INTELLIGENCE FILE

Colombians Pablo Escobar and Jorge Ochoa are leaders of the Medellin Cartel, which is responsible for the cocaine entering the U.S. Escobar, known as "El Patrón," is a former car thief and gun for hire who founded his own organization in 1977 and is now believed to be the world's richest criminal. He provides security (police force) for the Cartel. Ochoa, middle-aged and notorious Ochoa clan, once bragged of possessing 4,000 pounds of cocaine a week. The money generated from the sale of cocaine, in excess of $1 billion a day, enable the Cartel to buy influence in Panama's General Manuel Noriega, to allow the cartel to use Panama's airports for profits through Panama's banking system. (He received $200,000 a year from the CIA.)

The Medellin Cartel and the CIA had a relationship. The CIA offered the cartel no customs inspections. The cartel provided the CIA with information on drug traffic.

THESE THINGS ARE DIFFERENT COLORS. CAN YOU TELL THEM?

Marine Lieutenant General Robert Dutton, former Naval War College professor and former CIA official, is a religiously anti-communist. He served as a senior advisor to President Reagan in the White House. He was a member of the Council staff at the time of the Iran-Contra scandal. He is known for his anti-communist views and his role in the Iran-Contra affair.
