

University of Kentucky

UKnowledge

Pediatrics Faculty Publications

Pediatrics

2015

Starting Off

Hatim A. Omar

University of Kentucky, hatim.omar@uky.edu

Follow this and additional works at: https://uknowledge.uky.edu/pediatrics_facpub

Part of the Mental and Social Health Commons, and the Pediatrics Commons

Right click to open a feedback form in a new tab to let us know how this document benefits you.

Repository Citation

Omar, Hatim A., "Starting Off" (2015). Pediatrics Faculty Publications. 228.

https://uknowledge.uky.edu/pediatrics_facpub/228

This Book Chapter is brought to you for free and open access by the Pediatrics at UKnowledge. It has been accepted for inclusion in Pediatrics Faculty Publications by an authorized administrator of UKnowledge. For more information, please contact UKnowledge@lsv.uky.edu.

Starting Off

Notes/Citation Information

Published in Youth Suicide Prevention: Everybody's Business. Hatim A. Omar, (Ed.). p. 7-8.

© Nova Science Publishers, Inc.

The copyright holder has granted the permission for posting the book chapter here.

No part of this digital document may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system or transmitted commercially in any form or by any means. The publisher has taken reasonable care in the preparation of this digital document, but makes no expressed or implied warranty of any kind and assumes no responsibility for any errors or omissions. No liability is assumed for incidental or consequential damages in connection with or arising out of information contained herein. This digital document is sold with the clear understanding that the publisher is not engaged in rendering legal, medical or any other professional services.

Chapter 2

STARTING OFF

*Hatim A Omar, MD

Division of Adolescent Medicine and Young Parent Programs,
Kentucky Clinic, Department of Pediatrics, Kentucky Children's Hospital,
University of Kentucky College of Medicine,
Lexington, Kentucky, United States of America

ABSTRACT

This book is really a reflection of the past 15 years of work with teens and suicide prevention in the state of Kentucky. The work to establish the "Stop Youth Suicide Campaign (SYS)" has resulted in contact with many young adults and we have found that the most important thing for all of them, was finding a caring person they trust and can talk to. Because of the constant need, the SYS went from a goal of one year awareness campaign to a major community resource, to work with the state and local governments and state legislators to add as many resources as possible. We have witnessed for the 1st time a drop of youth suicide rates below the national average according to the 2013 Youth Risk Behavior Surveillance done biannually by the Center for Disease Control. In this book we will tackle various topics and specific populations in relation to suicide written by people who work with teens and care about them.

INTRODUCTION

In December 1999, I received a call from Dr. Dennis Pen, who was the Lexington/Fayette county coroner at the time. He told me that he is feeling desperate, exacerbated and powerless every time he has to deal with the suicide death of an adolescent and wanted to see if there is anything we can do to reduce youth suicide. After many meetings and discussions, we decided to start an awareness campaign in the state and in October 2000, we launched the

* Correspondence: Hatim A Omar, MD, FAAP, Professor of Pediatrics and Obstetrics/Gynecology, Children's Miracle Network Chair, Chief, Division of Adolescent Medicine and Young Parents Program (L412), Kentucky Children's Hospital, UK Healthcare, Department of Pediatrics, University of Kentucky College of Medicine, Lexington, KY 40536, United States. E-mail: haomar2@uky.edu

Stop Youth Suicide Campaign (SYS). At the time, we thought that we would do a full year of awareness on the subject.

We conducted a statewide survey that showed 71% of the respondents knew of someone who committed suicide, yet only 13% knew that suicide was the 2nd leading cause of death among youth in the state. We started a website (stopyouthsuicide.com), partnered with media outlets, schools and churches and this collaboration started the campaign.

Soon after, I started getting requests for help from many teens and I realized that we can help. While there are many suicide prevention programs, the fact remains that most of them rely on identifying those at risk and then referring them to treatment. The first problem with that is that many teens fall in the category of “same day suicide,” meaning kids who could not be identified as at risk, because they do not have any mental health problems. They just run into a problem that feels unsolvable and have no one to turn to. The second problem is that mental health resources are not readily available and when they are present, they are limited by insurance and other factors and teens treated in inpatient facilities for a brief period actually end up with many fold increase in their suicide risk.

FIFTEEN YEARS OF SUICIDE PREVENTION

During the last 15 years, I have worked with an average of 1,000 young adults who asked for help and learned that the most important thing for all of them, was finding a caring person they trust and can talk to. Because of the constant need, the SYS went from a goal of one year awareness campaign to a major community resource that I could not end. From there we went on to work with the state and local governments and state legislators to add as many resources as possible. We have witnessed for the 1st time a drop of youth suicide rates below the national average according to the 2013 Youth Risk Behavior Surveillance done biannually by the Center for Disease Control.

This book will tackle various topics and specific populations in relation to suicide written by people who work with teens and care about them not by people reviewing the literature. Every author has worked with teens and teen suicide for many years and I feel that makes this book different from others.