duty of the Judge Advocate or Recorder to institute proceedings in the name of the Commonwealth, against the sheriff, upon his failure to perform the duties enjoined in this act.

§ 16. Upon a written complaint or official representation, in writing, in regard to the incompetency or inefficiency of an officer, the Inspector General or other general officer, shall have authority to convene a court of inquiry, to be composed of competent officers, to examine into the qualifications of persons holding any office in the Active Militia, or in the Active Reserves; or in the Enrolled Militia when in the service of the State; and when two thirds of the members of such court shall have pronounced an officer incompetent to the discharge of the duties of his office, or manifestly neglectful of the interests of the men under his command, the officer ordering such court may, at his discretion, when he approves of such finding of the court, drop the name of such officer from the rolls, or suspend him from rank, command and pay, until he shall have qualified himself for the duties of his office.

§ 17. Whenever an officer, after having been duly notified, by written notice served upon him in person, or left at his residence, or addressed to him through the ordinary channels of postal communication, shall fail to appear before a court-martial, or to make a report or return of the condition and strength of his command when required, or shall absent himself from his command without leave, and shall fail to perform any of the duties of his office for more than one month, and shall not render a satisfactory excuse for his absence or neglect, his name may, at the option of the Commander-in-Chief, be dropped from the rolls, and the person considered no longer an officer.

§ 18. Whenever notice has been served, as provided in the preceding section, upon an officer or other party under charges, and such accused person shall fail to appear at the time and place designated in the notice, the court-martial which may have assembled for the trial of such person, shall have authority to enter a plea of not guilty, and to proceed to trial in his absence; but whenever, in the opinion of the court-martial, the presence of any person, whether an accused party or a witness, shall be necessary to the proceedings, the president of the court-martial shall have the same authority to compel the attendance of such person, by summons and attachment, as the circuit courts now have; and it shall be the duty of the sheriff, or if his services cannot be conveniently procured, of the marshal, who may be appointed by the court, or by the officer ordering the court, to execute such process; and for the purposes of this and the succeeding section, such marshal is hereby invested with the authority of a sheriff in analogous cases.

§ 19. All persons subject to military duty who fail or refuse to repair to the appointed rendezvous, when ordered into the service of the State, shall, upon being found guilty by a general court-martial, if a commissioned officer, be cashiered and fined in a sum not to exceed five hundred dollars; if a non-commissioned officer, musician, or private, or other person subject to military law, he shall be fined in a sum not less than sixty dollars nor more than three hundred dollars, and be imprisoned two months in the county jail; and the jailer shall receive and confine such person during the term of his sentence by the court-martial; and the fees shall be paid as in other cases. The sheriff or marshal of the court shall execute the order of the court-martial, and conduct the prisoner to the county jail.

§ 20. Courts of assessment are hereby abolished, and their authority vested in company, battalion, regimental, and general courts-martial; and all the authority of brigade courts-martial is likewise invested in regimental and general courts-martial.

§ 21. It shall be the duty of the Mayor and General Council of every city in the Commonwealth, to provide the armories necessary for the Active Militia in their respective cities; and there shall be provided at least one drill-room for every six companies; and where such drill-room is not provided, each company armory shall be of sufficient size to accommodate the company when it meets for the purposes of duty required by the military laws. Resolved, That said bill do pass, and that the title thereof be as aforesaid.

The Senate then, according to special order, took up for consideration the following report made by Mr. Prall, from a majority of the Committee on Federal Relations:
1. Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That with a view to earnest consultation and concert of action among those identified in interest and destiny, we invite the border slave-holding States, including North Carolina, Tennessee, and Arkansas, by their delegates, to meet delegates from Kentucky in convention, at the city of Louisville, on first Monday in September next, or such other time and place as said States may prefer.

2. Resolved, That in each of the precincts at the election to be held on the first Monday in August, a poll shall be opened for the election of delegates to said convention, and one delegate shall be elected by the voters of each Congressional District, and two from the State at large, subject to all the laws regulating other elections in this State.

3. Resolved, That the Governor be requested immediately to communicate copies of the foregoing resolutions to the Governors of the aforesaid States.

AN ACT to provide for the election of delegates to represent Kentucky in a Border Slave State Convention.

§ 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That on the first Monday in August, 1861, an election shall be held in all the voting precincts in this Commonwealth, for twelve commissioners to represent Kentucky in a Border Slave State Convention, to assemble in the city of Louisville, on the first Monday in September next, or at such time after said first Monday in August as may be agreed upon by the other border slave States, to meet such commissioners as may be appointed by the other border slave States, to devise and perfect, if possible, some plan of adjustment of existing national difficulties; two of said commissioners shall be elected by the State at large, and one by the legally qualified voters of each Congressional District in this State.

§ 2. All the laws of this State regulating the election of State officers shall be applicable to the commissioners from the State at large, and the laws regulating the election of members of Congress shall be applicable to the election of commissioners from the districts aforesaid.

§ 3. The Governor shall commission the delegates certified to be elected; and said delegates shall be entitled, for their services, to the same pay and mileage now allowed by law to members of the General Assembly.

§ 4. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

Mr. Simpson, from a minority of said committee, reported as follows, viz:

We do not concur with the majority of the committee, either as to the mode of the election of delegates to the proposed Convention, or with respect to the place where it shall be held.

As the delegates are to act for the whole State, they ought to represent the views of a majority of the people of the State. In order that they may do this, they should be elected by the State at large, in the same manner in which State officers are elected. If they are elected by districts, it might result in the election of delegates in some of the districts who would be inimical to the preservation of the Union, although the sentiments of a very large majority of the people of the State should be decidedly in favor of its preservation. Should this occur, we would have a divided representation, inefficient in its action, and destitute of its proper weight and influence in the Convention. All the delegates should be actuated by the same motives, and have the same object in view; so that, acting in concert, they might be able to act with success and efficiency.

The principal reason in favor of electing members of Congress by districts, is, that they may be enabled to understand and attend to the local interests of their immediate constituents. This reason does not apply to these delegates. They will not have any local interests to foster or promote. The interests and welfare of the whole State, and not merely a particular part thereof, will be intrusted to their care. They should, therefore, be elected by a general vote of the people, in order that they may be in reality what they are designed to be, the actual representatives of the whole State in the proposed Convention.

As the proposition for a Convention of the border slave States originated in the State of Virginia, and Frankfort, Ky., is the place named in that proposition, we ought, as an act of courtesy and respect, to agree to the place proposed by that State. The Convention, when it assembles, can, if it be deemed expedient to do so, adjourn its sessions to any other more suitable place in the State. For this reason we are in favor of designating Frankfort as the place at which the Convention shall meet.

We herewith report a bill in conformity with these views, and to carry them into effect, which we offer as a substitute for the bill reported by a majority of the committee.

JAMES SIMPSON,
THORNTON F. MARSHALL.

The undersigned, one of the Committee on Federal Relations, concurs with the minority, so far as they indicate a preference for Frankfort as the place for the proposed Convention, and the first Saturday in May as the time for the election of delegates.

JOHN A. PRALL.

AN ACT to provide for the election of delegates to a Convention, to be held in Frankfort, Kentucky.

§ 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That an election shall be held on the first Saturday in May next, at all the election precincts in this State, to elect twelve delegates to a Convention of the border slave States, and such other slave States as have not passed ordinances of secession, to meet at Frankfort, Ky.; and said delegates shall be voted for and elected by the State at large, in the same manner that State officers are now elected, and the same laws which apply to and regulate the mode of the election of State officers, by the qualified voters of the whole State, shall apply to and govern the election of said delegates.

§ 2. That the persons who may be thus elected, shall be commissioned by the Governor as delegates to said Convention, and are empowered to meet the delegates from the States aforesaid in convention, for the purpose of consultation, and to determine and agree upon such terms of adjustment as will be satisfactory to the people of the States represented in said Convention. A majority of the delegates elected in this State shall have the power to appoint the time for the meeting of the Convention.

§ 3. That this act shall take effect from its passage.

Mr. Cissell moved to amend the amendment by way of substitute offered by Mr. Simpson to the majority report, as follows, viz:

Amend by striking out all after the enacting clause, in the first section, and insert:

That this act shall take effect from its passage.

Mr. Cissell moved to amend the amendment by way of substitute offered by Mr. Simpson to the majority report, as follows, viz:

Amend by striking out all after the enacting clause, in the first section, and insert:

That an election shall be held on the 1st Monday in June next, at all the election precincts in this State, to elect ten delegates to a Convention of the border slave States, and such other slave States as may see proper, to meet us at Louisville, Ky.; and said delegates shall be voted for and elected by the legally qualified voters of each congressional district, in the same manner that Congressmen are now elected, and the same laws which apply to and regulate the mode of the election of Congressmen, by the qualified voters of each congressional district, shall apply to and govern the election of said delegates.

The Senate then, according to special order, resumed the consideration of the resolutions concerning the navigation of the Mississippi, offered by Mr. Rousseau, and the substitute offered by Mr. Cissell.

With the consent of the Senate, Mr. Rousseau withdrew the resolutions heretofore offered by him, and in lieu thereof read and laid upon the table the following, viz:

WHEREAS, This General Assembly has learned that by the action of a Congress of certain States, held in Montgomery, Alabama, in February last, the free navigation of the Mississippi river is obstructed, and the right of those States is asserted to search the vessels and tax the commerce on that river; therefore, be it

1. Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That the right of the people of Kentucky to the free, unobstructed navigation of that river and its tributaries is absolute and indisputable; and being of vital importance to them, Kentucky can never consent, under any circumstances, that it shall be illegally interfered with, or conceded to any power or person whatever.

2. Resolved, That this General Assembly has heard of the action of the Congress with profound regret and the most serious inquietude, and feels it its duty to the good people of Kentucky, and to those States, at once to say, in all kindness, that, without a total disregard of the interests, the honor, and dignity of Kentucky, she can never, under any circumstances, concede the right to search her vessels, or illegally tax her commerce on said river or its tributaries, to any person, power, or State; and that she earnestly trusts that the action of said Congress may be revised and revoked, that Kentucky may not be called upon to surrender a right so essential to the interests of her people as is the right to the free, unobstructed navigation of said river and its tributaries.

3. Resolved, That the attention of our sister States in the valley of the Mississippi, together with Virginia and Pennsylvania, be called to the subject of these resolutions, and to that end the Governor is requested to forward copies of the same to the Executives of those States.

Mr. Cissell offered, as a substitute for the above, the resolutions following, viz:

1. Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That, in the opinion of this General Assembly, it is of the most vital importance to the commercial interest of the people of Kentucky that the navigation of the Mississippi river and its tributaries should continue free and un molested, and she protests against any attempt to obstruct or prohibit the free navigation thereof; and she believes that more can be done to continue the enjoyment of such right by conciliation, and the cultivation of friendly relations with every portion of our common country, than by threats or any attempt at coercion; and this General Assembly is gratified to learn that the convention of Louisiana, by unanimous vote, has recognized that right to all friendly States.

2. Resolved, That this General Assembly has learned that certain of the free States have passed laws declaring the absolute freedom of negro slaves upon touching their soil; and others have passed laws virtually denying to the citizens of the slave States the right of transit through such State with their slaves, as well as laws denying to citizens of slave States the use of jails, in cases of arrest under the fugitive slave law; and that the Governor of Ohio, in contravention to the Federal Constitution, and the laws passed in pursuance thereof, as expounded recently by the Supreme Court of the United States, has refused, and still refuses, to surrender a fugitive from justice upon requisition by the Executive of this State; and that a party is organized in the free States to resist, by violence, the execution of federal laws; and these "rights being of vital importance to the people of Kentucky, and the people of her sister slave States, Kentucky feels it her duty to herself and her sister Southern States, at the earliest day to make this, her most solemn protest, against any" and all such unjust and iniquitous legislation and conduct on the part of such free States and the Executive of Ohio.

And whereas, We have received information that the Federal Government contemplates sending additional troops to the Newport barracks, in this State: therefore,

1. Resolved, That Kentucky earnestly and solemnly protests against such action on the part of the Federal Government, as tending to defeat efforts for peaceable adjustment, and still further to complicate existing difficulties, and will be regarded by her as an evidence of hostility to the peace and quiet of our citizens, and as intended to destroy and subvert the liberties of our people.
MAR. 30.]

Mr. Prall, from the committee appointed to wait upon the Hon. John C. Breckinridge, in conjunction with such a committee as was appointed by the House of Representatives, reported that the committee had discharged its duties, and laid before the Senate the following communication, viz:

LEXINGTON, Ky., March 31, 1861.

Mesrs. J. A. Prall, John F. Fisk, and A. G. Rhea, Committee, Frankfort:

GENTLEMEN: In answer to your letter of the 30th inst., informing me that I have been invited by a resolution of the Senate to address the General Assembly "upon the subject of our national affairs," I beg to express my appreciation of this honor, proceeding from so distinguished a source, and, if the time be suitable, to say that I accept the invitation for Tuesday evening, the 2d of April.

Very truly, your friend and obedient servant,

JOHN C. BRECKINRIDGE.

Ordered, That Messrs. Prall, Fisk, and Rhea be instructed to make such arrangements as may be necessary to carry out the object for which the invitation was extended to the Hon. John C. Breckinridge.

Mr. Cissell read and laid upon the table the following joint resolution, viz:

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That the General Assembly adjourn sine die on Wednesday, the 3d day of April, 1861, at 12 o'clock, M.

According to special order, the Senate resumed the consideration of the resolutions concerning the navigation of the Mississippi.

Mr. Cissell, with the permission of the Senate, withdrew the substitute offered by him on a former day, and offered the following, viz:

1. Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That, in the opinion of this General Assembly, it is of the most vital importance to the commercial interest of the people of Kentucky that the navigation of the Mississippi river and its tributaries should continue free and unmolested, and she protests against any attempt to obstruct or prohibit the free navigation thereof; and she believes that more can be done to continue the enjoyment of such right by conciliation, and the cultivation of friendly relations with every portion of our common country, than by threats or any attempt at coercion; and this General Assembly is gratified to learn that the convention of Louisiana, by unanimous vote, has recognized that right to all friendly States.

2. Resolved, That this General Assembly has learned that certain of the free States have passed laws declaring the absolute freedom of negro slaves upon touching their soil; and others have passed laws virtually denying to the citizens of the slave States the right of transit through such States, with their slaves, as well as laws denying to citizens of slave States the use of jails, in cases of arrest under the fugitive slave law; and that the Governor of Ohio, in contravention to the Federal Constitution, and the laws passed in pursuance thereof, as expounded recently by the Supreme Court of the United States, has refused, and still refuses, to surrender a fugitive from justice upon requisition by the Executive of this State; and that a party is organized in the free States to resist, by violence, the execution of federal laws; and these “rights being of vital importance to the people of Kentucky, and the people of her sister slave States, Kentucky feels it her duty to herself and her sister Southern States, at the earliest day to make this, her most solemn protest, against any” and all such unjust and iniquitous legislation and conduct on the part of such free States and the Executive of Ohio.

And whereas, We have received information that the Federal Government contemplates sending additional troops to the Newport barracks, in this State: therefore,

1. Resolved, That Kentucky earnestly and solemnly protests against such action on the part of the Federal Government, as tending to defeat efforts for peaceable adjustment, and still further to complicate existing difficulties, and will be regarded by her as an evidence of hostility to the peace and quiet of our citizens, and as intended to destroy and subvert the liberties of our people.

2. Resolved, That the Governor be directed to communicate the foregoing resolutions to the Executives of the different States, and to the President of the United States.

Ordered, That the further consideration of said resolutions and substitute be postponed until to-morrow, at 10½ o'clock, A. M.

According to special order, the Senate resumed the consideration of a bill, entitled “A bill to amend the charters of the several banks of issue in this Commonwealth,” viz:

§ 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That the several banks of issue in this Commonwealth, not already having that privilege, are hereby authorized and empowered to issue and put in circulation notes of a less denomination than five dollars, but not less than one dollar, under the same restrictions, rules, and regulations governing the issue of other notes, prescribed by their respective charters.

§ 2. The Legislature hereby retains the power to repeal this act at pleasure.

§ 3. This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

Said bill was read a third time.

Charles Chambers, William C. Gillis, Albert G. Rhea, William S. Darnaby, Thomas S. Grundy, E. Dudley Walker,
John F. Fisk, Samuel H. Jenkins, C. J. Walton—12

Resolved, That said bill do pass, and that the title thereof be as aforesaid.

The Senate then took up for consideration bills of the following titles, originating in the Senate, to which the House of Representatives had proposed amendments, viz:

An act to authorize the jailer of Hardin county to appoint a deputy.

Ordered, That the Senate concur in the House amendment, with an amendment to said amendment.

An act to incorporate the city of Paris.

The first amendment proposed by the House is as follows, viz: "But said court shall have no power to grant certificates of naturalization to unnaturalized foreigners."

The question was then taken on concurring in said amendment, and it was decided in the negative.

The yeas and nays being required thereon by Messrs. Fisk and Darnaby, were as follows, viz:

Those who voted in the affirmative, were—

Ordered, That the Senate concur in the amendment proposed by the House of Representatives to said bill.

Under a suspension of the rule of the Senate, Mr. Pennebaker read and laid upon the table the following joint resolution, viz:

WHEREAS, The school laws of this State have become confused and complicated, and many abuses have, by carelessness or otherwise, crept into the system, which have to be remedied by special legislation; that much injustice is practiced under warrant of law, growing out of the difference between the scholars reported by the assessors and county commissioners, and many counties, under the present laws, receive double pay for the difference in reports as aforesaid; wherefore, be it

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That the Superintendent of Public Instruction be, and he is hereby, authorized and directed to digest the school laws of this State, and to make such suggestions as may be necessary to carry the system into effect more perfectly; and to report some remedy against the great amount of special legislation on that subject, and report at the next session of this General Assembly.

The rules were again suspended, and said resolution was taken up, twice read, and concurred in.

The following report was received from the House of Representatives, by the hands of Mr. Hitt, viz:

I am instructed by the House of Representatives to inform the Senate that they have agreed to receive the Hon. Jno. C. Breckinridge on to-morrow, at 11 o'clock, A. M., at which time he will address both Houses in joint session. They respectfully ask the concurrence of the Senate.

Ordered, That the Senate will, on to-morrow, at 11 o'clock, A. M., proceed to the House of Representatives, in accordance with the above invitation.

A message was received from the House of Representatives, announcing that they had refused to concur in the amendments proposed by the Senate to a House bill of the following title, viz:

Ordered, That the Senate adheres to its amendment, and that Messrs. Cissell and Fisk be appointed a committee of conference, and instructed to ask the appointment of a similar committee on the part of the House of Representatives.

Which was read the first time, and ordered to be read a second time.

Mr. Whitaker from the select committee on eleemosynary institutions, made the following report, viz:
The undersigned, appointed a committee by a resolution of the Senate, adopted February 9, 1861, as follows: "Resolved, That the Committee on Finance be instructed to obtain from all the eleemosynary institutions of this State, and that the managers of the same be required to furnish a full and complete account of all the moneys appropriated for their use, and the manner and to what uses the same has been applied, and what the per capitem expense to the State of every recipient of her bounty; and also the percentage of deaths in each of said institutions, and report to the next meeting of this Senate; also the number of pay patients in each institution; the amount received from each, and what disposition has been made of the money received from this source, and what amount was paid by individual citizens as donations to the State for the benefit of said institutions," beg leave to make the following report:

They have heretofore laid before the Senate the report made by the Superintendent of the "Institution for the Education and Training of Feeble-Minded Children." Also the special report of the "Kentucky Institution for the Education of the Blind." Also the report of the Principal of the "Deaf and Dumb Asylum." Also the report of the Board of Managers for the "Eastern Lunatic Asylum," at Lexington, Ky., and the report of the Board of Managers of the "Western Lunatic Asylum," at Hopkinsville, Ky.

In addition to the able and satisfactory reports of the Superintendent of the Institution for the Education and Training of Feeble-Minded Children, and of the Board of Managers of the Eastern Lunatic Asylum, a portion of the committee have been personally cognizant of the very efficient mode and manner of conducting said institutions, and freely give this testimonial to that effect, without intending any reflection to the charitable institutions of the State they have not personally visited. They express themselves highly gratified to be able to report the excellent condition of the Institution for the Education of the Blind, and of the Asylum for the Deaf and Dumb. They are also gratified to be able to report that they believe, from the report of the Board of Managers of the Western Lunatic Asylum, that it has been managed by a Board and Superintendent who have endeavored, to the utmost of their ability, to put the Western Lunatic Asylum in as flourishing and successful operation as any of the charitable institutions of the State; and while we express our entire confidence in the integrity of those connected with this institution, we regret that it is our imperative duty and most unpleasant task to call the attention of the Senate to some facts connected with the location, and past and present condition of the Western Lunatic Asylum.

In the successful management of asylums for those unfortunate sufferers that appeal so deeply and touchingly to all our sympathies, it is absolutely and essentially necessary to have a most bountiful supply of pure water. The statistical information and experience which your committee were put in possession of by that generous and disinterested philanthropist, Miss Dix, obtained from personal observation of all the most prominent and well-conducted asylums of this country and the continent, in her Heaven-blest efforts to ameliorate the condition of those to whom the immortal light of reason is denied, has convinced your committee that no lunatic asylum can be well conducted and carried on successfully without an inexhaustible supply of pure water. It is used for purposes of cleanliness, of heating the apartments, and is so intimately connected with all the laws of hygiene, as to be an insuperable essential. Your committee would call the attention of the Senate to the testimony before them on this subject. On page 10, of the report for the Western Lunatic Asylum, this language is used, in speaking of the heating of the apartments by heated air, when an effort was made to heat them by steam: "It was, however, discovered that the supply of water was altogether inadequate to the demand made by the steam apparatus, and after trying it a short time in the winter of 1854, the attempt was relinquished." "The heating of the apartments by steam is a sine qua non to the health and comfort of the lunatics." On same page is this language: "An attempt was made to procure a full supply of water by boring an artesian well." "The limestone rock was found to come within 3 feet of the surface, and a hole, 4 inches in diameter, was bored through it to the depth of 112 feet, when a stream of water was struck which rose 60 feet in the bore. When the steam engine was set to work on the pump, the supply of water, which was at first 11 gallons per minute, sunk to 3 or 4 in six hours."

It is supposed that by sinking the artesian well, a sufficient supply of water may be obtained, and if that fail, it has been suggested it may be brought from Little river, distant from the asylum about three quarters of a mile. Further from said report, page 11: "With reference to this subject of water supply, I beg leave to direct the board to the propriety, not to say the necessity, of constructing more rain-water cisterns," &c. * * * "If the cisterns now in use should give way, and the water leak out, or if a long drought should come in the summer, when the water is most needed, the consequences might be very disastrous." On page 12, "the small stream of water which in the winter flows over an uneven drain, is dry in summer, and is insufficient to carry off the offensive matter. This will be an insufferable nuisance, and will create general disease. The west wind is in summer the prevailing one, and will blow the effluvia directly towards the asylum. Our next neighbor, upon whose land there is also a small rivulet, into which that from the asylum enters, threatens a suit for spoiling his stock water." These extracts are from the very able report by Annon, M. D., the distinguished and accomplished Superintendent of the asylum for the years 1854-5. In the report of the same efficient Superintendent for 1856-7, page 12, this language is used: "I would first direct the attention of the managers to the important subject of warming the building. The chief difficulty has been the insufficient supply of water for keeping up steam." And again, in the report of the Board of Managers for 1858-9, page 10, this want of water is thus set forth: "Ever since the foundation of this Institution, the subject of properly warming and ventilating the main building by steam, has been one of serious and anxious consideration, and which experience has proven not only to be desirable, but of absolute necessity."
But to obtain this end, we have found, from careful tests and actual measurement, that we need an additional boiler for steam, and that our supply of water is most wofully deficient. "Our first object was to obtain a constant and adequate supply of water. "This well is now 171 feet deep, and the water rises in the bore 130 feet. When this well is completed, and a sufficient supply of water obtained, the houses will be kept warm and comfortable, the washing and cooking will be greatly facilitated, and the dangers of that most fearful of all casualties, conflagration, will be in a great measure averted."

Your committee would respectfully suggest that the sad and terrible fate that actually befall this grand and noble charity of a generous people, is here alluded to with almost prophetic anticipation; and the rigorous want of this essential element is irresistibly impressed upon your minds by the ineffaceable seething of the lurid flames, left upon the scorched and blackened walls of this once Samaritan home for dethroned reason and cheerless wretchedness. Again, on page twelve of this report, for 1858-'9, signed by the Board of Managers, (among whose names we find that of George Poindexter, whose integrity is above reproach, whom this committee feel would fairly present the true condition of the Institution from motives actuated by a pure philanthropy, and to whom we shall repeatedly allude as the source whence is derived a great deal of information on which this report is based,) we find language setting forth the "inadequate supply of water." And again, on page 15 of the same report, "all had suffered seriously during the previous winter, and many, particularly the epileptics, exhibited evidences of the evil effects of cold damp atmosphere upon weak and diseased bodies. This exposure and suffering resulted from un­avoidable necessity to confine most of the patients, during the long and inclement nights of winter, in rooms destitute of any artificial warming." "And the irregular and often deficient supply of water, for steam and other purposes, added to the inefficiency of the steam apparatus, broken and deranged condition of the steam and water pipes, as well as water tanks, rendered it not only impracticable, but utterly impossible, to warm the halls or lodging apartments of the sufferers."

Your committee are most deeply impressed with the appalling picture of human suffering here delineated with such terrible truth. Such men as John P. Campell, Wm. T. Buckner, George Poindexter, Thomas Green, and Edwin R. Cook, are men to be relied on, and they have borne evidence to the truth of the tragic scenes of the mournful drama. Nor could this have been the result of inattention on the part of these men, then the managers of the institution. Such a position would argue that they are hard-hearted and recklessly inhumane. We know them to be warm-hearted, generous men, and when the limited and barren supplies of water were not obtained, we can but infer that it could not. Again, on page 16, same report: "Again, it is earnestly hoped that removal of the leaky water tank, and erection of two new tanks now finished, enlargement of the engine house, &c., will mitigate greatly, but cannot obviate, nor even lessen, all of the worst evils which have been experienced." * * * "The completion of the artesian well must be effected, or a sufficiently capacious reservoir erected, and filled during seasons of wet weather from the spring which has been the chief but inadequate and uncertain source of supply." "This is necessary to the comfort of the patients; it is indispensable to successful treatment of their maladies." "During the last three or four years the volume of water which previously flowed from this spring has become reduced fully fifty per cent., in consequence of fractures in the rock, as some persons suppose, over which the stream passes." These fissures in the rock, from the testimony before the committee, are also a peculiar characteristic of Little river. To what extent it would ultimately affect that stream we cannot inform the Senate. This and the dry weather affect it so materially, however, as to reduce its flow so that it does not keep the mills running that are located on its banks. But again, on 28th November, 1859, according to the report for that year by S. P. Snead, page 51, he says: "I came to my present condition on the 3d of February, '59, and found the institution suffering greatly from an insufficient supply of water." Same report, page 53, he says: "The spring stream, which is the principal dependence of the house for water, commenced failing in March, and by the 1st of July only furnished about seventy-five barrels of water daily, whilst the house requires for the purposes of bathing, washing, and scouring, about 250 barrels per diem. Even in the winter season, in the event of a long dry spell, there is danger of not having sufficient water; and the water in the engine-house cistern would become so hot from the condensed water from the coils as to spoil the water of the cold water pump."

The artesian well now in progress of boring is about 1,000 feet deep, and as yet no supply of fresh water. There is some water, the volume of which is variously estimated, but this is so impregnated with sulphur as to render it wholly unfit to heat the apartments, on account of its corroding effect on the boiler and pipes, and is not suitable for the wants of the establishment. Testimony conclusive was before us that not less than 20,000 gallons per diem would be essential for the sanitary regulations, and that about 30,000 gallons per diem would not be too much for a bountiful supply. This testimony was very strong; conclusive to the minds of some of the committee that the sources whence it is contemplated to supply this now admitted deficiency of water is not adequate for the purpose. This comes from sources of enlarged experience on these subjects. In this connection, however, it is proper to add that the statements of gentlemen to whom we have before alluded, go to show that from two springs belonging to private individuals, and in use now by them, and to which he says the right of joint use can be obtained, would, with the waters of the asylum spring, if collected in a large reservoir some five hundred or six hundred feet square, with an average depth of some six or seven feet, afford, in his opinion, water enough; and in corroboration of his position, cites the estimates made by a civil engineer, (Lewis Warden;) and in the event that this is not resorted to, he is of opinion that by the making of a reservoir on a hill some half mile off, and by the erection of a steam engine at Little river to elevate the water into it, and thence convey it by pipes to the asylum, that a plentiful supply might be obtained. It is justice to this gentleman, and the interests of people he so ably represents, to say that he is of opinion that enough water can be obtained for all asylum purposes. He estimates the per diem quantity at about 10,000 gallons. We have had the statements of other persons of good sense and a high order of intelligence to the same effect.

But your committee are forced to the conclusion, in view of all the facts presented before them, that the supply of water is, to say the most, very doubtful, if not altogether inadequate and uncertain for the uses of such an institution; for the committee cannot arrive at the conclusion that men of such integrity, perception, and humanity, as those who have had the control and management of this institution, should not have heretofore reported to the Legislature of this State these facts, and have made available for the alleviation of the sufferings of the unfortunate beings under their charge means, now for the first time shown to be so near at hand in such profusion. Whatever conclusion the Senate may arrive at, the committee cannot too forcibly and earnestly press the question of an inexhaustible supply of pure water; and the reconstruction and re-building of an asylum should be governed in a great measure by this non-essential.

Without a personal inspection of the location of the Western Lunatic Asylum, your committee will be compelled to give facts as to its health, not express any opinion that is not thereby sustained. The following is a statement, for three years, of the percentage of mortality among the patients:

1858—Average number of patients, 131; percentage of deaths, 8.9.
1859.—Average number of patients, 181; percentage of deaths, 14.23.
1860—Average number of patients, 228; percentage of deaths, 15.4.

On page 15, report of 1858—9, we call your attention: "To add, as it were, to existing difficulties, as the genial warmth of spring came, epidemic dysentery invaded the feeble household. Before the close of July about eighty cases of this disease had occurreg, and ten of them terminated fatally. Several of the stoutest attendants and other helps suffered also."  "The cistern water failed about this time—a serious misfortune even alone, now a great and perplexing evil.
Early in August miasmal bilious fever, of a violent grade, appeared in the country, and was soon in the asylum. Dysentery seemed to run into the fever, as it has been observed to do in general practice. And it is a remarkable fact that scarcely an individual who had convalesced, or who was recovering from a recent attack of dysentery, escaped an attack from this fever; and, of course, many of such patients soon succumbed to its fatal force. That any of them yet live, must be ascribed to a merciful dispensation of heaven. Many have recovered; while others feebly linger, who must, probably, sooner or later, be numbered among the dead."

From the tables of mortality furnished by the Board, it will be found that the percentage of deaths, for the years 1858—9—60, is an average of 12.84 per cent.; of this the greatest mortality occurred in 1860, and the next greatest in 1859. Your committee could not but be most forcibly struck with this fearful mortality, compared with that of the Eastern Lunatic Asylum for the years 1859-'60-1.

In the Eastern Asylum the percentage of deaths for the year ending 30th September, 1859, was 3.32 per cent.; for the year ending 30th September, 1860, it was 3.70 per cent. During the present year, beginning 30th September, 1860, it is 3.28 per cent., and during the present year the Eastern Asylum had 275 patients. What was the cause of this great preponderance in favor of the health of the Eastern Lunatic Asylum? This arose, as was alleged by the friends of the Western Lunatic Asylum, from the sending by the Eastern Asylum to the Western all the weak, diseased, and chronic cases of lunacy. The facts do not, in the opinion of the committee, sustain the allegation.

Only twenty-nine patients were sent to the Western by the Eastern Lunatic Asylum. This was in 1854; and in accordance with the law, it being those whose residence was in the 1st, 2d, and 3d districts. In accounting for this mortality, it was also urged that many of the patients died from the fatigue and emaciation arising from the long weary travel in reaching the Western Asylum, on account of its location on the remote edge of the State. If this be true, (and the committee has every reason to believe the statement,) it is a fact that ought to have great force and weight with the Senate on the important subject they now have under consideration. A more central location would not be obnoxious to this great objection.

By an inspection of the finances of the Western Asylum the following will appear. We call attention only to the years 1858, '59, and '60; and first the year 1858:

This year there were in the asylum: average number of patients, 131. The appropriation by the State for that year was $27,500; of this, $2,500 was for the purpose of building a fence, and was so applied. Dividing the balance by 131 makes the per capitem expense of each patient, $190 83. Suppose, however, we take the cash on hand from 1857, amounting to $1,368 67; and to this add the appropriation, $35,000; and the amount received from 28 pay patients, $2,690; making the gross amount $39,058 67. This will give a per capitem expense of $221 81 for the year 1858. This should be credited by $2,153 carried to 1859.

For the year 1859, adding to the appropriation of State, say $25,000, the amount from pay patients, $4,915; the amount clothing, lime, and hogs sold, $52 50; also amount borrowed from bank, $1,470; and the cash on hand from 1858, $2,153—$33,590 50; from this deduct the cash taken to 1860, $247 39—$33,342 11; and divided by number of patients, 181, and the per capitem expense will be $195 74. And for 1860, amount of resources, as per report: From State, $35,000; borrowed from bank, $5,119 75; received from 28 pay patients, $4,428 50; and from other sources the sum of $179 49—$44,727 74. Average number of patients, 228, will give the per capitem expense for 1860, of $195 74.

A division of the appropriation for 1858 by the number of patients, including pay-patients, will give a per capitem expense of $190 83; for 1859, a per capitem expense of $138 12; showing, conclusively, that the per capitem expense as reported in their response to the resolution of the Senate is erroneously estimated. We think the calculation made by adding all the resources is correct. Compare this with the expense of the patients, per capitem, at the Eastern Lunatic Asylum, and there is a very great preponderance in favor of the latter institution; and for your better information we will give the data.

Eastern Asylum, for 1858: average number of patients, 230; appropriation, $29,250; per capitem expense, $127.18, including boarders. For 1859: average number supported, including pay-patients, 228; amount of appropriation, $29,250; number pay-patients, 40; per capitem expense, $128.28. For 1860 and 1861: appropriation each year, $25,250; average number of patients each year, 232; per capitem expense, $108.83, including 192 non-paying and 40 paying patients. Consolidating the estimate at the Eastern Lunatic Asylum, the per capitem expense for the non-paying patients, above the appropriation, is at the rate of $131.50 per annum—a less sum than is appropriated to each patient at Hopkinsville, including the boarders. In estimating the expenses of the patients, no reference has been made to the income derivable from the 380 acres of land belonging to the Western Asylum, nor from the 165 acres belonging to the Eastern. We find upon a further comparison of the amount appropriated to the Western and Eastern Asylums, that the appropriation to the Eastern was reduced for 1860 and 1861 to $25,250, per annum, and it was increased to $35,000 to the Western Asylum, although the average number supported at the Eastern was larger than that at the Western—it being 232 against 228 for 1860, and 232 against 210 for 1861.

These estimates and facts show a great defect somewhere. We take pleasure in saying that the Western Asylum is, and has been, managed by high-minded and prudent men; the fault (for there is one) is with the location, not with the managers. We believe they have honestly performed their duties, and practiced all the economy in their power. But living is cheaper at other points, and the expense not so great.

We desire to call the attention of the Senate to the table of the average cost per week of keeping lunatics in asylums in the United States, presented in the able and valuable report of the Superintendent of the Eastern Lunatic Asylum. From an inspection of that table it appears that the average cost per week, (beginning with the McLean Asylum in Massachusetts, as the highest, the cost being $68.89 per week, and closing with the Illinois Hospital for the Insane, it being $2.77 per week,) in nineteen asylums, is $3.93. In a great many instances there enumerated, the salaries of the officers are not included. The cost at the Eastern Lunatic Asylum, including officers’ salaries, is $2.87 per week. This asylum will compare with any institution of the kind in the effectiveness of its organization for the recovery and amelioration of the condition of the insane. As to the walls of the building, some of them are represented to be in bad condition, and will have to be pulled down; but in the main they are supposed to be substantial. Three of them are very much sprung. On this subject we are decidedly of opinion that this Senate ought to concur in the expression of preference on the 7th page of the report of George Poindexter, William T. Buckner, S. M. Bernard, E. R. Cook, and John S. Bryan, made to the Governor of Kentucky in relation to the burning of said asylum, in these words: "We would much prefer time permitting a committee from the Legislature, who could examine for themselves and report." We presume they are sufficiently acquainted with the true condition of things, and that this committee should be appointed.

The committee would call the attention of the Senate to the prompt manner in which answers from each of the charitable institutions have been given. Answers, too, requiring a vast amount of labor. It shows a very commendable and laudable attention and application on the part of those controlling these institutions. We regret, however, that the shortness of the time inhibited the worthy principal of the Deaf and Dumb Asylum from presenting a consolidated abstract of the interesting facts presented by him, and we would suggest that it be furnished, at the next meeting of the Legislature, accompanied with a table of statistics, as to the expenses incurred, and the mode and manner of the management of similar institutions in the United States. The committee, in the limited time allotted them to discharge their duties under this resolution, have been unable to present such a report in detail, or to get such reports in detail, as they would have presented; but they think sufficient information and data has been laid before the Senate to warrant the committee in suggesting the appointment of a "Commissioner," who shall, on the part of the State, annually settle and audit the accounts and expenditures, and critically examine all the vouchers of every charitable institution of this State, and make his report of their condition, in addition to what shall come from the managers of each institution.

We deem the appointment of such a Commissioner as indispensable. It will enable the State to have, in a consolidated and satisfactory presentation, all the minuta and detail of her financial expenditures for charity every year, and operate as a safeguard against any abuse that might arise. This suggestion is enforced with great power by the fact that this committee have been compelled to take for granted as correct the statement of accounts, without an examination of the vouchers on which these statements have been made.

In conclusion, the committee are of opinion that a Commission should be appointed to examine the old location of the Western Lunatic Asylum, and other new localities, and report to the next Legislature the most suitable and appropriate place for the erection of a new building. The mere cost of the old materials should have but little weight in fixing the location of an institution that has for its object the amelioration of, and recovery from, the greatest misfortune that can visit man. It should be located where an inexhaustible supply of living water shall ever be at hand to refresh and invigorate; it should be located where miasmatic exhalations and malaria, that breed pestilence and fevers that wasteth at noon-day, shall not prostrate and wither the physical frame of those on whom has settled the oblivious darkness of a mental night; it should be located where it will not be an exorbitant and extravagant drain, compared with other institutions, upon the bounty and liberality of a State that diffuses kind beneficence around as descends the silent dew, and restores the mind to its bright and glorious crown; it should be located in a spot where the storms of winter nor the drouths of summer will never diminish the supplies of life and health, and be a perpetual memorial in honor of the charity of the State.

Resolved, That a Commissioner be appointed to audit and settle the accounts and examine the vouchers of the eleemosynary institutions of this State, and make report annually to the Legislature of this State.

Resolved, That a commission of three persons be appointed by the Governor to examine and select a fit and suitable location for the reerection of the Western Lunatic Asylum, and report to the meeting of the next Legislature of this State.

ACCOMPANYING DOCUMENTS.

To the Board of Managers of the Western Lunatic Asylum, Hopkinsville, Kentucky:

GENTLEMEN: I herewith submit for your consideration the result of my investigations in relation to the water supply for the Hopkinsville Insane Asylum, together with such suggestions as have presented themselves to me as to the means best adapted for placing that supply beyond a possible contingency.

The question has been gravely urged whether it is possible to procure a sufficient supply, and for the reason that on this question doubts have existed in the minds of some, the propriety of retaining the location has been seriously considered. It seems to me, however, that, to a thinking mind, the doubts must quickly vanish. Kentucky is not an arid desert; and I do not hesitate to say that the most captious opponent of the present site, (if interested in a few sections of ground in the immediate neighborhood,) would, should the speculation offer, jump at the chance to have it sub-divided into town lots, with a prospect ultimately of its accommodating a population a hundred-fold greater than we ever expect to provide with homes in the asylum, without experiencing a moment's uneasiness at the prospect of a failure of the water supply. Nor is there reason for an existing doubt. Nature has been bountiful in her supplies, and it merely remains for us to provide the means for constructing it.

The asylum spring seems, from some cause, to have failed to supply the cistern, although an examination of the fountain head seems to indicate rather a change of direction than lack of water; and I have no doubt, that if the pipes leading to the spring—which are about a half mile in length, and but two inches in diameter, with a grade of 22 feet—were examined, one source of difficulty would be immediately discovered; the area of the pipe is inadequate to the length and grade, and the incrustations of the pipe have, with the sediment, so choked up the passage the force of the stream has been unable to overcome the friction in the pipes; a larger pipe might overcome the difficulty and furnish an adequate supply. In examining this important question it will be well, in the first place, to determine the amount of water which the asylum needs. Careful estimates, contained in the reports of similar institutions, show the average consumption of water to be about 80 gallons to each patient; and as the asylum when reconstructed will contain accommodations for about 300 patients, the daily water supply will require to be about 9,000 gallons. This amount, when compared with the ordinary consumption of a family or hotel, may seem large; but in an institution where considerable quantities are required to keep the drains and water closets in proper order, and to supply the heating apparatus, I am satisfied the estimate is not excessive; and although the rain water cisterns furnish an ample supply for culinary purposes, I have not thought best to make any deduction from the estimate; 9,000 gallons being required for daily use, let us examine into the most economical means of procuring it.

The spring at first expected to furnish the desired quantity seems to have come far short. The reason, as I have before hinted, may, perhaps, be found on examination of the conduit pipes; but the deficiency may be readily made up by conducting the water from Hays' spring. From a survey and measurements made on the 14th of March last, I find the distance from the spring to the northwest corner of asylum to be 2,244 feet, with a fall of nearly 17 feet. The yield of the spring at that date was by measurement 8 34-100 gallons per minute, or a supply equal to over 12,000 gallons per day, and the owner of the spring claims that it never yields a less quantity than at the time I examined it. Supposing, however, that in an extraordinary dry season, with the amount used by the owner the supply was reduced one fourth, there would still be a surplus of more than 9,000 gallons, or an amount equal to our total requirements. The cost of conveying this in a three inch cast-iron pipe from the spring to the large cistern now built near the engine-house, would be about ($1,090) one thousand and ninety dollars. As the present asylum springs are conveyed to the same cistern, there could be but little doubt of procuring a permanent supply.

Another source which may prove adequate is the artesian well now being bored on the asylum grounds. The success of this mode of supply is entirely dependent upon the earth's strata at a depth securely hidden from "mortal ken," and is, therefore, under the most favorable
The supply of water for the Institution, it seems to me, should be made without delay. I have examined into the feasibility of bringing about a water supply of sufficient grade and quality to meet immediately the demand. At this season it has been found that the quality of the water was about equal to three months' consumption. Should the springs fail in extremely dry seasons to supply the demands of asylum, provision could easily be made to hold in a reservoir a quantity equal to three months' consumption. By constructing the reservoir on the hill between the asylum springs and the building, with connecting pipes to the cistern, the contingency of extreme drouth would be provided against. I propose to make the reservoir about 500 feet from the building, with an interior diameter of 100 feet at the bottom, 142 feet at the top of embankment, 138 feet at the water line, with a depth of 9½ feet. A basin of this capacity would hold 810,500 gallons, and would cost complete with 2,000 feet of 4 inch cast iron conduit pipe, about $3,690.00.

I have also examined into the feasibility of bringing the water supply from the nearest branch of Little river, the distance of which from the building is about 3,300 feet; the height from water of the river to the base of building being 52 82-100 feet. Should that source of supply be adopted, it would be necessary to build a receiving reservoir on the hill to east of the asylum, with a complete, yet economical water-works pumping apparatus at the river. In presenting the data for this, I have availed myself of the enlarged experience of Lewis Warden, Esq., late Superintendent and Engineer of the Cincinnati Water-Works, a gentleman whose thorough practical knowledge of this branch of mechanical engineering is a sufficient guarantee of the reliability of his estimates. His communication, marked (A,) you will find herewith annexed. From either, or all of the above mentioned sources, there can be no doubt of procuring an adequate water supply for all the wants of the Institution, and at a moderate expense; the first cost in each case being, in a great measure, the final cost; none of the work would be very liable to get out of repair; and in the last plan suggested, the water-works at Little river, after the machinery was once in operation, all the necessary repairs could be performed by the ordinary attendants of the Institution, without any extra expense to the State.

Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

W. B. KELLY,
Architect Western Lunatic Asylum.

To GEORGE PONDexter, Esq., Chairman Board of Managers, Western Lunatic Asylum.

(A.)

CINCINNATI, March 20, 1861.

W. B. Kelly, Esq., Architect and Civil Engineer:

Sir: I have duly considered the matter submitted to me by you, regarding the cost of a water-works for the Kentucky Lunatic Asylum, and present an estimate and statements which, I think, may be relied upon as correct, as they are based upon data collated from reliable sources and my own practical experience while chief engineer of the water-works of this city, and in other places, with pumping engines. For all items given below, I think I have found about the cost, unless it may be in the estimate for the reservoir, for which I have depended on you, as you better know the cost of excavation and work of the character in this premises necessary than I do, since the price of such work varies materially in different localities. I, however, give you an estimate that is something near an approximation:

This estimate contemplates the use of a vertical, direct acting, high pressure steam engine, with a double acting lifting and forcing pump, of the most simple, reliable, and economical construction, the recommendation of which I am induced to, because of the fact that very many of the public institutions of the country have been so much imposed upon by being induced to purchase imperfect and useless pumping apparatus, upon their patented and newspaper reputations, which, in far the greater number of cases, prove to be a bad investment, and in none more so than in pumping machinery. The capacity of the pump to be made use of is such as to fill the reservoir in six hours, against the drain made upon it by the constant use of water within the asylum. The furnace and boiler, if set upon the plan submitted, will only consume, monthly, about 75 bushels of coal, or $200 worth per annum, it being intended to use this pumping engine six days of each month only. No special engineer will be needed for this service, as the assistants of the engineer of the asylum can do this service. Metallic packing will be used, and the oil and coal will be the principal expense in the use of the engine.

This statement embraces the purchase of new machinery, but at the same time is made with the view to use the small engine now there, if it can be adapted to the purpose without adding too much expense. It will sell for about $300, which will about pay the expense of putting up and starting the works. For a more complete understanding of the whole matter, I refer you to the outline plans of the building and parts of the machinery accompanying.

Respectfully submitted.

LEWIS WARDEN,
Mechanical and Practical Engineer, late of Cincinnati Water-Works.

To George Poindexter, Esq.:

Sir: On the chance that my opinion may, in any sort, be misapprehended regarding the natural healthfulness of the hospital site at Hopkinsville, I repeat now that, to the best of my knowledge, all periods of special ill health there may be referable to the inadequate supply of pure water for all purposes, in general and in detail; and insuch as drainage passes into a dry branch in summer, a supply largely in excess of ordinary demands seems demanded. The supply of water sure and ample at all seasons, and the drainage complete in method, I would as willingly reside in the hospital at Hopkinsville, or the vicinity, during the entire year, as at Lexington, or any other part of the State, so far as the single question of general health is embraced.

Respectfully,

D. L. DIX.

2. Resolved, That we are opposed to secession, or any other revolutionary act at this time, and will await the action of the proposed Border Slave State Convention, to assemble in this city, or any other plausible plan of adjustment, having in view the just settlement of pending difficulties on the principles of justice and equality.

4. Resolved, That it is the hope of this General Assembly that the non-slaveholding States will not deny us an adjustment upon this plan at as early a day as practicable.

Breckinridge; and after some time spent in joint session, the Senate returned to their chamber, Mr. Breckinridge having finished his address, and resumed the consideration of business then before them.

Mr. Simpson offered the following substitute for the second resolution, viz:

Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That the withdrawal of the Federal troops from the forts in the seceding States, for the purpose of preventing civil war and the shedding of fraternal blood, would be attended by no dishonor; and that such a course of conduct by the General Government would meet the cordial approval of the State of Kentucky, and also greatly tend to preserve and perpetuate the kind feeling which we believe still exists between the masses of the people of this Union, notwithstanding the unhappy differences which have arisen among us.

Mr. Rhea moved to amend the amendment offered by Mr. Simpson. The yeas and nays being demanded on the amendment proposed by Mr. Rhea by Messrs. Cissell and Rhea, were as follows, viz:

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 27, 1861.

MY DEAR FRIENDS: In reply to your anxious inquiries respecting amendments or a reconstruction of the Constitution of the United States, I can only add, in addition to what I have heretofore written, that I believe a satisfactory reunion of the people and the States can only be accomplished upon the following basis, as a finality:

Full and ample protection to all the rights of African servitude in and among the States, and in all the Territories south of 40 degrees north latitude, or remove the line south to the parallel of the center of the Capitol at Washington, or place it on any intermediate line; the perfect right of transit on the border; and full provision for the rendition of fugitive servants. The President of the United States to be elected alternately from the section of the Union south of said line and north of said line. All the local offices to be filled by citizens of each section and State of the Union respectively; all other officers to be selected from each section, according to the relative population of each section, with due and fair regard to dignity, salaries, &c., &c. Equal protection, as far as practicable, to all the rights and interests of the people in every section of the Union. All powers of the government to be clearly expressed, and all others expressly prohibited.

This I think the only satisfactory basis possible to be devised. If any one else will suggest a better one, none would more willingly accept it than myself.

As ever,

W. B. VICTOR.

Mr. Cissell, from the Committee on the Judiciary, to whom they had been referred, reported House bills of the following titles, viz:

An act to authorize the granting of bowling alley license in the city of Covington.

With an amendment to the last named act.

Mr. Cissell, from the Committee on the Judiciary, reported a bill entitled "An act to amend the Civil Code of Practice."

Said bill reads as follows, viz:

§ 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That the 670th section of the Civil Code of Practice be so amended as to read as follows: A party to an action or proceeding may be examined as a witness in his own behalf the same as any other witness; but such examination shall not be had, nor shall any other person for whose immediate benefit the same is prosecuted or defended, be so examined, unless the adverse party or person in interest is living, nor when the adverse party shall be the assignee, administrator, executor, or legal representative of a deceased person, nor unless ten days' notice of such intended examination of the party or person interested, specifying the points upon which such party or person intended to be examined, shall be given in writing to the adverse party; except, that in special proceedings of a summary nature, such reasonable notice of such intended examination shall be given as shall be prescribed by the judge or court before whom the matter is pending; and except further, that in all actions and proceedings that may be pending in the Jefferson county court, and in the county courts, quarterly courts, and justices' courts of the Commonwealth, such notice shall be given three days before such examination is intended to be had, and the notice so given shall be taken as sufficient, without specifying the points on which the party giving the notice intends to be examined; and when notice of such intended examination shall be given, in an action or proceeding in which the opposite party or person in interest shall reside out of the jurisdiction of the court, such party or person may be examined as other witnesses may by law be examined now. And whenever a party or person in interest has been examined, under the provisions of this act, the opposite party or person in interest may offer himself as a witness in his own behalf, and shall be received. When an assignor of a thing in action or contract is examined as a witness, in behalf of any person deriving title from or through him, the adverse party or person in interest may be a witness to the same matters in his own behalf, and also to any matters that may tend to discharge him from any liability that the testimony of the assignor tends to fix upon him. But such assignor shall not be admitted to be examined in behalf of any person deriving title from or through him, against an assignee, administrator, or executor, unless the other party to such contract or thing in action, whom the plaintiff or defendant represents, is living, and his testimony may be procured for such examination; nor unless at least ten days' notice of such intended examination of the assignor, specifying the points upon which he is intended to be examined, shall be given in writing to the adverse party, except, that ten days' notice in such cases shall not be required in actions or proceedings in the inferior courts herein before named; but the notice in those courts shall be in writing, and shall be given for three days only, and the points upon which such examination is intended to be had need not be specified.

The question was then taken on the substitute offered by Mr. Gissell, which is as follows, viz:

1. Resolved by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, That, in the opinion of this General Assembly, it is of the most vital importance to the commercial interest of the people of Kentucky that the navigation of the Mississippi river and its tributaries should continue free and unmolested, and she protests against any attempt to obstruct or prohibit the free navigation thereof; and she believes that more can be done to continue the enjoyment of such right by conciliation, and the cultivation of friendly relations with every portion of our common country, than by threats or any attempt at coercion; and this General Assembly is gratified to learn that the convention of Louisiana, by unanimous vote, has recognized that right to all friendly States.

2. Resolved, That this General Assembly has learned that certain of the free States have passed laws declaring the absolute freedom of negro slaves upon touching their soil; and others have passed laws virtually denying to the citizens of the slave States the right of transit through such States with their slaves, as well as laws denying to citizens of slave States the use of jails, in cases of arrest under the fugitive slave law; and that the Governor of Ohio, in contravention to the Federal Constitution, and the laws passed in pursuance thereof, as expounded recently by the Supreme Court of the United States, has refused, and still refuses, to surrender a fugitive from justice upon requisition by the Executive of this State; and that a party is organized in the free States to resist, by violence, the execution of federal laws; and these "rights being of vital importance to the people of Kentucky, and the people of her sister slave States, Kentucky feels it her duty to herself and her sister Southern States, at the earliest day to make this, her most solemn protest, against any" and all such unjust and iniquitous legislation and conduct on the part of such free States and the Executive of Ohio.

And whereas, We have received information that the Federal Government contemplates sending additional troops to the Newport barracks, in this State; therefore,

1. Resolved, That Kentucky earnestly and solemnly protests against such action on the part of the Federal Government as tending to defeat efforts for peaceable adjustment, and still further to complicate existing difficulties, and will be regarded by her as an evidence of hostility to the peace and quiet of our citizens, and as intended to destroy and subvert the liberties of our people.

2. Resolved, That the Governor be directed to communicate the foregoing resolutions to the Executives of the different States, and to the President of the United States.

A division of the propositions being demanded,

The question was taken on adopting the first resolution.

Gentlemen of the Senate:

The hour fixed by the joint action of both branches of this Legislature for final adjournment, is now at hand. Before parting, I trust you will excuse me if I avail myself of this opportunity of again expressing to you my heartfelt thanks for your unwearied kindness and courtesy to me. Whatever of success may have attended my efforts to discharge the duties imposed upon me by the responsible position in which you placed me, is attributable more to that kindness and courtesy, than to any superior qualifications that I possess for such a place.

After anxious deliberations for weeks, the result of which will, I hope, prove a blessing to us and to our race, by bringing back again all the scattered fragments of this once glorious Union in one common bond of interest and affection—we are about to separate, each one to return to his family and people. In the course of events, we may not meet again; and in this, to me, most solemn moment, it is with pain that I now say to all, to each one of you, and to the officers of this Senate who have so faithfully and patiently discharged their duties, farewell. May God's blessings be with you.

I now declare this Senate adjourned sine die.
...press courts to court place, will, I again common one to may not in pain of this duties,...
