1990

[Review of] Who Wrote That Song?

Robert A. Aken

University of Kentucky, robaken@uky.edu

Click here to let us know how access to this document benefits you.

Follow this and additional works at: https://uknowledge.uky.edu/libraries_facpub

Part of the Collection Development and Management Commons, and the Music Commons

Repository Citation

https://uknowledge.uky.edu/libraries_facpub/220

This Review is brought to you for free and open access by the University of Kentucky Libraries at UKnowledge. It has been accepted for inclusion in Library Faculty and Staff Publications by an authorized administrator of UKnowledge. For more information, please contact UKnowledge@lsv.uky.edu.
[Review of] Who Wrote That Song?

Notes/Citation Information
Published in American Reference Books Annual, v. 21, p. 540-541.

[Review of] Who Wrote That Song? by Robert A. Aken. Copyright (c) 1990 by ABC-CLIO, LLC. All rights reserved. Reproduced with permission of ABC-CLIO, LLC, Santa Barbara, CA.

Jacobs, an arranger and conductor of popular music for the last 40 years, has brought together over 12,000 American popular song titles ranging from the 1850s through the 1980s. Arranged alphabetically, each song title listing includes the year the song was written; the composer, lyricist, and performer (or group); and who introduced it and popularized it. However, the entries do not include the albums on which the song appears—useful information included in the standard work Popular Music.
“32 A: ABDCE2A T611 f the first violin part are er. An index to composers which identify eighteenth-vss to this body of musical the popular songs found in h music houses and trade nd a composer and lyricist stitution is used as well as ic, folk music, children's difficulty with the book is would be useful but also ction. Other ideas that d and perhaps trying toy into one alphabetical k Contemporary Album 9.30. ML156.4.P6H589. compile data contained (1975-1987). Technically habetical list by artist or and weeks on chart. This etically and identifies the es use. Specific organiintroduction.

other reference source, ic. Reference librarians ular music. The browser of appendixes (e.g., must re a rich source of trivia.
ARRY G. CHRISMAN
 8-7; 1-55870-100-1paars, has brought together 80s. Arranged alphabetpozer, lyricist, and per-tories do not include the ard work Popular Music

(see ARBA 86, entry 1281), which covers the entire twentieth century and adds 500 new titles in annual supplements. Jacobs provides some cross-reference listings of songwriters although users must know variant forms; songs by Sting are listed under both Sting and Gordon Sumner with no cross-references.
The index is of little use, listing the beginning and ending pages for each letter of the alphabet (e.g., E songs, pp. 64-68) and page numbers for short reminiscences by the author. Popular Music indexes albums, movies, musicals, television shows, and performers. Jacobs's coverage is extensive, but some basic titles are missing. John Prine's "Chinatown" is included, but not "Paradise"; Steven Stills's "Love the One You're With" is absent; and the only titles listing Joan Armatrading, Elvis Costello, and Stevie Nicks are "Your Letter," "Alison," and "I Can't Wait," respectively. A quiz (with answers); a list of Academy, Grammy, and Songwriters Awards; and a collection of photographs (mostly of the author) add little to the reference value of this work. Owners of Popular Music or Roger Lax and Frederick Smith's The Great Song Thesaurus (see ARBA 85, entry 1173), which covers over 11,000 titles with a year-by-year listing and access by medium of performance, subject, key lyric line, and composer, will earn little by adding this title. [R: Choice, Feb 89, p. 922; LJ, Jan 89, p. 79; RBB 1 Mar 89, pp. 1119-20]
—ROBERT AKEN