Beyond the Shelf
Serving historic Kentuckiana through digital access

Presented by:
Becky Ryder – Head of Preservation
Kopana Terry – Image Management Specialist
April 3, 2003
What we're doing!

We are creating a fully searchable digital page image archive of rare historic Kentuckiana books using a microfilm to digital methodology.
Who cares about it?

- Students, teachers and scholars will use this material to support their research and teaching.

- Programs are in development for K-12 students

In short, we’re making good stuff for the right reason, the right way.
How does this preserve anything?

- Microfilm ensures preservation
- Digital images ensure easy access and wide distribution

This hybrid, standards based non-proprietary approach can serve as a model for cost effective access and preservation for published materials!
What are these “historic Kentuckiana” books anyway?
Includes printed books and pamphlets relating to Kentucky history or the lives of Kentuckians at home

No poetry and fiction

No magazine or newspaper articles

No manuscripts

No books that bear Kentucky imprints without direct historic relations
And these books are where?

They’re trapped in libraries by ogre librarians with cattle prods and water torture instruments just daring someone to ask to see one!

(and don’t even think about touching it!)
And then The Liberation!!!

- God bless microfilm and interlibrary loans!
- CPMP (SOLINET)
- Cataloguing
- NEDCC
- Preservation Resources
- RLG/ANSI/AIIM standards adopted
Access is wonderful!

GONG
Um, hello...

We want digital files so we don’t have to leave our homes

Whine Wine Whine Wine
(Would you like some cheese with that whine?)
“Okay”, we said, “You want it, we’ll make it... but don’t make this a habit!”
First question: Do we create files from –

- Source documents (which are likely brittle, bound and guarded by that ogre librarian with the nasty cattle prod) or.....

- Microfilm (leaving the master neg in the vault where it’s safe while using the service neg, or print master, that’s used to make boring paper copies)?
The choice was obvious

- The pilot project proved that microfilm is the fastest and safest method to provide access while preserving the source documents.

- So, we sat down, wrote a grant proposal to IMLS and, voila, a program was born!

(insert Barbara Streisand singing Evergreen here)
Right, so, how do we make these things?

- First we scan!
  - Mekel M525 scanner
    - Using the service master negative
    - Manual scans instead of automatic
    - Scanner splits images into their respective pages

[Image of computer and scanner]
Quality Control (QC) is key

- Image Management Specialists use a wide variety of software to create images suitable for viewing.

- Project Manager and computer guru, Eric Weig, has a final look at files to insure that only the best possible images are posted.
Quality Control (QC) is key

- Scan Fix
- Photoshop
- ACDDSee
- Image Converter
- Rename

Eric Weig created several special programs that are used in addition to those above.
And then what happens?
OCR (Optical Character Recognition)

Software creates text from the scanned images that assist keyword search-ability.

Encoding

placed on each OCR’d text. Provides “book structure” and keyword search-ability.
It’s all about access…. and cataloguing, (of course)

How does one navigate these books?

History belongs to the category of annals. The author of the book makes little attempt at rhetorical display but this is in keeping with the quiet, self-sacrificing lives led by the members of the institution whose story she traces—Saint Catharine of Sienna, near Springfield, Kentucky. Indeed the simple, easy style in which the volume is written lends an added charm to the narrative of the life-work of a body of religious women that cannot fail to be of no small interest to American readers. The Church of Kentucky is the mother of three of our most noted communities of sisters, Loretto, Nazareth and Saint Catharine of Sienna. All three were American-born. There, too, was matured the design of establishing the Xaverian Brothers, although it was conceived and given birth in Belgium. The history of early Catholicity in the state of Kentucky is as a chap-
