PERSONALS.

Judge Lafferty who has been confined to his home on account of La Grippe for the past two weeks is able to be with us again. He says he is worth several dead men yet.

Fifteen new men entered the Law Department at the beginning of the second semester making the total enrollment to date 130—the largest in the history of the department.

E. B. Hays, class of 1914, is doing well in the practice with his father at Winchester.

Polk South, class of 1913, was a visitor of his alma mater recently. He has a very lucrative practice at Frankfort.

Guy L. Dickinson, class of '14, is located at Barbourville, Ky.

T. N. House and W. C. Yeager of the class of '14 are at present connected with law firms in Lexington.

Richard Hood is now located at Murray. He says that he is doing as well as could be expected.
The faculty of the law school recently passed a resolution whereby all circuit judges in the state are going to be asked not to permit any student of the law department to take the bar examination, unless he has the written permission of the Dean. It is to be hoped that all Circuit Judges will comply with the request, as often students take the examination, who are not prepared and their lack of preparedness reflects discredit on the Department.

T. B. Kelly, of the class of 1914, has written a letter to Judge Chalkley, in which he states the following:

"I have within the last few days taken and successfully passed the State Bar Examination here in the State of Kansas; therefore, I feel that it is my duty to apprise you of the fact that one more of your students has not failed when the first test came to see whether he had been sufficiently grounded in the law to be entitled to practice. When taking the examination I appreciated more than ever before many things of which I was instructed while in school."

An embryo politician with very little knowledge of the law had been elected Circuit Judge and was hearing his first case. He had a lawyer friend sitting at his feet prompting him. At the conclusion of the testimony, the lawyer whispered and told the judge to charge the jury. After a few moments deliberation the judge turned to the jury and said:

"Gentlemen of the Jury, owing to the fact that this has been a long, arduous trial, and the weather has been very warm, I am inclined to be lenient with you and will only charge you to the amount of 25 cents a piece."

A KNOWING JUDGE.

In his early days as a lawyer in Paterson, Senator William Hughes was arguing a case before an alderman who had been given a petty judgeship and who knew no law.

The embryo senator made a point.

"Where'd you git that law?" asked the judge puffed with importance.

"If your honor please," Hughes replied, "it appears in the celebrated case of Hink versus Dink, reported, as your honor no doubt is well aware, on page 153 of the ninety-ninth New Jersey reports."

"All right," replied the judge. "I only wanted to see if you knewed where it was."—Saturday Evening Post.
