Dear Peyton:

I read with interest your letter of September 25, 1972 concerning the Southeastern Chapter Institute on Cataloging and Classification for Library Administrators scheduled for April 1973.

My knowledge of law libraries comprising this area chapter and their use of classification is virtually non-existent. Speaking generally, I believe the idea of acquainting the head law librarian, if not others, with various aspects of classification would appear relevant and useful. The questions you set forth are basic. I might suggest another prime inquiry would deal with the adoption of LC Class K and the options open to placing the remainder of titles which are not classed or can be classed in A-J, L-Z. The decision process posed by your first two questions would be of prime importance; implementation, the last question, would have a varying response which seems to depend on experiences of several law librarians.

Obtaining people with experience might pose a problem. If I could be of any help, full or part-time, I would be glad to participate.

Sincerely yours,

Carleton W. Kenyon
