NOTE TO USERS OF THIS INDEX

This Index is designed for use not only with the Union List of Serials (ULS) and the Union Catalogue of the Periodical Publications in the University Libraries of the British Isles (UCP) but also with the forthcoming British Union Catalogue of Periodicals (BUCOP). Cross references are given to ULS and UCP only, but when BUCOP has been published, the user of this Index may assume that the cross references to UCP are valid also for BUCOP. Furthermore, he may assume that in many cases BUCOP, which will list the holdings of many British libraries not covered by UCP, records titles not found in UCP and hence should be consulted even in the absence of a cross reference.

Certain precautions which the user of this Index should take when associating symbols with libraries (and especially those preceded by an asterisk) are set forth at the end of this list of co-operating libraries.

Note 1:

Fortunately my adoption of the library symbols employed by ULS and BUCOP did not lead to a single case of duplication when the American and British libraries co-operating with this Index were combined into one list. In seven instances, however, libraries listed in ULS (but not in this Index) have the same symbols as other libraries which co-operated with this Index and BUCOP. It is unlikely that confusion will arise because of this duplication, but a word of caution can hardly be amiss.

- AU = Aberdeen University
- C = Cambridge University
- DA = Royal Irish Academy
- DL = National Library of Ireland
- GU = Glasgow University
- LU = London University
- NNG = Office of Nottingham Guardian
- V = Virginia State Library
- WIP = Wigan Public Library
- WmP = Westminster Public Library
- WnP = Winchester Public Library
- WoP = Woolwich Public Library
- WtP = Warrington Public Library
- WtLE = Whitehaven Public Library
- WtP = Whitehaven Public Library
- WufP = Waterford Municipal Library
- WvP = Wolverhampton Public Library
- WwP = Warwick Public Library
- WwWW = Warwick Office of Warwick and Warwickshire Advertiser
- WxC = Wexford County Libraries
- WxOC = Wexford Office of M. J. O’Connor, Solicitors
- WP = York Public Library
- YXH = York Office of Yorkshire Herald
- YeWG = Yeovil Office of Western Gazette

Note 2:

A possible source of confusion (especially for British users) arises from the fact that the symbols to be used in the forthcoming BUCOP (and hence the symbols in this Index) do not always signify the same libraries that they do in UCP. Five of these symbols are used in this Index. (When BUCOP is published, this problem, of course, will cease to exist.)

- E = National Library of Scotland in this Index and BUCOP, but Edinburgh University in UCP
- L = British Museum in this Index and BUCOP, but London University in UCP
- LP = Patent Office in this Index and BUCOP, but School of Pharmacy in UCP
- LS = Royal College of Surgeons in this Index and BUCOP, but School of Slavonic Studies in UCP
- LU = London University in this Index and BUCOP, but University College in UCP

During the past quarter of a century the rapid growth of interest in the periodical literature of the past has emphasized increasingly the need for specialized hand lists. The American Union List of Serials and the British Union Catalogue of the Periodical Publications in the University Libraries of the British Isles are indispensable and will continue to be so; but to search their pages for periodicals published in the United Kingdom during any given period is a tedious and time-consuming task. Furthermore, even when used in combination with other existing lists these volumes by no means provide a definitive list of newspapers and periodicals. The ULS, for example, is far from complete when listing the British newspapers held by libraries in the United States and Canada; the UCP limits itself to eighty-three university libraries in the British Isles. And all others are characterized by one sort of limitation or another: Crane and Kaye's Census does not go beyond the year 1800; the Tercentenary Handlist is based largely on the British Museum and omits Scottish and Irish newspapers and periodicals; Felix Sper's The Periodical Press of London is limited to London theatrical and literary periodicals for the years 1800-1830; and the World List of Scientific Periodicals and Leiper's Periodicals of Medicine and Allied Sciences in British Libraries restrict themselves to periodicals of a scientific character.

Thus it was that while working on a problem requiring an examination of the British periodicals of the English Romantic period I resolved to prepare a finding list of the periodicals published during this period (for which the dates 1789-1832 have been adopted) and to indicate in what libraries, both American and British, they may be found. A seven-month stay in the British Isles in 1938 enabled me to make a substantial start on the list, but teaching duties and a war with its aftermath caused ten years to pass before much more could be done. A return to the British Isles has not been possible, but the friendly cooperation of many people has enabled me to achieve a degree of thoroughness that I dared not hope for at one time. Statistically speaking, more than 260 public and private libraries in the United Kingdom and Eire have been kind enough to respond to my inquiries; and some 94 newspapers whose inception dates lie between 1789 and 1832 have been good enough to reply to my queries about newspaper files. In the United States and Canada approximately 70 libraries with British newspaper holdings have responded to my inquiries; and in the United Kingdom and Eire some 20 university libraries have reported holdings supplementary to UCP. To these may be added some 15 principal American libraries and a like number of major metropolitan libraries in the United Kingdom and Eire which I have been able to examine personally. By no means did every one of these 475 libraries and newspaper offices have files for the years 1789-1832, but 359 of them did. Of this number some 280 are represented in no existing finding list; the remainder appear in some list but are repeated here in order to correct errors, give fuller information, or list new holdings. And to these libraries and newspaper offices are to be added the libraries which co-operated with ULS and UCP, for a cross reference is always given to them when they record library holdings for the periodical in question.

In all, then, when one adds the 600 libraries co-operating in ULS, the 475 in my Index, and the 83 in UCP, some 1080 libraries and newspaper offices (after duplications are allowed for) have been investigated. But even so, a final and definitive list of the periodicals published in the United Kingdom and Eire between 1789 and 1832 has not been achieved. Co-operating libraries, for one thing, are bound to have overlooked a few items; but more important, a number of libraries and newspapers have declined to report their holdings; and in still other cases rare and unique items are certain to exist in private hands or in libraries or newspaper offices of which I am ignorant or to which it did not occur to me to write.

Some inconvenience may arise from the fact that the libraries listed by ULS and UCP are not relisted here. Instead, a cross reference to these volumes is given whenever a periodical is listed by them. Such a system, of course, usually requires the American student to supplement this volume with the ULS, and frequently requires the British student to do likewise with UCP. As an explanation and apology for such inconvenience I can only say that any other method than the one employed would have been so costly as to prevent the list from ever being published.

It has just been explained that this list is geared, so to speak, for use with ULS and UCP. It should be explained also that it may be used in combination with the forthcoming British Union Catalogue of Periodicals, publication of which is scheduled for about 1955. In fact, in so far as my list duplicates libraries covered by BUCOP I have adopted the symbols to be used in that monumental work; and in choosing symbols for libraries not investigated by BUCOP I have been assisted by its editorial staff so that conflicting symbols would be avoided.

One of the painful things about preparing a list such as this is the compiler’s constant awareness of its defects. Not only are some good files bound to escape his notice, but errors are certain to occur: in reports from libraries; in transcribing this information; in untangling complicated histories of some newspapers and periodicals; and so on. Occasionally, too, data must remain incomplete. Thus it is sometimes impossible to determine with certainty the dates of the initial and final issues of a given serial, so that in some instances the dates assigned are merely those of the longest runs reported. And besides errors of this sort which are assumed to have occurred, certain other limitations are known to exist. For example, the listing of almanacs, yearbooks, reports, transactions, proceedings, and the like is less definitive than that of newspapers and periodicals in the more usual journalistic sense of those words. No serial of any sort has been omitted intentionally, but responses from libraries make it clear that variant practices were adopted in determining what should be reported. Inversely, some titles almost certainly have been included that should have been omitted. For one thing, it has not always been possible to examine every serial before including it. Again, as observed in another connection, different standards are applied by different libraries in determining what is considered to be a serial and what is not. And still another source of error is the fact that not all of the war damages and losses have been finally assessed. A few libraries which I had investigated in 1938 have had to be re-examined, but it is probably safe to say that in some cases losses have not been discovered, or at least not recorded, and that in others the library’s advice that a certain file “will soon be replaced” was based on a hope never actually to be realized.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

To enumerate all the librarians and others who have assisted me in the preparation of this Index would be all but impossible. I can only say that from first to last I encountered a spirit of helpfulness and graciousness that was unfailing. Many times I had little choice but to impose unreasonable requests upon a library or newspaper office; yet almost without exception my embarrassed appeal was met with a warm reception that never ceased to astonish me.

Many, many persons deserve separate mention, but my particular thanks to the few must stand for the many. Especially am I indebted to the following for the practical assistance which they have given me and for their advice and encouragement: Dr. Harry M. Lydenberg, Director Emeritus of the New York Public Library; Mrs. Winifred Gregory Gerould, Editor of the Union List of Serials; Dr. R.H. Hayes, Director of the National Library of Ireland; Mr. Robert Bain, late Director of the Mitchell Library, Glasgow; Mr. C.B. Oldman, Principal Keeper, the British Museum; the late Alfred Loewenberg, Editor of the British Union Catalogue of Periodical Publications; Mr. James D. Stewart, Dr. Loewenberg's successor, and still Editor of BUCOP; and Dr. Hill Shine, Professor of English, and Miss Norma Cass, Reference Librarian, both of the University of Kentucky.

For permission to list holdings as well as for the assistance which they have rendered I am indebted also to every library whose name appears in this Index. To the Royal Society in London, therefore, to the London Library, the British Museum, the National Libraries of Scotland and Ireland, the Royal Dublin Society, the Mitchell Library, the John Rylands Library, the Literary and Philosophical Society and the Society of Antiquaries in Newcastle-upon-Tyne, and to the Public Libraries of Birmingham, Bolton, Brighton, Bristol, Cardiff, Dundee, Edinburgh, Gloucester, Leeds, Liverpool, Plymouth, Sheffield, Worcester, and the other public, private, newspaper, church, school, and university libraries that have given me kind assistance I express my thanks.

There are four people in particular to whom I owe a personal debt of gratitude. One of these is the late Newman I. White, of Duke University, who first stimulated my interest in periodicals and who as director of my first serious researches gave me a concept of literary scholarship that extends beyond the footnotes at the bottom of the page. Another is Dr. Sylvia L. England, of London, whom I have met only through the scores of letters we have exchanged, but without whose careful and interested assistance this Index would be far more incomplete than it is. And most of all I express my sincere thanks to my wife and my mother for the multitude of ways in which they have given their help. By their encouragement and by their assistance in checking and rechecking the thousands of dates, volume numbers, and library symbols contained in these pages they have made my labors much lighter.

PROCEDURES, ABBREVIATIONS, AND SYMBOLS

1. The following ULS definition of a serial has been adopted: "A publication issued in successive parts, usually at regular intervals, and, as a rule, intended to be continued indefinitely."

2. A serial not published by a society or other institution or agency is entered under the first word, not an article, of the title.

3. A serial published by a society, etc., but having a distinctive title, is entered under the title without reference to the name of the society.

4. The transactions, minutes, reports, proceedings, journals, abstracts, etc., of a society or other institution are entered under the first word, not an article, of the name of the society.

5. Title, place of publication, volume and/or number, initial and final dates, and frequency of publication are given in that order in so far as they are known with reasonable certainty.

6. In cases where there are title changes, the title chosen for the main entry is the one by which the serial was known in 1789 or at the time of its inception if this comes later than 1789. Each changed title is given in alphabetical order, with cross reference to the proper main entry.

7. The inception title and any changes of title prior to 1789 or after 1832 are given in summary form.

8. In general, all title changes have been recorded when they are known. When the change is restricted to minor alterations in the subtitle only, however, this fact is indicated as follows: "subtitle varies slightly." And in a few cases part of a title is placed within parentheses to suggest that the word or words so enclosed were used during only a portion of the serial's history.

9. Libraries reported in ULS and UCP are repeated only if by doing so an error can be corrected or important fuller information be given.

10. Libraries in the United States and Canada which have holdings follow an italicized lower-case a. When the serial in question is listed in the Union List of Serials or its Supplement, this fact is indicated by writing ULS or ULSup before listing individual libraries.

11. Libraries in the United Kingdom and Eire which have holdings follow an italicized lower-case b. When the serial in question is listed in the Union Catalogue of Periodical Publications in the University Libraries of the British Isles, this fact is indicated by writing UCP before listing individual libraries.

12. In so far as libraries co-operating with this list duplicate those co-operating with the forthcoming British Union Catalogue of Periodicals, the symbols used in that volume have been adopted.

13. a. In indicating the completeness of files for most serials (all except newspapers), the procedure is relatively simple:
(1) If a library symbol stands alone, the file may be assumed to be complete.
(2) Imperfect files are explained individually.

b. In indicating the completeness of newspaper files (in which the frequency of issue makes detailed listings impossible) a fourfold scheme of classification is used:
(1) If a library symbol stands alone, or if it is followed by a date, the file for the period in question may be assumed to be complete or to lack no more than one or two issues.
(2) If a library symbol is followed by a date enclosed within parentheses, it may be assumed that the file is incomplete but that it lacks no more than one-third of the total number of issues for the period indicated.
(3) If a library symbol is followed by a date enclosed within brackets, it may be assumed that the file lacks more than one-third but not more than two-thirds of the total number of issues for the period indicated.
(4) Files with fewer than one-third of the total number of issues are handled as individual cases. If, for example, good or complete runs are rather easily accessible, widely scattered numbers are ignored altogether. If, on the other hand, good sets are rare or nonexistent, broken files are given, but with some such notation as "sc. nos." (scattered numbers) or else some actual listing of the individual numbers themselves.

14. If an initial or final date is unknown, the fact is indicated by means of a question mark within brackets: thus [?]-1806-1818-[?]. When a terminal date is entered but there is reason to consider it doubtfully correct, the fact is indicated by means of a slanting line followed by a question mark: thus 1816-1821/?.

15. If an initial or final date is unknown but can be conjectured with reasonable certainty, the date so assigned is placed within brackets: thus [1797]-1824.

Note 1:

Fortunately my adoption of the library symbols employed by ULS and BUCOP did not lead to a single case of duplication when the American and British libraries co-operating with this Index were combined into one list. In seven instances, however, libraries listed in ULS (but not in this Index) have the same symbols as other libraries which co-operated with this Index and BUCOP. It is unlikely that confusion will arise because of this duplication, but a word of caution can hardly be amiss.

Note 2:

A possible source of confusion (especially for British users) arises from the fact that the symbols to be used in the forthcoming BUCOP (and hence the symbols in this Index) do not always signify the same libraries that they do in UCP. Five of these symbols are used in this Index. (When BUCOP is published, this problem, of course, will cease to exist.)
