i grow weary:
a poem in at least two movements i grow weary of my vanity i grow weary of others' vanity i grow weary of its strategic necessity i grow weary of the competitive culture of narcissistic aesthetes i grow weary how predictability prevails i grow weary of patterns i can't seem to break i grow weary that [can] no one [can] surprise me? i grow weary that [am] i [am] bereft of the ability to be surprised?

i grow weary of unavailable men, unavailable bodies i grow weary how they write on me, into my flesh i grow weary of this pain, this pain i grow weary that my body is its canvass i grow weary that it is a surface of surfaces on which the breadth of an endemic melancholy takes shape
i grow weary of it writing forlorn and tattered histories, the tumultuous placidity of my body railing's against a current of satisfying i grow weary of its destruction i grow weary that it won't stop i grow weary that it can't stop i grow weary that it don't stop i grow weary how they taunt me, torture me i grow weary that i must carve this poem into my skin dirty tattoo, uneasy religion what forces compel i grow weary of the subtle energies of the universe (to) (that) penetrate me? forces i collide with forces i cannot stop forces that challenge my sanity

i grow weary
oh my
