From Books to Binary: Supporting the Agricultural Mission in the 21st Century

Antoinette Paris Powell
University of Kentucky, toni.greider@uky.edu

Click here to let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Follow this and additional works at: https://uknowledge.uky.edu/libraries_present

Part of the Library and Information Science Commons

Repository Citation
https://uknowledge.uky.edu/libraries_present/42

This Presentation is brought to you for free and open access by the University of Kentucky Libraries at UKnowledge. It has been accepted for inclusion in Library Presentations by an authorized administrator of UKnowledge. For more information, please contact UKnowledge@lsv.uky.edu.
From Books to Binary

Supporting the Agricultural Mission in the 21st Century
The Agriculture Library at the University of Kentucky ceased to exist and the Agricultural Information Center was born. This service center was the culmination of nearly a decade of planning.
Agricultural Information Center

- Hybrid of corporate and academic information enterprises
- Focus on information services and satisfying the client
- Designed to meet changing user needs
Traditional Facilities

- Reference/Reading Room
- Information Desk
- Individual Carrels
- PCs for Information Use
Traditional Library Services

- Reference Service
- Access to Electronic Databases
- Document Access and Delivery
- Reserve Book Option
- Book Check In/Out
- Information Literacy
Teaching Support

- Interactive training room
- General microcomputing facilities
- Group study rooms wired for video delivery
- Ample network connections (either hardwire or wireless) for laptop use
Research/Extension Support

- On Site Training
- Information Profiles
- Information Pointers
- Aggressive/Proactive Training
- Desk Top Delivery of Resources
- User Input into Services
The Idea

1989--1993

- Committee appointed
- Feedback from the College gathered
- Strategic Plan for Library Information Services submitted to the Dean
The Idea
1994--1998

- Second Committee formed and reaffirms the strategic plan
- Strategic Plan drafted into a concept paper
The Plan

→ Outlined functions
→ Outlined staffing
→ Outlined the services expected
The Plan Included

→ User driven services

→ Better group space to foster collaboration and interaction
The Plan--1995

- Plan endorsed by all Department Chairs
- Plan circulated to Departments and feedback sought
The Plan--1996

→ Ideas from the concept paper were superimposed on the existing library space
→ Space design begins
→ Feedback sought from all groups
Feedback--Research and Extension

- Needed 24 hour access to materials
- Needed training to take advantage of the desk top services
Feedback--Students

→ Needed a place to get help with their information needs
→ Needed a place to study
→ Needed a place to access computers
→ Needed a place to work together
Awareness--1998

- Large window display
- Worked the faculty meeting circuit
- Put all documents on the Web site
- Unveiled a new website
- Plans sent to all 120 county offices
- One-on-one with faculty and students
Concurrent Activities

- Working with the main library to integrate the book collection
- Staff re-engineering themselves for the new environment
- Looking for funding to do the project
How Are We Doing?

- New PCs and a print system were put in
- Aggressive training of our undergraduate users accomplished
- New reading room constructed and a wireless network has been installed
How Are We Doing?

- Staff retraining continues
- Construction continues
- Aggressive training for graduate and faculty being planned
- New online journals added daily as well as new networked services
How Are We Doing?

- 24 hour access of materials accomplished
- Focus groups to develop training on the research level being organized
- Collaborative and group study space provided
Lessons Learned

- Listen to your users
- Do not be too hasty in saying “We can’t do that”
- Be flexible in your planning because things change
Most Of All--Go With The Flow

→ Maintain your patience and your sense of humor and remember working together is the key to success