Memo to: Kathy Heberer
From: Timothy Coggins
Subject: President's Column
Date: 5-1-91

Thanks for the reminders! The last one for me, huh? The column is a little longer than I expected, but feel free to edit as you deem necessary. I am also faxing the copy of the paper completed by the student who did the survey in Tuscaloosa. You might want to save this (or an article using some of the information) for another issue.

I hope you realize how much I appreciate your hard work this year on the Newsletter. You and Russell did a great job.

Thanks.

Do not include anything special about Paul Charin's husband in the newsletter. The mention of his name in the minutes is sufficient.

Thanks.

Jen

PRESIDENT'S COLUMN

The past year as President of the Southeastern Chapter has been exciting and busy. Reports in this issue of The Southeastern Law Librarian from the Annual Meeting in Tuscaloosa provide an indication of the wonderful educational programs at the Annual Meeting and Education Institute. The minutes of the Business Meeting indicate the activities of the Chapter during the past year. I thank all those members who provided capable assistance and advice to me during the past year and all those members who served so well on the SEAALL committees. Most of you have received your Southeastern Chapter ballot for next year's officers and know that the Chapter is losing Peggy Martin before she has the opportunity to lead the Chapter. Best wishes to Peggy as she leaves the Southeast for Colorado! The Chapter is lucky to have Mary Cross ready to step into the President's position at the Business Meeting in New Orleans. Mary will do a wonderful job for the Chapter; please provide her with as much support as you can when she asks for volunteers to serve on committees. I am also happy to report that Cam Riley of West Virginia University has agreed to serve as the Local Arrangements Chair for the 1993 Annual Meeting. Cam will provide the Chapter with details of the meeting shortly.

Another very important library activity occurs this summer (in addition, of course, to the AALL Annual Meeting). The White House Conference on Library and Information Services 1991 meets in Washington, D.C. from July 9-13. The Conference is authorized by Congress "to develop recommendations for the further improvement of the library and information services of the Nation and their use by the public...." The American Association of Law Libraries has played an active role in the development of the issues to be discussed by the Conference participants. Six position papers, authored by AALL members, outline the Association's response to the broad themes selected for the Conference: literacy, productivity and democracy.

The six papers are outlined briefly here. AALL Past President and SEAALL member Dick Danner (Duke University) authored the position paper on "Public Access to Legal Information" which discusses how libraries of all types can ensure public access to legal information. Danner recommends that the general library community establish ties with law librarians and law library associations to promote development of programs for public access to commercial legal databases and to implement legal research training programs for general librarians. Judith Wright (University of Chicago) and AALL Vice-President/President-Elect Carolyn Ahearn (Shaw, Pittman, Potts & Trowbridge) consider the role of the Law Library of Congress and discuss how the Law Library of Congress should serve as the Nation's law library by improving access to its collections of foreign legal materials, by coordinating referrals to local legal collections, and by exercising leadership in the field of law librarianship. They recommend that Congress should encourage and direct the Law Library of Congress to provide access to its vast collections and to shoulder a leadership role in coordinating universal access to the literature of the law.

The third position paper, authored by Joanne Zich (American University), discusses support for the Depository Library Program. This paper recommends that the Depository Library Program be strengthened to specifically include information in electronic formats. A second recommendation is that federal agencies observe their legal commitment to provide government information published in-house or by commercial printers to the GPO for distribution to depository libraries. Zich encourages federal agencies, elected representatives, and libraries to promote vigorously the Depository Library Program as a primary source for government information. Bruce Kennedy's (Georgetown University) position paper on "Access to Law-Related Government Information in Electronic Formats" recommends that libraries become public reception points for electronic law-related government information and access channels to government entities. The position paper on "Support for the National Research and Education Network" authored by Blair Kauffman (University of Wisconsin) encourages Congress to enact legislation creating an infrastructure and providing initial funding for NREN to be coordinated and developed under the general guidance of the National Science Foundation. The sixth position paper dealing with "Preservation of Legal Materials" is authored by George Grossman (University of Wisconsin). This paper considers how libraries, governments, and the public sector will assist in the preservation of legal information in paper, microforms and electronic formats. The paper recommends that legal publications receive a high priority in national preservation programs and that government, information professionals, and the private sector work together to establish and implement standards for the preservation and accessibility of electronic information. Any SEAALL member who is interested in a copy of the papers may contact me or the AALL Headquarters.

The 900 WHCLIS II delegates and alternatives were selected by their states in preconference meetings and represent all 50 states and nine U.S. territories, Native American tribes and the federal library community. The Conference recommendations to improve library and information services to enhance literacy, increase productivity, and strengthen democracy should serve as the guiding principles for the development of library and information services for the future. Look for developments and information about this important conference in the news media.

I look forward to seeing many of you in New Orleans. Thank you for this year as President; it's been a pleasure serving the Chapter.

COPYRIGHT IN LIBRARIES: ISSUES FOR THE 90'S

1991 SEAALL INSTITUTE

MARCH 14, 1991

An all-day institute on copyright in libraries will take place in Tuscaloosa, Alabama on March 14, 1991, immediately preceding the SEAALL Annual Meeting. An impressive cast of speakers will headline an informative, stimulating, and thought provoking program.

Featured speakers include Isabella Hinds, manager of professional relations for the Copyright Clearance Center; Bernard Korman, general counsel for ASCAP; William Patry, policy planning advisor to the U.S. Copyright Office; Harold See of the University of Alabama School of Law; and SEAALL's own Lolly Gasaway and Jim Heller. David Ensign, Sally Wiant, and other SEAALL members also will contribute to the program.

Topics to be addressed include: The Substantive Law of Copyright; Library Copying in For and Non-profit Libraries; Copying Non-book Materials (software, audio-visual works, and CD-Rom); Fee-Based Services: Licensing Alternatives; and The Future of Copyright.

The program will begin at 8:30 a.m. on Thursday, March 14 at the Sheraton Conference Center in Tuscaloosa. Those planning to attend the SEAALL Annual Meeting, which kicks off with a reception later that same evening, will not want to miss this institute.

Registration for the copyright institute is specially priced at only $50 (yes, that includes lunch). Non-law librarians also will find the institute valuable. If you know of others who might want to attend but who will not receive The Southeastern Law Librarian, photocopy this announcement and send it to them.

For more information contact Jim Heller at the Marshall-Wythe School of Law, College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Virginia, 23185. Phone: (804) 221-3252; Fax: (804) 221-3261.

The University of Alabama Law Center Library is looking forward to hosting the SEALL annual meeting, "Issues of the 90's", March 14-16, 1991. The Program Committee has done a fine job of planning an interesting conference. There will be a reception to open the activities on the night of March 14 and programs all day Friday and one-half day Saturday. All meetings will be held at the Bryant Conference Center and Hotel. Tours of the campus and visits to other attractions as well as the Bryant Museum and the Museum of Natural History will be available to conferees Saturday afternoon. Any questions may be directed to Cherry Thomas, Local Arrangements Chair, 205-348-5925.

The SEALL Institute, "Copyright and Libraries: Issues for the 90's", will be held prior to the annual meeting at the Bryant Conference Center. There will be a hospitality suite on the night of March 13 with the one-day program to begin at 8:30 a.m. on March 14 and concluding at 5:30 p.m. Faculty for the Institute include: David Ensign, director, University of Louisville School of Law Library; Laura Gasaway, director of the law library and professor of law, University of North Carolina; James Heller, director of the law library and associate professor of law, College of William and Mary; Isabella Hinds, manager of professional relations for the Copyright Clearance Center; Bernard Korman, general counsel for the American Society of Composers, Authors & Publishers (ASCAP); William Patry, policy planning adviser to the U.S. Copyright Office; and Sara Wiant, director of the law library and associate professor of law, Washington and Lee University.

SEALL COMMITTEES PLAN ACTIVITIES AND PUBLICATIONS

The Education Committee of the Southeastern Chapter of Law Libraries is sponsoring a one-day institute on copyright in libraries to be held immediately prior to the 1991 SEALL Annual meeting. The institute is scheduled for March 14, 1991 in Tuscaloosa, Alabama. For details contact Jim Heller, Marshall-Whythe Law Library, College of William and Mary.

Ed Edmonds, chair of the SEALL Publication Committee, is working on the Southeastern Association of Law Libraries Handbook which is "intended to provide SEALL officers, committee chairs and members an overview of the Chapter's operations." Committee chairs received a draft of the Handbook and are contributing suggestions on their committee's section.

The Handbook will be an invaluable guide for new officers and committee chairs as they plan their activities each year and are able to review past practices and functions of their area of responsibility.

Library School Survey

Our Committee is again asking your cooperation in filling out the Library School Affiliation form. One of the committee's major goals is to increase the profile of law libraries to library school students in our region. It will be extremely valuable to know where our members attended library school -- even if it was not in the SEALL region -- so that we might use that information in our publicity and "p.r." efforts.

To date, only 77 members have returned the form. Please take a few minutes to complete the form and return to:

SEALL'S OUTREACH PROGRAM

The Publicity and Public Relations Committee is continuing this year its outreach program to library school students and professional library association members in the SEALL region. Under the direction of last year's President, J. Wesley Cochran, and committee chair, Hazel Johnson, long range goals were established to promote law librarianship generally and SEALL activities and programs specifically.

This year the committee has developed a "public relations mailing calendar" and the 10 person committee has begun sending letters to the thirteen library school deans and eleven library association directors in the southeast region. The committee hopes to provide career information and networking opportunities to library students as well as establish contacts and interact with non-law librarians who may want to attend our meetings and institutes.

SEALL COMMITTEES PLAN ACTIVITIES AND PUBLICATIONS

The Education Committee of the Southeastern Chapter of Law Libraries is sponsoring a one-day institute on copyright in libraries to be held immediately prior to the 1991 SEALL Annual Meeting. The institute is scheduled for March 14, 1991 in Tusdaloosa, Alabama. For details contact Jim Heller, Marshall-Whythe Law Library, College of William and Mary.

Ed Edmonds, chair of the SEALL Publication Committee, is working on the Southeastern Association of Law Libraries Handbook which is "intended to provide SEALL officers, committee chairs and members an overview of the Chapter's operations." Committee chairs received a draft of the Handbook and have been asked for suggestions on their committee's section. are contributing

The Handbook will be an invaluable guide for new officers and committee chairs as they plan their activities each year and are able to review past practices and functions of their area of responsibility.

Dear Sue:

Thank you for agreeing to help gather information for "SEAALL Briefs." In order to prevent your overworking, I thought it wise to clarify my request.

What I had in mind was letters, or phone calls if you prefer, to those pockets of potential gossip, the law libraries in Kentucky - the SEAALL membership directory lists about eleven. That is the group I would approach, rather than individuals, and hopefully therefore, not spend too much of your time. I usually write to the director.

If you are comfortable gathering and forwarding items to me, fine, but if you just want to ask people to send them directly to me by phone, mail or FAX, that's good too. I will put them all together and send a finished column to Kathy.

If I can have everything by about the 28th or 29th of January (that's Monday or Tuesday) I can put it together. Then, if you get a late hot one, go ahead and fax it to me and I can still stick it in! I suggest you start as soon as you can in January, then you can relax until people send you things to send along.

I hope it's clear that you need not spend much time on this. A few letters, maybe a phone call or two, and possibly (but not necessarily) acting as a forwarding agent will help ensure that we'll have at least some Kentucky news each quarter.

Thanks again for agreeing to help. If you have any questions, or if you could use some help in working it out, please call or write.

Happy Holidays!

Sincerely,

Dear Jean:

November 1 is the deadline for the second issue of Southeastern Law Librarian, vol. 16.

"SEAALL Briefs" is expanding. We hope to have a reporter in each state of the region, to help keep us up to date with our far-flung colleagues. While it will be great to have more coverage, I hope Virginia will continue to be heard from - there is a lot going on here.

By the way, if you noticed the articles by Teresa Pritchard and Michael Lynch, be reminded that our newsletter prints more than just "Briefs."

Let us have anything you think might be interesting, by letter or phone, and we'll see where it fits.

Automated Systems in Kentucky

The Chase Law Library has finished its first round of barcoding for its new automated system - VTLIS. They hope to have everything running by Fall semester, 1991.

The University of Kentucky is in its initial stage of implementing NOTIS. They have been using LS2000 since the 1986-87 school year. Their schedule calls for the circulation and cataloging modules to be in place by August 1, 1991.

Dear Ms Burch:

As you may be aware, the "SEAALL Briefs" column in the Southeastern Law Librarian has grown lately, as we have tried to include more member news from throughout the region. In the past, we have depended on members to think of the newsletter and send news to one of the editors; the result has been awfully spotty.

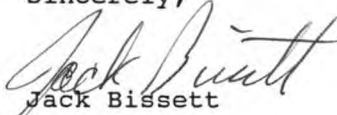

I asked Tim Coggins to suggest one person in each state of the Southeast, who might be willing to do a little digging for us, and one of his suggestions is you. What I am asking does take a little time every three months - the next deadline is Feb. 1 - but is a satisfying service to the Chapter.

Would you be willing, in early January, to contact the law libraries in your state with a reminder about the newsletter, serve as a collection point for incoming news, and keep your eyes open for items about librarians and their activities, as well as be listed in the newsletter as a contact? I will help in any way I can, including reminding you when it's time to initiate the process for a new issue, receiving any items from people you contact, as well as, of course, compiling them into the column. I think this will help to ensure that we have more news from more parts of the region than ever before.

I'm enclosing a sample of the note I send out as a reminder to the libraries in my state; certainly there are other ways to do this, but this has been reasonably successful, and it suggests an approach.

If you are interested in working with me, I will be grateful. If not, please just let me know, but in either case, thank you for considering it.

Sincerely,

Jack Bissett

Carol Billings, Director of the Law Library of Louisiana, recently was selected as the recipient of the 1991 Southeastern Chapter of the American Association of Law Libraries' prestigious "Service to the Chapter Award." Billings is the third recipient of an award designed to recognize persons who make special contributions to the Chapter through continuing service and involvement in Chapter activities.

In addition to her many and varied Chapter responsibilities, Carol is very active in the American Association of Law Libraries. She serves currently as a member of the 1990-91 Executive Board and served as a co-director of the very successful winter institute held recently in Williamsburg, Virginia. Carol's Chapter activities include one term as Chapter President in 1986-87. She also served as Vice-President/President-Elect in 1985-86, Program Committee Chair in 1985-86, and Editor of the Southeastern Law Librarian (the Chapter newsletter) for two years from 1982 - 1984.

CHAPTER NEWS (SEALL)

The Articles and Bylaws Committee, chaired by Pam Williams, has mailed its proposed revisions to all SEALL members who will vote on the revisions at the July 22nd business meeting in New Orleans.

The proposed revisions are in Bylaws Article 1, Membership Status: Section 1 changes deal with membership criteria and Section 2 changes deal with voting privileges and restrictions on the right to hold office.

The other proposed revisions are in Bylaws Article IV, Amendments and Bylaws: Section 1 changes deal with the manner of giving notice of proposed amendments to members; the Section 2 change involves a one word change; and the Section 4 change involves a one word change.

The Publications Committee, chaired by Ed Edmonds, has been working this year attempting to rekindle interest in a publication covering the practice materials for all eleven states and Puerto Rico. This volume would update the series run initially in SOUTHEASTERN LAW LIBRARIAN and add annotations for each entry. The Committee has received commitments for state coordinators from four states (Florida, Louisiana, North Carolina and Virginia). The Committee wants to complete the selection of state coordinators by June 1, 1991. The coordinators will be responsible for compiling the current list of titles and allocating the responsibility for writing annotations. The Committee hopes to make significant progress on this project this summer.

MEMBERSHIP NEWS (SEALL)

The Summer issue of Southeastern Law Librarian is approaching; deadline is May 1. If you have a little time, I'd appreciate it if you could prod your Kentucky colleagues for news about them and their organizations.

If I have everything by April 26, I can get it in. I'll be glad to accept items either through you or directly from the source. Thank you once again for helping us dig up news from far wider a field than I could cover myself.

Whether I will be doing this next year I don't know; however, if you would like to be off the hook after this issue, please just let me know.

Again, thank you.

SEALL IN TUSCALOOSA

The SEALL Institute and Annual Meeting in Tuscaloosa, Alabama, focused on the "Issues in the 90's". The one-day Institute, "Copyright and Libraries", presented an indepth examination of the concerns librarians face in dealing with copyright issues. Professor Harold See from the University of Alabama Law School began the program with an overview of the substantive law of copyright. Other topics presented included copying in for and non-profit libraries, nonbook materials, fee based services, licensing alternatives and the future of copyright which focused on library related copyright law developments likely to occur in the 90's. The participants also had an opporunity to take part in dynamic small group discussions with expert facilitators probing and examining audiovisual works, computers and new technologies, drafting copyright policies, fee-based services, reference services, non-profit libraries, and for-profit libraries.

The annual meeting which followed the institute offered a variety of programs covering wide ranging topics (from treaty research to space law and cataloging alternatives to sports law) which entertained and enlightened the 109 participants.

The meeting ended with a session entitled "Dialogue with a Library School". Dean Phillip Turner from the Alabama School of Library and Information Studies and two of his faculty exchanged questions and answers with Donna Bausch, Regent Univeristy Law Library, Timothy Lewis, Alabama Supreme Court Library, and Mary Smith Forman, Akerman Senterfitt & Eidson, Orlando, Florida. The lively exchange examined library school curriculums, human relations skills, recruitment, and the necessity of a law degree for librarians in a law library.

At the business meeting vice president/president elect of AALL, Carolyn Ahern, a participant as well as a presenter at the annual meeting, reported briefly on her goals for the coming year, as well as updated the chapter on the various ongoing AALL committee projects.

Also at the business meeting, Carol Billings, Director of the Law Library of Louisiana, was selected as the recipient for the Special Service to the Chapter award. The selection is based on cumulative or continuing service to SEALL and the recipient must have been a chapter member for a minimum of 5 years. A past president of SEALL, as well as serving as chair of numerous committees, this year Carol serves as chair of the Nominations Committee and chairs the Special Committee on Cooperative Efforts which has been diligently working on plans for a joint meeting with SWALL in the near future.

Also at the meeting the Nominations Committee announced that president-elect, Peggy Martin, was moving to Colorado in May, and that Mary F. Cross, Director of the Library, Stearns Weaver Miller Weissler Alhadeff & Sitterson, Miami, Florida, had been appointed to fill the unexpired term of vice-president/president elect.

The rest of the slate for the May election is as follows (to assume office in July): for vice president/president-elect: William J. Beintema, Director of the Law Library, University of Tennessee and Edmund P. Edmunds, Law Librarian, Loyola University Law School Library, New Orleans, Louisiana; for treasurer: Sue Burch, Circulation/Reference Librarian, University of Kentucky and Hilary Burg, Librarian, Odin Feldman & Pittleman, Fairfax, Virginia. Alva Stone, Catalog Librarian, Florida State University, who was elected to a two-year term last May, will continue for another year in the office of secretary.

The Local Arrangements Committee, chaired by Cherry Thomas, received kudos from all SEALL participants for the well organized and well run program, as did Peggy Martin, chair of the Program Committee, which planned such diverse and informative sessions!

Dear Sue:

I have spoken with Pam Williams, chair of the SEALL Articles and Bylaws Committee, about information for the newsletter. She asked that we use the newsletter to remind everyone that we will be voting on proposed amendments to the bylaws at the annual meeting in New Orleans on July 22, 1991, and that all members should have received copies of the proposed revisions by mail, along with the ballot for election of officers. (The mailing went out yesterday, so everyone should have a copy by the time the newsletter comes out.) Other than that, she has no news.

SEALL SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED

The SEALL Scholarship Committee awarded eight scholarships this year. The scholarships are provided to promote professional development. In determining the award amounts, the Committee considered the actual costs of the activity and the amount of support available from the applicant's employer. Seven of the eight recipients are new members of the chapter (three or fewer years in SEALL).

The scholarships will be used for a variety of activities and recipients are being asked to submit brief reports on their experiences. The reports may later be published in the SOUTHEASTERN LAW LIBRARIAN.

Scholarships are being offered to the following librarians for the purposes indicated: Penny Calhoun Gibson, University of Alabama Law Library, 1991 AALL Annual Meeting; Dana L. Gray, Adams, Kleemeier Hagan Hannah & Fouts, 1991 SEALL Annual Meeting; Ismael Gullon, Mercer University Law Library, 1991 SEALL Annual Meeting; Jack Kotvas, Regent University Law Library, 1991 SEALL Annual Meeting; Maurine B. Mattson, Mississippi College Law Library, 1991 SEALL Annual Meeting and Institute; Peggy A. Mitts, 5th Circuit Court of Appeals Library; tuition towards MLS at the University of New Orleans; Joyce A. McCray Pearson, University of Louisville Law Library, Interagency Depository Seminar, Washington, D.C.; and Martha E. Thomas, Wake Forest University Law Library, 1991 SEALL Institute.
