Mary Boewe's "Mark Twain Anonymous" is her fifth publication about that author and one result of her ongoing study of the marriage of Olivia Langdon and Samuel L. Clemens. Mrs. Boewe, of Louisville, Kentucky, is now completing a biography titled Daughter of the Century: Alice Hegan Rice and Her Cabbage Patch World, in which Mark Twain is a minor figure.

Burton Milward, Jr., an attorney practicing in Louisville, Kentucky, is the author of several law-related books, including Reversible Error in Kentucky Criminal Cases (1987), Kentucky Criminal Practice (1984), Kentucky Legal Research (1983), and Criminal Practice, Baldwin's Kentucky Practice, Vol. 2 (1980). Several of Mr. Milward's poems have also been published.

George Mitchell, Democrat, of Maine, is the Majority Leader of the United States Senate. Admitted to the bar in 1960, Senator Mitchell has worked in private practice, served as a U.S. attorney and as a U.S. district judge. He served recently as a member of the U.S. Senate Select Committee on Secret Military Assistance to Iran and the Nicaraguan Opposition.

William S. Ward is Professor Emeritus in English at the University of Kentucky, where he served as chairman of the department (1951-1964) and was named Distinguished Professor in the College of Arts and Sciences for 1972-1973. He is the author of six volumes dealing with the periodicals and literary reviews of the Age of Wordsworth. In retirement he has turned to the study of Kentucky literature and in November 1988 published A Literary History of Kentucky.

Amry Vandenbosch, appointed Distinguished Professor at the University of Kentucky in 1948, is a former chairman of the Department of Political Science and a former Director of the Patterson School of Diplomacy. Dr. Vandenbosch is the author of The Dutch East Indies: Its Government, Problems, and Politics (1933) and Dutch Foreign Policy Since 1815: A Study in Small Power Politics (1959). He has also contributed to numerous learned journals.
