CONTRIBUTORS

James D. Birchfield is Assistant Director of Libraries for Collection Development at the University of Kentucky. He was formerly Curator of Rare Books at the University of Kentucky and Curator of the John Mackay Shaw Collection at Florida State University. He has written in the fields of literature, art, architectural history, bibliography, and collecting.

Patrick A. Snadon is an Associate Professor in the College of Architecture at Mississippi State University. From 1980 to 1989 he taught interior design at the University of Kentucky and, during that time, participated in various historic preservation projects. These included the Brennan House in Louisville, Loudoun, Waveland, the Bodley-Bullock House, the Gaines Center for the Humanities, and the Senator Pope Villa in Lexington. He served on the State Historic Preservation Review Board and on the Board of Directors of the Blue Grass Trust. In 1989 he received the Ida Lee Willis Memorial Award for the Preservation of Kentucky’s Cultural Resources.

Samuel W. Thomas is a Louisville historian with a long interest in preservation and a particular association with the restorations of Locust Grove and the Jefferson County Courthouse. He has been archivist of Jefferson County and author of such books as Views of Louisville Since 1766, Louisville Since the Twenties, and Crescent Hill Revisited.
