Authority control, in brief

- Gathers all works by the same author under the same access point
- Distinguishes between people / corporate bodies with similar or identical names
- Distinguishes or collocates works with different titles and editions
- Provides standard terminology for concepts that can be expressed with several different terms or that could be potentially confusing
“[NACO participants] benefit from a reduction in the cataloging burden on a local scale through collective efforts on a global scale.”

NACO: a few facts

710 members (Sept. 2014)
209 institutional members
501 funnel members in 37 funnels

Name authority records contributed, FY 2014

Participants are encouraged to bring examples from their cataloging work for hands-on practice and contribution.

June 1–5, 2015

UK Libraries will host NACO training for staff from Morehead, Marshall, UK, WVU, and WKU.
Why participate?

- Reduce cost of cataloging operations by increasing the number of authority records that can be used with little or no local editing
  - More participants → lower cataloging cost
- Utility of any catalog dependent on uniform and unique headings as access points
- Cataloging is labor intensive: shared efforts make it less so
- Implements cataloging skills for catalogers and paraprofessionals
- Receive initial and ongoing training by experienced NACO trainers at minimal cost
- Interact with co-participants through numerous meetings and listservs
- Shape the future of cataloging practice by developing and reviewing standards
What to contribute?

- Locally established headings
- Materials not cataloged by LOC
- State government publications
- Curriculum materials
- Self-published materials
- Materials of local interest
- Materials published by smaller presses
- Oral histories
- Genealogical materials
- Institutional archives
- Rare materials
- Institutional works: theses, dissertations, professors’ publications
UK Libraries’ authority workflow

- Performed in-house by staff across CTS Division
- Purchase the Peter Ward LC Subject Authority List
- Perform retrospective conversion:
  - Reports of unauthorized NARs of all types, cross-references
  - OCLC Authority Record Updates RSS feed
  - Monthly Music Cataloging Bulletin

NACO AV–funnel training was offered at OLAC 2014 conference. I attended, funded by the 2014 KLA–Academic Professional Development Grant
