2002

Symposium: State Law and Public Health

Kentucky Law Journal

Follow this and additional works at: https://uknowledge.uky.edu/klj
Click here to let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Recommended Citation
Available at: https://uknowledge.uky.edu/klj/vol90/iss4/2

This Title Page is brought to you for free and open access by the Law Journals at UKnowledge. It has been accepted for inclusion in Kentucky Law Journal by an authorized editor of UKnowledge. For more information, please contact UKnowledge@lsv.uky.edu.
This Symposium issue is based upon a conference entitled An Interdisciplinary Conference on State Law and Public Health (“Interdisciplinary Conference”), sponsored by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, the Center for Disease Control, and the Gallion and Baker Professorship in Law and Medicine and held in Lexington, Kentucky on October 19-21, 2001. The Interdisciplinary Conference was presented by the University of Kentucky College of Law, the Kentucky School of Public Health and the University of Kentucky Colleges of Agriculture, Allied Health Professions, Arts and Sciences/Sociology, Martin School of Public Policy and Administration, Dentistry, Medicine, Nursing, Pharmacy and Social Work. Many of the contributions to this Symposium were topics presented during various sessions at the Interdisciplinary Conference. Joshua L. Proffitt, Symposium Editor, and the entire Kentucky Law Journal Editorial Board, would like to give special thanks to Professor Dayna Bowen Matthew, Associate Professor, University of Kentucky College of Law, for all of her hard work in playing such a pivotal role in the organization of the Interdisciplinary Conference and her valuable contributions to this Symposium issue.